REVOLT ENDED; CUBA LOOKS TO U. S. FOR HELP

Sees Prosperity in Sugar Tariff Cut.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 15.—Sugar prices, taxes and tariffs are expected to be the first problems to be attacked by the administration of President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, which replaced the government of the deposed president, Gerardo Machado, following the latter's flight to the Bahamas last Saturday.

Cuba was back to normal today after its orgy of killing and looting following the overthrow of the Machado régime. Here in Havana cafés were filled with Cubans reading newspapers and sipping coffee. A heavy rainstorm in the afternoon washed from the sidewalks reminders of the bloodshed of Saturday and Sunday.

Hope for Rise in Sugar Price.

Dr. de Cespedes and other government leaders spent the day reorganizing departments and setting up details of the new government, while business men in Havana began to speculate on the economic fruits of the revolution.

If the price of sugar can be hoisted a cent or a cent and a half a pound, many theorized, Cuba will again be deluged with prosperity. The United States' tariff on Cuban sugar is two cents, and Havana men are saying that if this can be reduced or abolished the island's great industry will start to get on its feet again.

The argument advanced here is that by reducing Cuba's sugar tariff, Cuba's purchases from the United States will be increased and the island will again become a good customer.

Cuba in Tariff War.

In the race among the nations of the world to build retaliatory tariff walls, Cuba increased its schedules. After the Smoot-Hawley act had raised the tariff on Cuban sugar from 1.76 cents a pound to 2 cents, the Machado régime raised its old rates from 50 to 70 per cent on the argument that it would give industries a chance to grow on the island.

Cuba, however, is essentially agricultural and the new industries did not show much growth. Authentic figures are difficult to obtain with the government records all upset, but business men say that Cuban imports from the United States and exports to the United States dropped more than 80 per cent between 1921 and 1922.

The depression, of course, was a great factor, but the tariff is accounted one essential factor by Cuban business and commerce.

Seek New Tariff Pact.

It is conjectured that one of the first items on the program of President de Cespedes will be to seek a new reciprocal agreement with the United States which will make adjustments. At present Cuba has a 20 per cent preference in the United States tariff act, but Cubans say this is not sufficient to restore business conditions.

Refunding of the national debt is also a prime question. Havana business men declare that one economic cause of the recent passive resistance strike to oust the Machado régime was the fact that the island is paying $1,500,000 a month in interest and amortization on debts estimated to approximate between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000.

With a population of 3,900,000, keeping up these payments has meant the imposition of many special taxes which merchants and shopkeepers deemed burdensome.

Piled Up by Public Works.

The biggest part of this debt was piled up by the $100,000,000 public works projects which made Machado a popular idol a few years ago. Financing was done through loans from the Chase National bank of New York with a short period of amortization. The proposal now is to seek refinancing to spread the payment over 20 or 30 years and let the coming generation have a share in paying for the great highways and public improvements built under Machado.

It is argued that this would enable the De Cespedes government to knock out some of the special taxes. As a matter of fact, Cuba has comparatively small taxation rates on general property, but the scale of living is lower here.

Meanwhile, diplomats wrestled with questions which are duck soup for diplomats. One is whether the revolution was a revolution or whether it was a change in government that followed certain requirements laid down

EXTORTION PAIR ESCAPE PLANES AND 250 POLICE

Whole Countryside in Uproar.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Two hundred and fifty policemen, deputy sheriffs and federal agents, with planes, squad cars, machine guns and bombs, spent four futile hours yesterday afternoon pursuing two kidnapers in western Cook county by land and air.

Thousands of acres of forest preserve were beaten over, hundreds of automobiles were searched and about one-quarter of the population of the villages around La Grange turned out to watch two police planes zooming over the timberlands while squad cars raced the highways and machine gunners beat down the brush.

The Fugitives Get Away.

It was termed by observers the most fantastic police hunt in the history of Illinois. For the two kidnapers, baited by the promise of collecting a second $50,000 ransom from Jake Factor, already the subject of many a tale, rose to the bait, snatched a decoy ransom package from two policemen disguised as a telegraph messenger and a cab driver and, in spite of planes, squad cars, machine guns and bombs, got away unscathed.

Trapped at one stage of the pursuit on a mile of highway between four squad cars, they dodged back and forth in their own automobile like a base runner in a ball game and wriggled out of the trap. Pursued thence by the planes with a machine gunning policeman in each ship, the kidnapers got into the cover of the forest preserve and abandoned their car.

Tricks Farmer and Escapes.

While the whole district resounded with the roar of the planes, the shriek of sirens, and the occasional sputter of firearms, one of the fugitives dodged into a farmer's house, said his wife had found him with his sweetheart in the forest preserve, and begged the farmer to drive him to a Maywood street car line for a $10 bill. The farmer obliged and one phase of the police hunt was thus reduced to naught.

The second fugitive, less adroit than his comrade, squirmed through the brush of the woods while the searchers in the circling planes were scrutinizing Boy Scouts and campers. In the end he found a convenient gully carrying a creek under a highway bridge and skulked along the underbrush until out of the invested area.

Three Days of Plans.

Plans for the baiting and capture of the extortionists were in the making for three days by the Scotland Yard detail of the Chicago police department. Participating were Sergt. Michael Naughton, head of Scotland Yard; William Schoemaker, chief of detectives, and Melvin H. Purvis, head of the Chicago division of the United States bureau of investigation.

Scotland Yard had been keeping a tap on Factor's telephone line. Over the tap they learned that the same gang which had collected $50,000 in the kidnaping of Factor's son, Jerome, and then had collected the same ransom for the father, was demanding that Factor hand over a third $50,000. The federal men enlisted Factor's coöperation.

Factor Has No Choice.

The former Halsted street barber, who is accused of swindling British investors out of $7,000,000 in stock promotions, had no choice but to cooperate, for the authorities withheld their demand for his coöperation until the wire tappers had learned the ransom collection plans down to the last detail.

They knew the extortionists had instructed Factor to pass them the money by the hands of a Western Union messenger riding in a Checker cab. They knew that the vicinity designated for the transaction was near the intersection of Wolf road and Ogden avenue, west of La Grange, the same neighborhood where Factor's friends had paid his ransom.

Gang Seeks Defense Fund.

They knew that a telegraph messenger and a Checker driver had figured in that ransom payment. They were convinced that those members of the Touhy gang who were still at large were demanding this additional $50,000 to finance the defense of their leader, Roger Touhy, and three of his men, now government prisoners under indictment for the kidnaping of the millionaire St. Paul brewer, William Hamm Jr.

In only one respect, the wire tappers gleaned, would the new ransom collection differ from the others. In

Girl Slain by Machine Gun from Plane

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Overzealous members of the British royal air force reserve today were responsible for the death of a young girl who was killed by machine gun bullets while riding in a rowboat. She was returning to shore with her sister after retrieving a rubber ball lost by a crying child on the beach.

The tragedy occurred at Leysdown, on the Isle of Sheppey. The victim was Jean Chesterton, 17, daughter of a London fur merchant. She was on a vacation with her mother and two older sisters.

With one of the sisters, Joan, she went to rescue the ball, which was being carried away by the tide. The place in which they were rowing has been used for several years as a target ground by a nearby camp of royal air force reserves.

Shot by Air Gunner.

The sisters had recovered the ball and were rowing back to shore. When they approached a string of eight buoys used for target practice 500 yards from shore five planes approached. One of the pilots seemed to mistake the boat for a buoy and dived.

The sisters sat helpless as the gunner stood up in the cockpit and released a dozen rounds from his machine gun. Horrified watchers on shore saw splashes of water arise around the boat and then the younger girl slumped between the gunwales.

Unaware of the tragic mistake, the pilot swept over what he believed to be the buoy, then banked steeply after a mimic attack o nthe "enemy" and climbed.

The older sister rowed desperately for shore with her sister lying in the bottom of the boat. An ambulance was summoned, but by the time the boat was beached the girl was dead. One bullet entered her thigh and another passed through her left arm and into her chest.

Investigation Is Opened.

The scene of the tragedy is not a prohibited area, but red flags are displayed along the beach warning bathers not to go too far into the water.

As soon as the tragedy was reported the air ministry opened an investigation. The immediate explanation was that both the pilot and gunner mistook the rowboat for a buoy. Both the girls, however, wore green bathing suits and the surfaces of the eight buoys, moored in a row, were painted yellow.

The names or both the pilot and the gunner are unknown. They will be made public during the official inquiry. The detachment involved was squadron 605, County of Warwick bombers of the auxiliary air force.

PRAY FOR RAIN; HOME BREW KEG SPRINGS A LEAK

Whitesburg, Ky., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The Rev. Ira Mullins was praying for rain in the little church at Sandy Ridge.

"I will rain upon him and upon his hands, and upon the many people that are with him, an overflowing rain," the diminutive pastor read fervently, quoting Ezekiel.

The congregation knelt, heads bowed. Quietly but surely drops began to trickle on the heads and necks of the faithful. Each looked up, startled, and soon a stream was flowing down on the center aisle.

Outside the sun shone brightly in a cloudless sky. This seemed to call for an investigation of natural causes and the Rev. Mr. Mullins was boosted up into the attic.

There he found a keg of home brew which had sprung a leak.

The pastor returned to announce that bootleggers evidently were using the temple of worship for their evil work.

Mistake Gives Youths Bonds for $26,000

Fulton, Ky., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Harry Bushart, 21, and Ikey Reed, 21, returned home today with a satchel containing $26,000 in bonds handed them by mistake while they were in Chicago attending A Century of Progress Exposition.

Accompanied by Carl Mann of Brownsville, Tenn., they said they were riding in an elevated train and noticed a satchel on the floor near their seat. When they left the car a man sitting across the aisle handed it to them, saying, "Hey, buds, you left your satchel."

Not knowing what else to do, they carried it to their hotel, when they found it contained twenty-six bonds of $1,000 denomination, with a few $5 bills scattered among them. They said they watched the newspapers during the remainder of their stay in Chicago, hoping to find some clew as to the owner, but found none.

Bushart and Reed notified their parents upon their return here. Local authorities also were notified and the bonds tonight were in a bank safety deposit box pending identification by their owners.

COP ON GUARD, BUT THIEVES SEE HIM FIRST

A gasoline filling station at Rokeby street and Sheridan road has been held up frequently in recent months. To stop this Policeman Charles Day of the Town Hall station has been assigned to guard the place from 4 p. m. to midnight daily.

Late last night Policeman Day called up his station to report.

"Have you shot at some bandits?" asked the desk sergeant.

"No," replied Day. "I just wanted to let you know that while I was watching for robbers some burglars stole my parked automobile."

FATHER AND SON 'LOST'; POLICE REUNITE THEM

A. E. Anderson of Kansas City, Mo., came to Chicago yesterday with a truckload of scrap aluminum. His son, Charles Anderson, came in with another truckload of the same metal. They became separated at 9 a. m. Each believed the other was lost. At 8 p. m. the elder Anderson went to the Warren avenue police station and reported his son missing. At the same time Charles went to the Chicago avenue station and reported his father missing. The calls crossed in police channels and the Andersons were put on the telephone to make a rendezvous.

State Street Greets City's Guests Today

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.
(Picture on Back Page.)

State street will spread the welcome mat today with a flourish for A Century of Progress visitors. Gay with banners, resplendent with merchandise from every continent, the hub of the city's retail trade plunges into its own phase of the centennial week celebration, State Street Hospitality day, keyed to the spirit of the slogan, "Make yourself at home."

The climax of Festival week will come on Saturday evening when the Chicagoland Music Festival, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, will be held in Soldiers' field.

Yesterday's Festival week ceremonies were reminiscent of Chicago's earliest chapters, commemorating the Fort Dearborn massacre and paying tribute to the vision and courage of the city's founders who manned that garrison. Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, U. S. A., retired, voiced the gratitude of this generation to the pioneers of 100 years ago and the reverent homage of their descendants for the men and women who died in the massacre on the lake front.

Bargains Await Shoppers.

Whether the city's guests today seek bargains or diversion, they'll find both in the big stores and the smart shops that line State street. Special selling events by the score assure the out of town shoppers every advantage the current market can afford and variety as limitless as the buying staffs of the Chicago stores are able to find in scouting over the world.

Just to roam through the aisles of many of these establishments is an adventure in itself any day in the year. Today's calendar of events guarantees enough attractions to constitute a carnival of impressive proportions.

Fashion promenades take precedence. Mannequins selected from the most exclusive departments will parade the newest and loveliest of the autumn and winter styles throughout the day. One of the largest department stores on State street, knowing how great a magnet such shows always are, has arranged a continuous showing that will last for two and a half hours.

An Outdoor Exhibit.

Another great store has expended time, effort, and money in the preparation of an outdoor exhibit that will set both youngsters and adults wild with enthusiasm for the camping trail and the mountain brook. Every conceivable kind of equipment utilized in outdoor vacations has been included, not excepting the proper garb for every age.

Art exhibits will be found in various establishments, temporary as well as permanent. One institution points with pride to a collection of bronze busts of famous American authors by the sculptor Jo Davidson. On another floor of the same store will be found an amusing group of marionettes, each portraying some contemporary celebrity, and each the work of a well known American artist.

For the historically minded there is an exhibit of every type of lighting and fire making device for 20,000 years back, in one of the leading department stores. The exhibit starts with the stick twirled on a piece of wood to make a spark.

Cowboys from the West.

For the youngsters, real cowboys from the western cow country will perform their rodeo feats; Mickey Mouse will flicker on the screen in some of his ridiculous escapades; clowns will tumble about for their amusement, and souvenirs will be available in various departments.

Banners proclaiming State Street Hospitality day were in place yesterday on wires strung across the thoroughfare. American flags were grouped about light poles and waved from the roofs and windows of the participating business houses, and the official blue

STEEL CONFAB WALKS OUT ON LABOR'S CHIEF

Miss Perkins Overlooks Wm. Green.

O. K. on Press Plan

A temporary working agreement for newspapers under the industrial recovery act, submitted by the American Newspaper Publishers' association (modifying the proposed code originally submitted), was approved last night by Hugh S. Johnson, administrator. Page 2.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, was excluded from an important conference of government officials and leaders of the steel industry today.

Thereby hangs a tale of serious ruction in the affairs of the NRA, an affront to the labor leader by Secretary of Labor Perkins, and a comedy of subsequent errors which went far toward relieving the extreme gravity of it all.

Johnson Has His Say.

One of the errors was chalked against Gen. Hugh S. Johnson. He almost squirmed out of the fracas by dubbing it as "Miss Perkins' party, leave me out of it." Then he hurtled into the fray by declaring, mistakenly, that Mr. Green really had no business in the conference.

Mr. Green wasn't ordered out of the meeting. Everybody just walked out on him and met elsewhere, even Secretary Perkins, and this was yet a deeper thrust at the labor boss' vanity.

It all began with a summons to the steel leaders to appear in Washington to discuss the provisions on minimum wage scales and hours of work in the steel code. Although it was several times asserted that this was in the regular course of events, it was reported that President Roosevelt was insistent on action and had directed the calling of several industrial chiefs to Washington.

Auto Leaders Also Arrive.

The steel and automobile leaders are here today; some of the holdouts among the coal operators will be on the pan tomorrow, and the oil kings will be in Thursday.

Miss Perkins made a recent visit to eastern mills and talked to employés.

President Green was named the labor adviser to sit with Deputy Administrator Kenneth M. Simpson and Gen. Johnson during the consideration of the code, and he acted in that capacity just as J. V. W. Reynders, consulting engineer, acted as industrial adviser and as a group of three acted as consumers' advisers.

The steel men gathered for the conference at Miss Perkins' offices. There were W. A. Irwin, president of United States Steel; Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel; E. T. Weir, president of National Steel; High Morrow of Sloss-Sheffield Steel, L. E. Kloch of Inland Steel, and Tom Girdler of Republic Steel.

Gaze at Mr. Green.

As they came into the meeting room their glances fell on President Green, exponent of organized labor in the nation. The steel industrialists have insisted that they will not recognize A. F. of L. unions in their shops; that they will continue to deal with their workers through company union organizations. Mr. Green is fighting the company unions. Gen. Johnson was late. Deputy Administrator Simpson was present, however, and so were Donald R. Richberg, general counsel for NRA, and Secretary Perkins.

Green's Own Story.

Mr. Green, telling the story himself, described what transpired, as follows:

"Secretary Perkins informed me yesterday that there was to be a conference today with the steel operators. I accepted her invitation and appeared.

"As she started to call the meeting to order, Mr. Moore, [general counsel for the steel operators] drew her aside and an earnest conversation followed.

"Then, nearly everybody walked out of the room, including Secretary Perkins. Mr. Richberg, who also went out, returned later and informed me that the steel magnates said they would not sit in at the conference if I were present. The meeting then adjourned to another room. Two or three people who were not officials of the steel organization remained with me.

Barred by Steel Chiefs.

"When Secretary Perkins subsequently returned she told me that the steel employers were unyielding and unbending in their determination to withdraw from the conference if I remained. She said they told her that if it was reported in the steel region that they had been in a conference room where I was present, that the steel workers would regard that as union recognition.

"Miss Perkins said she told them that she wanted me present as a government officer—as part of the NRA—that I was labor adviser on the steel code. That had no effect.

"I told Miss Perkins that as far as I was personally concerned that it was not an individual matter, but was an issue between the government and the steel industry; that it was a challenge as to whether the machinery set up by the government would function and whether private industry would conform to the recovery program.

"I also recalled to Miss Perkins that I was there as her guest. She said it was true. Miss Perkins then said that she would tell the steel magnates that even if the labor adviser were not present, the results of the conference would have to go before the labor advisory board for approval. She then left me and returned to the conference."

Mr. Green Resents Rôle.

Mr. Green squirmed a bit as he showed this picture of himself, sitting alone twiddling his thumbs. Highly offended, he walked out on himself, went to the NRA headquarters, and related his experience to the reporters there.

"In my opinion," he said, "this raises the question of whether the government will surrender to private industry in its efforts to restore purchasing power through the NRA.

"I may recall that I sat in as labor adviser in the electrical manufacturing, lumber and cotton textile code hearings. After these hearings were over I took part in the conferences and helped to work out a final settlement. I sat as labor adviser in the steel hearings and assumed that it was my duty to take part in the conferences that followed for the purpose of working out a satisfactory code.

"This is the first time I know of in which a labor adviser has been checked out, and I intend to find out what it means. I understand Gen. Johnson was there later and that he knew I had been excluded."

Johnson Seems Surprised.

But Gen. Johnson wasn't looking for a part of this scrap. Meeting reporters at a regular press conference and questioned about the Green episode, he said:

"I didn't see anything like that. I was there only a little while. I've heard something about what happened. But that's Miss Perkins' party and I think she ought to say whatever's to be said about it."

The general was on safe ground there, but when he was asked if Mr. Green's position as labor adviser entitled him to sit in on the conference he contributed his mistake to the field day of errors.

"I never delegated Green to represent me in that manner," the general said. "Miss Perkins was the labor adviser in the steel code, and if Green went to the meeting it must have been at her request."

Told that Mr. Green had described himself several times as the labor adviser in steel, Mr. Johnson at first declared dogmatically that Green was not the adviser; that Miss Perkins was.

Then Johnson Weakens.

When newspaper men who attended the hearing confirmed the fact that Green really was the adviser, Gen. Johnson weakened just a little and said:

"If I'm mistaken I'll correct myself, but I'm pretty sure I'm not mistaken."

He was mistaken, for the formal publicity release of the NRA was resurrected. In the first line it said: "Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will be the first witness in the public hearing on iron and steel code Monday morning," while in the very last line was stated: "William Green will act as labor adviser during the hearing."

"My understanding was that Miss Perkins was labor adviser on the steel code. I had been so informed by Mr. Simpson and Miss Perkins."

Gen. Johnson was asked what results his and Miss Perkins' conferences with the steel leaders had produced. His only comment was: "Did you ever sit in a poker game?"

JOHNSON TELLS TEMPORARY PACT FOR PRESS IN U. S.

Issues Summary of Its Provisions.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Temporary wage and hour schedules to permit newspapers to obtain NRA's blue eagle at once under the President's blanket code were approved tonight by Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, on submission by the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

Johnson left for future determination several controversial issues, including a reservation by the publishers of their constitutional right to a free press and an insistence they could bargain with employés without interference from outside organizations.

Rejects Previous Program.

The administrator last week rejected a program proposed by the publishers, declining at the time to specify his objections, but it was made known by sources close to him that he disapproved of its failure to provide a short work week for reporters.

The temporary agreement, revised by the publishers yesterday in New York in line with "constructive suggestions" from Johnson, provided a 40 hour week for reporters receiving less than $35 weekly and other "professional" employés in a like salary range.

Provisions of the Code.

Provisions of the approved temporary newspaper code agreement include:

"No persons under 16 shall be employed, except to sell papers, during now established hours where it does not interfere with school hours, but those from 14 to 16 may be employed up to three hours a day between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m.

"A 40 hour week for accounting, clerical, office, service, or sales employés (except outside salesmen, representatives, drivers, and circulation men), provided the exceptions other than outside salesmen shall not exceed 10 per cent of the total employed.

"A 40 hour week for factory or mechanical workers or artisans, with a maximum week of 44 hours for any six weeks within any six months' period provided no one works more than eight hours in a day.

Sets Minimum Wage.

"Minimum wages for accounting, clerical, office, service, or sales employés of $15 a week in cities of more than 500,000 population; $14.50 in cities between 250,000 and 500,000; $14 in cities between 2,500 and 250,000, and $12 in towns of less than 2,500; provided that all employés receive as much as heretofore, except that up to 5 per cent of the total employés may be classed as learners or apprentices and paid not less than 70 per cent of the scale.

"Minimum wages for factory or mechanical workers or artisans, except apprentices, of 40 cents an hour, and if hours are reduced under the agreement a rate of not less than prevailed in the same community July 15, 1929, and in no event less than 30 cents an hour, or a weekly wage equal to that paid July 1, 1933.

Outside of Hour Limits.

"Maximum hours not to apply to professional workers (including reporters receiving in excess of $35 a week), persons in managerial or personal capacity who receive more than $35 a week, employés on emergency, maintenance and repair work, employés in special cases where restrictions of hours would reduce production and in special cases of emergency, provided that in such special cases at least time and one-third shall be paid for hours excess of the maximum.

"Hours and wages under contracts in effect on or before July 1, 1933, which cannot be revised except by mutual consent are exempted."

The temporary agreement also provided:

"That during the period of the code a publisher in a city where there is a shortage of labor which would create great hardship could obtain a stay of the requirements for limited hours upon petition approved by the A. N. P. A., pending investigation by the recovery administration, if he agreed to abide by the decision of the latter."

Meredith Nicholson May Be Minister to Paraguay

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Appointment of Meredith Nicholson, Indiana author, to the diplomatic corps is believed likely in official circles here. He is in line to be minister to Paraguay.

RECOVERY ACT HELD CONSTITUTIONAL BY WASHINGTON JUDGE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The constitutionality of the national industrial recovery act, as it applies to oil control, was upheld today by Justice Joseph Cox in District of Columbia Supreme court.

Justice Cox denied a petition for an injunction against Secretary Ickes by the Southport Petroleum company, a Texas concern, to restrain the interior secretary from prohibiting shipment in interstate commerce of oil produced in excess of state quotas.

F. W. F. Fischer for the oil company pleaded that the powers delegated to Secretary Ickes by President Roosevelt were unconstitutional. This was denied by Charles Fahy, acting solicitor of the interior department.

In denying the injunction, Justice Cox said he would not presume to interefere with the broad powers conferred upon the President by congress in a national emergency.

"The action was the first attempt at a test of the constitutionality of the recovery act, and recovery officials were elated at the outcome.

"I do not think the national recovery act can be sustained on any ground," Mr. Fischer said. "The act complained of is unconstitutional and void for the reason that it is an attempt to delegate power to the President of the United States which cannot be delegated but must be exercised by congress alone."

Mr. Fahy for the interior department contended that Secretary Ickes was merely performing functions delegated to him by the President and could not be enjoined.

27 APPOINTED TO DIRECT RECOVERY PROGRAM IN CITY

Committee Will Check on Re-employment.

Twenty-seven executives, representing Chicago's commercial, civic, and service organizations, were appointed yesterday by George W. Rossetter, general chairman of the Chicago Recovery council, as an executive committee to direct this city's drive under the President's reëmployment program.

The committee will meet at noon today in Hotel La Salle to draft definite methods of procedure. Announcement was also made yesterday that members of the National Recovery board for Illinois, recently appointed by the President, will meet with Gov. Horner at Springfield tomorrow morning.

Actual enforcement of the NRA standard in Chicago and Illinois is expected to follow these steps. Up to this time, employers have been allowed to display the "blue eagle" merely upon their promise to coöperate by putting into effect the maximum working hour and minimum wage scales. Within a few days, employers who are "cheating" will be exposed, it was predicted.

Personnel of Committee.

The executive committee of the Chicago Recovery council, which will be responsible for Chicago's proper support of the reëmployment program, is composed of the following:

BRUCE MacLEISH, president, Chicago Better Business bureau.

JOHN McKINLAY, president, Union League Club of Chicago.

ARNOLD BAAR, president, City of Chicago.

JOHN D. BLACK, president, Chicago Bar association.

GEORGE BRAY, president, Junior Association of Commerce.

F. C. W. PARKER, Kiwanis International.

L. W. BEMAN, secretary, North Shore Property Owners association.

H. H. SWIFT, president, Commercial club.

WALTER W. GREGORY, president, State Street council.

JOHN FRITZPATRICK, Chicago Federation of Labor.

C. L. RICE, vice president, civic affairs, The Chicago Association of Commerce.

MRS. HOLLAND FLAGLER, president, Parent-Teachers association.

N. B. GOSS, secretary, Woodlawn Business Men's association.

RICHARD HACKETT, business manager, Central Manufacturing district.

H. P. ISHAM, president, Clearing Industrial district.

M. J. O'Brien, president, Chicago Stock Exchange.

MERCHANTS URGED TO PATRONIZE CONCERNS FLYING NRA BANNERS

Merchants as well as consumers should patronize concerns which are under the NRA standard, Louis E. Kirstein, special government adviser for the men's apparel industry, informed members of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers in their convention at the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

An intensive campaign will be in full force by Labor day to acquaint every purchaser and every consumer in the country with the purposes of the reëmployment program, said a message from Mr. Kirstein which was read to the convention.

"The campaign is to be positive in character," the message declared. "It will be in no sense a boycott, but rather calling to the attention of consumers the concerns that are coöperating to put people back to work to increase pay rolls and purchasing power.

"By Labor day it is hoped to have in excess of five million more persons employed than a year ago. This, together with increases in wages, the resumption of dividends by some companies, the additional income for farmers received from higher prices for crops, means more sales for the clothing industry."

5,190 More Employers Enroll.

Agreements to join the Presidential program were received at the local district of commerce office yesterday from 5,190 business concerns in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa, which employ 1,087,961 workers. Of these, 1,197 were Chicago firms employing 9,924 persons. A total of 615,410 employés are now nominally under NRA in Chicago.

W. C. Ritchie & Co., manufacturers of paper boxes, employing 400 persons, announced that their acceptance of the blanket code had resulted in increase in wages of from 20 to 50 per cent for all employés and that more than 100 new employés had been hired in the last few weeks in preparation for the new program.

One hundred hotel men from throughout the country discussed a trade code in a meeting at the Palmer house. Thomas Green, president of the American Hotel association, said the code would not be ready for a vote until today. One of the problems to be ironed out is the matter of wages and hours for the smaller hotels.

850 Café Men Accept Code.

The NRA code was unanimously adopted last night by 850 members of the Chicago Restaurant Owners' association, who met at the Steuben club. George Patris, executive secretary of the group, announced that the code will go into effect today. The meeting agreed that restaurant prices should be raised slightly to meet the additional overhead entailed by the adoption of the code.

Manufacturers of silos and allied products, meeting at Hotel Sherman, approved a code calling for a forty-hour week and a minimum hourly wage scale as follows: 40 cents in cities over 250,000; 35 cents in cities from 2,500 to 250,000; and 30 cents in towns under 2,500 population unless the scale was less in 1929.

Business men, while recognizing frankly that the national recovery act is a desperate measure, should cooperate whole-heartedly in the program, John N. Van der Vries, western manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told members of the Rotary club yesterday at a noon luncheon.

"Considering that the act is a last resort being tried in a country that is almost bankrupt, we will find that the benefits to be obtained, if all adhere to it, will considerably outweigh the temporary disadvantages," he said.

"We can frankly recognize that the blanket code is a stop-gap to avoid something worse."

COL. McCORMICK FINDS GERMANY LIVES IN POVERTY

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK.
[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ON BOARD THE S. S. EMPRESS OF BRITAIN, Aug. 15.—I am writing this because I want to get on paper a few points I have overlooked or understated in my stories from Berlin.

After a stay at Paris in all its pre-war luxury, at Deauville, the town of lobsters and of lobster palaces, and at Dives, the inn where William the Conqueror came—to admire the Louis Quinze furniture, I suppose; Madame, it is unbelievable what these tourists will swallow with your incomparable sole a la mode de la maison—I know why we so seldom speak of the war.

We doubt the veracity of our memories. Can the things I have seen so recently really exist? Let me record them before I lose all confidence in my recollections.

Finds People in Poverty.

The poverty of the people. Not the grinding poverty of the orient by sharp contrast to the countries of Europe. The general shabbiness is genteel, at best. And a shortage of habliments is evidenced by psychology. Elsewhere in the white world clothes are so common that women reject them. In Germany women are covered "cap'a pied," from mended sleeve to darned stocking. When a woman is barelegged she is barefoot, too—not in sensuous sandals on the soft sand but flatfooted on the hard highway.

I saw a man walking barefoot on the road, as in Poland in wartime, his boots slung around his neck to save them. Poverty in shoe leather reacts in the chief article of the storm trooper's wardrobe, a pair of great boots.

In the market at Munster on Saturday farmers were standing in little booths to sell a few pounds of butter and a few dozen eggs. They had old wagons, old shays and tired old horses. They must improve their condition many fold to attain the stage of our farm problem.

Versailles Treaty Blamed.

For this poverty the treaty of Versailles gets all the blame but does not deserve it all.

The vast construction projects of the Social Democrats in Germany on unnecessary public buildings and unused public roads are just as responsible, and the canals that look well on the maps.

The egotism that wasted the savings of a people on these was as great and selfish as that which erected the palaces of Potsdam, where still reside a colony of the old aristocracy. What of this class, once seemingly so hard and deserving compared to the futile nobility of the rest of Europe?

Heroic in the War.

Certainly they were heroic in the war, which they dominated, but they did not win. They did not overcome the communists in 1918. They did not overcome the republic. Many, not all of them, occupy minor positions in Nazidom, not leading ones. A great many of them have Jewish mothers or grandmothers and come under the proscription. Let us hope the German respect for the high "gebornen" may some day rescind it.

And the all highest—what about him and his? I think it is "hieraus mit him," and as to his, it will be a matter of convenience. Just as in Scotland, in the days of Bonnie Prince Charlie, the Scottish families placed a son in either camp to keep the estates in the family from attainder, whoever won, the royal princes have subdivided themselves into all. If any faction ever needs a royal figure to round out its strength there is a royalty at your service.

Hoch, will your all highness condescend to rule over us and do exactly as you are told? Yah, wohl, my children, I will do anything you say for a crown and three meals a day. What will Hitler do with his new found power? It is futile to speculate. He is being whirled along faster than a linotype can operate. One who promises so much must attempt much and run from one unknown to another—to what, who can tell? Will he go to war for the three shriveled limbs, denofing Elsass-Lothringen, Silesia, and the Polish corridor, that are found on the tree which decorates the back of every German coin? Having raised and fired his storm troops, can he hold them?

Who knows? Mussolini has. Like Mussolini, Hitler is an ex-noncom. If he permits a war he will need officers and generals. If these worthies get organized and in power once more, what about the bootmaker of Vienna, wer weist?

For the army is the shrine of the German soul. Wherever it marches the crowds throng after, larger and more enthusiastic crowds than follow the storm troops. What soldiers they are. I watched some exercises of these troops with a former officer of our regulars. His great-grandfather wore a red uniform at Waterloo and he feels emotion when the colors troop in London. Banzai has resounded in his ears and the roaring bands at Santiago beyond the equator. He has heard the Russian tramp and remembers the soldiers of Abdul Hamid, but nothing, he believes, compares to the military precision and serpentine beauty of the reichswehr. Sergt. York some fifteen years ago was less impressed.

Lid On in Montmartre.

With the Teutonic fury just over the border, Mr. Coty, the well known enemy of "B. O.," fills the Paris press with protests against Andy Rebori's dive in the World's Fair, which he says traduces Paris. M. Coty, ma foi! It seems, then, that his nuit d'amour perfume exudes an odor of sanctity. Hein! But Jay Allen tells me times are changing in France and the lid has been put on in the Montmartre, and Allen knows.

That the lid has been put on in the Montmartre is bad, but that I should learn of it from Allen is unspeakable. Put on your hat. It has been snowing and there is a new deal everywhere.

SCHOOL ECONOMY ACT IS UNWISE POLITICS, PROFESSOR ASSERTS

The charge that the board of education had been politically indiscreet in adopting its $5,000,000 economy program without holding open hearings with educators was made last night by Augustus R. Hatton, professor of political science at Northwestern university. He spoke before several hundred persons in a protest meeting at the Norwood Park fieldhouse.

Prof. Hatton declared that if he were a politician opposing the present administration he could not ask for a better talking point than to have the present board adopt such an economy program. Other speakers were Col. James E. White, education chairman of the American Legion, and Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde of the Illinois League of Women Voters.

Protest meetings last night included one in the Lincoln Memorial church at 65th street and Champlain avenue, at which several teachers spoke, and a gathering in the Washington Heights church, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association of the Mount Vernon school.

MRS. CONKEY HEADS WOMEN IN NRA DRIVE

Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey, Democratic national committeewoman, was notified yesterday by Gov. Henry Horner that he has appointed her state chairman of women organized to help in the NRA drive. Mrs. Conkey wrote at once asking instructions from her chief, Mary E. Hughes of Washington, who is organizing women of the country to back the NRA.

Gov. Horner informed Mrs. Conkey by letter that he had appointed her in response to a request by the bureau of public relations of the NRA. She is to head an organization of state women engaged "in dispensing accurate information regarding the plan of the administration," the letter explained, for which there would be "no compensation other than necessary expenses."

NAZIS SEE JEWS AND FREEMASONS JOINED IN PLOT

Charge Baruch Involved in Parley in France.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—A world plot against Germany, participated in by soviet Russians, Jews, and international Free Masons, is being perfected in France, according to the newspaper Der Deutsche, official organ of the Nazi "German labor front."

The paper charges that Bernard Baruch, New York financier, is involved in the plot as a representative of world Jewry.

The simultaneous presence of Leon Trotzky, "alias Leber Bronstein, exiled soviet mass murderer"; Maxim Litvinov, Russian foreign commissar, "alias Finkelstein, emissary of Stalin"; André Tardieu, former French premier; Baruch, and the Russian ambassador to Turkey at the French resort of Royat is taken by Der Deutsche as proof that secret negotiations are being carried on.

Ignores French Denial.

The paper ignores a French denial that pourparlers have taken place among these men.

Tardieu is described by the paper as a high dignitary of the Free Masons, "whose active part in fostering the world war can no longer be denied."

Former Premier Edouard Herriot's trip to Moscow is also part of the plot against Germany, according to Der Deutsche, which warns Germans against what it terms the duplicity of the soviet Russians and "Jews who want to profit by the chaos and hatred they sow among nations."

Police today released five relatives of Philipp Scheidemann, who were arrested as reprisal for an article which the former Socialist leader wrote for an American newspaper from his refuge in Czechoslovakia.

Tomorrow East Prussia will fly banners to celebrate the announcement that the province is free of unemployed persons, who heretofore received doles or welfare donations.

President von Hindenburg's estate at Neudeck, in East Prussia, where the president is spending the summer, will join in the general rejoicing. Von Hindenburg's estate will be enlarged by the addition of state property at Langenau which belonged to the Hindenburg family in 1853.

Charges Anti-Swiss Plot.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 15.—A charge that the German Nazis have launched a propaganda campaign in favor of annexation of German Switzerland was made today in the Neue Zuricher Zeitung.

The paper said that the propaganda is aimed at paving the way for annexation the same as in 1848, and warns that it will not get farther than causing isolated ructions in Switzerland which are likely to be more annoying than dangerous. It says Germany should be warned at once to abstain from a demonstration that will prejudice normal relations with Switzerland.

Hitler's Niece and Adjutant Injured in Auto Smashup

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler's adjutant, Wilhelm Brueckner, sustained a fractured skull and a broken arm when the automobile in which he accompanied the chancellor's car was wrecked today on a drive in this neighborhood. Hitler's niece and a woman friend in Brueckner's car were slightly injured. The chancellor's sister escaped unhurt.

60,000 NEW YORK DRESSMAKERS PLAN FOR STRIKE TODAY

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A strike affecting 60,000 dress and waist makers in New York City was called tonight by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

The walkout is scheduled for tomorrow morning and is directed principally against the National Dress Manufacturers' association, an organization of jobbers who let out work to contractors.

Union demands include a 30 hour week, enforcement of existing wage agreements, and elimination of middle men in dealings between workers and contractors.

A strike also was called in that branch of the garment industry making leggings, snow suits, infants' wear, and novelties. Union officials said about 2,500 will come in under the walkout ruling.

BRITAIN ANGERED BY GERMAN BAN AGAINST SHIPPING

London May Retaliate Against Decree.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Anxious study is being given by the British foreign office to the recent German shipping decree designed to compel all Germans to use native vessels.

Interpretations of the new order have been forwarded to London and Liverpool by British shipping agents in Berlin. In addition to these private communications, the British foreign service is investigating. Today the foreign office received a long report on the situation. The report is being studied tonight.

British Protest Forecast.

If the order means what it appears to say, then a formal governmental protest can be expected in the next few days. If such a protest is made, it will be based on a shipping convention concluded between Great Britain and Germany in 1924 eschewing flag discrimination. The British government is still undecided, however, whether the new German order affects cargoes as well as passengers.

Meanwhile, drastic measures are being urged upon the government by the British shipping lines. It was stated that in the event obstacles are placed in the way of free commerce by British shipping in German ports, then extreme retaliation might be imposed, under which German vessels would be denied the facilities of British ports.

Shipping Men File Protest.

British maritime interests met today and sent a delegation to Whitehall to inform the government what enforcement of the German order would mean to the merchant marine of this country.

All German trans-Atlantic liners call at English ports. Should they be denied facilities, the passenger lists of the crack liners Bremen and Europa are bound to decline further than they already have due to the German anti-Jewish campaign.

British shipping interests blame the trouble on Chancellor Hitler's anti-Semitic bias.

CHILD FALLS FROM AUTO; KILLED.

Pittsfield, Ill., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud S. Nelson of Camdenton, Mo., was killed today when he fell from his parents' automobile and struck his head on the pavement near here. The child unlatched the car door and fell out.

FILE 2 NEW SUITS TO BLOCK SCHOOL ECONOMY PLANS

Teacher-Lawyer Repeats Former Charges.

Two new legal attacks on the board of education's economy and better housing program were begun yesterday when bills for injunction were filed in the Superior and Circuit courts. A similar bill was denied recently by Judge William V. Brothers in the Circuit court.

One of the actions was brought by John E. Groves, a mathematics teacher at the Crane Technical High school, who filed a 72 page complaint against the board asking that the program be held illegal and an injunction issued. The suit will be heard tomorrow morning before Judge Charles A. Williams in the Superior court.

Old Charges Defeated.

Attorneys for the school board asserted that the common law principle of res adjuticita, which means that the matters had already been decided, should throw the new litigation out of court. They claimed that much of the material in the Groves bill had been taken verbatim from the bill, filed by Attorney Allan Carter for the Principals' club, which was thrown out by Judge Brothers with the declaration that it wasn't "worth the paper it's written on."

Groves declared in his bill that the school board had no right to shorten the school term from ten to nine months "unless compelled by an act of God or a public enemy." He contended that the school budget constituted a contract and therefore the teachers would have to be paid the salaries appropriated for whether they worked during the full ten months or not.

If teachers could be dismissed, Groves argued, the entire teaching force would become the "prey of politicians under the curse of the spoils system."

Misrepresentation Is Charged.

Groves also charged that the deficit of the school system had been misrepresented and the economies were not needed. Again, in connection with the $87,655 outlay for the conversion of junior high schools into senior high school plants, Groves pointed out that there is "no fund in the board of education but what was woefully in the red already."

Groves stated in his bill that he had been a teacher for 30 years and that if he was compelled to teach more than five classes a day, as the board's program contemplates, it would injure his health.

"The school wrecking can be halted by one stroke of your honor's injunctional pen," wrote Groves in his bill.

The second bill for an injunction was filed by the Tax Service Association of Illinois on behalf of George W. Nye, as a tax payer, by Attorney Houston Shockley. The bill demands that a temporary injunction be issued to restrain the board from spending any more money on the conversion plan until a determination of the funds on hand had been made.

Mayor Kelly and Controller Upham were also named defendants in the bill in order to restrain them from countersigning any school tax warrants that might be issued to contractors. The Nye suit has not yet been assigned to a judge.

Total, including Aug. 14, 1893 [106 days]	2,732,895

The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

These unsung heroines of America, the farm wives and mothers who have toiled and sacrificed to maintain their homes and help in the farms' production of food for the cities' multitudes, were given the place of honor yesterday at A Century of Progress. Confidence in their country, and optimism for the future were keynotes on their program.

"The farm women of America face the future smilingly and hopefully in the new coöperative pioneering that is bringing back rural happiness and prosperity," said Mrs. Dora H. Stockman, East Lansing, Mich., representing the National Grange. "We are proud of our connection with agriculture and have faith in its future."

The throngs of farm visitors swelled the day's attendance, and at 11:30 p. m., when the final count was taken, the total of paid admissions was 177,185.

Parade in Michigan Avenue.

A parade extending for more than a mile in Michigan avenue and requiring an hour and a half to pass a given point opened the festivities of the day. More than two hundred floats, depicting every form of rural activity, from the roaring tractors to the harvesting and threshing machines were in the parade. Live sheep, hogs and cattle were displayed to city folk who lined the streets.

Riding in the parade was Judas, the wicked old ram of the stockyards, who has made a reputation leading others of his breed to their deaths in the slaughter pens. Other sheep followed him in trucks. More than 100 concerns were represented in the parade, which virtually halted traffic in the avenue and adjacent streets for an hour.

The parade formed at Ohio street and marched in the avenue to the 14th street gate of the World's Fair, through the Court of Honor and into the Fairgrounds. Personally conducted tours given for the farm women without cost kept most of the agricultural visitors busy for the remainder of the morning.

1,000 Attend Program.

The chief event of the day was the formal program in the Court of States in the afternoon. Leading women from the rural areas were speakers. More than 1,000 visitors from all parts of the United States attended the program.

The speakers included Mrs. Stockman, Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, director of home and community work for the American Farm Bureau federation, and Miss Grace E. Frysinger of the United States department of agriculture.

Miss Frysinger emphasized the fact that American farm women must coöperate with the various farm organizations to assure the prosperity of the farm family, so long "the bulwark of the nation."

"It is to be hoped that agriculture will soon see a new day, which shall make possible a decision by farm women which will result in self-respecting owner operator families," she said. "Throughout the centuries in a large measure man has been the income producer and woman the home makers. It is so today. In your hands, farm women, lies the decision as to whether American born farm families shall remain on the farm."

Pageant of Farm Women.

Agriculture is slowly but surely gaining recognition as one of the mainstays of civilization, Mrs. Sewell said, speaking for the Farm Bureau federation. A pageant written by the speaker, "Eevolution of the Farm Woman," was one of the principal parts of the program.

Another feature of the day was the reënactment of the knighting of the roast of beef as Sir Loin by King Charles II. of England. Dr. W. C. Coffey, dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Minnesota, took the part of the king and touched the 30 pound roast on a silver platter with the tip of his sword.

KILLED IN AUTO CRASH.

Princeton, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—H. J. Christianson, Hammond, Ind., was killed and his son, John W. Christianson, and a hitchhiker, H. J. Heitman, were seriously injured early today when their car crashed into the side of a freight train at Normandie, Bureau county.

U. S. PAY RATES OF RESTAURANTS EXCLUDE TIPS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—"Tips" were not taken into consideration in providing minimum wages for employés of restaurants under the fair practice code.

In fixing a minimum wage of 28 cents an hour in cities between 500,000 population or more for restaurant workers, 27 cents an hour in cities between 250,000 and 500,000, and 23 cents an hour in towns below 250,000, with a 2 cent an hour differential for southern states, the code which was approved for temporary operation by the NRA said:

"Gratuities shall not be considered a part of the remuneration of any employé."

The minimum rate was subject to a deduction for meals furnished employés of 25 cents per meal, so long as it did not exceed $3 in any one week.

STATE ST. STORES WELCOME CITY'S VISITORS TODAY

Hospitality Day Part of Festival Week.

and white banner of the city also was flying.

Traffic police stationed along State street will be provided with flowers for their buttonholes this morning, one executive said yesterday, and small ribbons bearing the greeting "Welcome to Chicago." Everywhere, both inside and outside the stores, workers are ready to extend every courtesy to the Fair visitors, and large crowds are anticipated for the day's events.

On the same spot where their ancestors laid siege to the fort of the white man, brilliantly decked Indians gathered yesterday to participate in the commemorative rites for the victims of the Fort Dearborn massacre on Wacker drive at the entrance to the London Guaranty building. Mute but intent, the delegation from the tribes attending A Century of Progress watched and listened as tribute was paid to the men and women of 121 years ago in speech and music and the placing of huge floral wreaths.

Under the auspices of the Junior Association of Commerce, with George Bray, president of the organization, officiating as master of ceremonies, the day's program opened with the short service at Wacker drive and Michigan. After an address by William D. Saltiel, the wreaths were placed at the foot of the Dearborn massacre monument on the southeast kiosk of the bridge by members of the D. A. R. and the Daughters of 1812. Mayor Kelly and Gen. Scott were among those attending.

At the services held in the courtyard of the Hall of Science at the Fair an hour later Gen. Scott voiced a fervent hope that the reproduction of Fort Dearborn, now one of the attractions at the Exposition, will be preserved for posterity. In this "puny post," he reminded his audience, Chicago as a city had its origin, and in the bravery and determination of the men who lived there found an auspicious start toward its present greatness.

"The policy of the government at that time," he said, "never provided sufficient protection for the men who held these outposts of civilization, as is proved by that fact that the massacre we commemorate today was not the only bloody tragedy of its kind.

"Cherish the regular army. Allow nothing to injure it. Three times the regular army troops have saved Chicago from the consequences of local prejudices, communist elements which are stronger today than ever before in our cities. The army has served the country well. It represents the altruistic spirit of our people and the power of this republic."

MRS. PATTEN IS HONORED AT FORT SHERIDAN

Mrs. James A. Patten, widow of the wheat king, was the guest of honor at Fort Sheridan yesterday as 700 men attending the citizens' military training camp celebrated Patten day, an annual event since Mrs. Patten donated money for athletic equipment several years ago.

Mrs. Patten's automobile was met at the south gate by Brig. Gen. Frank C. Bolles, commandant of the fort, and driven past the ranks of summer soldiers.

At lunch in Company A mess hall Brig. Gen. Bolles said: "No other man or woman living has done more for the citizens' military training camps than Mrs. Patten."

WOMEN'S CHORUS OF NAPERVILLE WINS CONTEST

Will Compete for Festival Honors Saturday.

Twenty Naperville women with ten years of choral experience last night sang Parks' "Lullaby of Life" in the Drake hotel and won first place in the Chicago women's chorus competition of the Chicagoland Music Festival to be presented in Soldiers' field Saturday evening.

The organization is the Naperville Women's club chorus, directed by Grace T. Fredenhagen, accompanist for the Marshall Field Choral society. The Hinsdale Harmony club, directed by Margaretta Shott, was accorded second place by Judges Rose Lutiger Gannon, Harry Walsh, and Richard De Young. Also competing were the Chicago Daughters of Isabella Choral society, the Grieg Ladies' Singing society, and the Ladies of Isabella Choral club.

Choruses Compete Saturday.

On Saturday afternoon the winning chorus will compete with the winners from other Chicagoland cities to determine which shall represent the division in the Music Festival. Tonight at 7 o'clock the competition of seven Chicago mixed choruses will be held at the Drake hotel and the winners will be heard over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station, from 8:15 to 8:30 p. m.

Each of the five competing choruses last night sang the contest number, Parks' "Lullaby," and one optional song. Allan Grant, WGN staff pianist, accompanied the choruses.

Organized 10 Years Ago.

The Naperville chorus, consisting of housewives and mothers with exception of Misses Ruth Moyer and Ethel Spreng, was organized ten years ago, and has been directed since by Mrs. Fredenhagen. This is their first competition in Chicagoland Music Festival singing. The other members are Mesdames R. Manning, L. Sullivan, M. Pickwell, E. Brown, C. Auner, F. Unger, A. McIlheron, H. Arlen, J. Lehman, J. Riebel, F. Kluckhohn, G. Oliver, C. Wellner, F. Shisler, A. Dewar, W. Juehl, O. Goetz, and H. White.

Hoovers and Wilburs Go Fishing in the Siskiyous

Palo Alto, Cal., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Herbert Hoovers, father and son; the Ray Lyman Wilburs, father and son, and seven other men left here today for a fishing excursion into the Siskiyous. It was expected they would be away the rest of the week.

GOVERNORS OF TWO CAROLINAS TO VISIT THE FAIR TOMORROW

What did the governor of North Carolina say to the governor of South Carolina? That question may be answered tomorrow when Carolina day brings the executives of the two states to the Fair. The two governors, Ibra C. Blackwood of South Carolina and Charles Ehringhaus of North Carolina, will be the honor guests during the program.

PEACEMAKER IS KILLED IN FIGHT AT BEER TAVERN

William Purdie, 45 years old, 11808 Emerald avenue, acted as peacemaker last night when a fist fight started in front of a beer tavern at 655 West 119th street. His mediation cost his life. A blow by one of the combatants, William De Young, 30 years old, struck his jaw and he fell to the sidewalk, apparently suffering a fractured skull. He died before a physician could arrive. De Young, said to have been intoxicated, was battling with Charles Sarskian, owner of the saloon, after they had quarreled over the payment for two steins of beer. De Young was arrested.

20,000 SEATS TO BE RESERVED AT MUSIC FESTIVAL

Twenty thousand seats will be reserved at the Chicagoland Music Festival to be held in Soldiers' field on Saturday night. It is the first time any reserved seats have been offered for the festival, which is sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

General admission tickets will be 25 cents. Reserved seats, including admission to the field, are 50 cents. It will not be necessary to have tickets to the World's Fair to enter Soldiers' field. The 25 cent and 50 cent tickets cover the entire cost of seeing the great spectacle. Reserved seat tickets are on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, Tribune Tower and 1 South Dearborn street, or will be mailed on receipt of cash, check, or money order and envelope.

The policy of the last three Music Festivals, when no seats were reserved, was changed after many protests were received by THE TRIBUNE. Many came from out of town people who could not join the procession which began to enter Soldiers' field in the afternoon in order to obtain seats. Housewives protested that they would like an opportunity to obtain seats in advance, as they could not arrive in time to get seats before the arrival of the great crowds.

Indiana Woman Marks Her 101st Birthday

Village Board Prohibits Sale of Beer in Winnetka

The Winnetka village board last night adopted a resolution prohibiting the sale of beer within the village limits. However, residents are not restrained from consuming beer delivered to their homes from outside Winnetka. The penalty for violation of the ordinance is a fine of from $50 to $100 and a jail sentence of 30 days to six months.

BIG CHICAGOLAND WEEK AUTO SHOW TO OPEN TONIGHT

Ninety-three Cars Will Be Exhibited Outdoors.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Congress street plaza in Grant park was being decorated yesterday for the first large outdoor automobile show in America. Tonight ninety-three of the latest models of motor cars will be moved into the exhibition space in the city's front yard on a main approach to A Century of Progress.

The show, lasting through Saturday night, will be the automobile industry's contribution to Chicagoland week, which reaches a climax with THE TRIBUNE Music Festival in Soldiers' field on Saturday night. The exhibition, suggested by THE TRIBUNE, is sponsored by the Chicago Auto Trade association.

Install 40 Foot Tower.

Blue and gold banners, flood lights, and bunting are to add a holiday touch to the formal dignity of the Congress street plaza with its stately columned portals and pair of heroic bronze Indian warriors mounted on spirited horses. A forty foot tower bearing the emblem of A Century of Progress is being raised in the center of the area to support lighting effects.

Like the national automobile shows, that draw thousands to New York and to Chicago the first of every year, this exhibition will bring together all competitive makes of cars for ready and convenient comparisons for motor fans and for prospective purchasers. In addition to the standard models, there will be mechanical displays demonstrating the working parts of the latest in automotive engineering.

Unlike the national shows, no admission will be charged. The crowds of Michigan avenue and the crowds en route between the loop and the World's Fair will be invited to stop to see this assembly of newest automobiles in a natural setting, outdoors, rather than in carpeted display rooms.

Draw for Positions.

Lafayette Markle, president of the Chicago Auto Trade association, said that he hoped all of the displays would be in their alloted spaces by 8 o'clock tonight. The dealers drew lots yesterday afternoon for positions in the exhibit. The exhibitors are:

Packard Motor Car Company of Chicago; Bird-Sykes company, Graham distributor; Butler Motors, Inc., Hudson and Essex distributor; Cadillac Motor Car company; Continental Automobile company; Community Motors, Inc., Pontiac distributor; Pierce-Arrow Sales corporation; Plymouth Motor corporation; Thomas J. Hay, Inc., Reo distributor; Buick-Olds-Pontiac Sales company; Studebaker Sales company; Gambill Motor company, Hupmobile distributor; Nash Sales, Inc.; Ford Motor company, P. C. Gartley, Inc., Willys distributor; Lincoln division of Ford; Chrysler Illinois company; Brad & Co., De Soto distributors; M. J. Lanahan, Inc., Dodge distributors; Stutz Chicago company; Auburn Chicago company, and Chevrolet Motor company.

CHICAGOLAND FESTIVAL WEEK AUTO SHOW WILL OPEN TONIGHT IN GRANT PARK

The Congress street plaza in Grant park as it will appear tonight when the Century of Progress outdoor auto show sponsored by the Chicago Auto Trade association is opened. A forty foot tower in the center will support the lighting effects. Ninety-three of the latest motor cars will be on display as the industry's contribution to Chicagoland festival week.

699 FAMILIES ARE TAKEN OFF RELIEF ROLLS IN AURORA

D. M. Burnett, secretary of the Aurora associated relief, announced yesterday that 699 families, comprising a total of 1,707 individuals, have been dropped from the Aurora relief rolls since April 1. There has been a gradual decrease in relief orders each week since that date. A survey made by the association shows that heads of virtually all of the families dropped from the roll have found employment and are now able to support themselves. In April the association issued weekly orders to 2,007 families. This week there were 1,388.

TAKES THREE KINDS OF POISON.

Arthur N. Levi, 42 years old, swallowed three kinds of poison last night at his home, 622 Gary place. He was taken to the Chicago Memorial hospital, where it was said his condition was critical.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Senator Gosuke Imai, known as the father of Japan's modern silk industry, will arrive in Chicago today leading a delegation of Japanese businessmen visiting the Fair. They will arrive at the Dearborn station over the Santa Fé road at 7:20 a. m. and will be greeted by Yoshio Muto, Japanese consul general in Chicago, and two Japanese girls, Kayo Hata and Yuki Mori, both dressed in native costume. Included in the party are Tomomasa Kato, member of the Japanese parliament; Takashiro Arai, vice president of the Japan industrial association; Kannojo Tomita, silk magnate; Mantaro Matsumoto, Yokohama silk expert; Takeji Ito, New York silk merchant; Jugoro Hashimoto, silk dealer, and Tetsuzo Nagaoka, general secretary of the Japanese Raw Silk association.

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, celebrated his 42d birthday yesterday and was host to 25 chiefs from the Indian village. As a symbol of their esteem the Indians presented him with a peace pipe, made in the form of a tomahawk. Maj. Lohr doesn't smoke a pipe, but announced that he would save the hatchet for press conferences.

The part farm machinery has played in the advance of farming is shown in the International Harvester exhibit in the Agricultural building. The contrast between the first McCormick reaper invented 102 years ago and the latest model harvester thresher is one of the featured exhibits. Another exhibit attracting a lot of attention is a tractor cotton picker which does the work of 48 men.

Gov. Miriam A. [Ma] Ferguson of Texas yesterday issued a proclamation calling on the people of the Lone Star state to visit Chicago for the celebration of Texas day at A Century of Progress on Aug. 23. The high point of the Texas program will be the presentation of "Aïda" with a cast of 1,500 persons in Soldiers' field.

LOS ANGELES IS STILL IN GRIP OF HEAT WAVE

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Southern California today endured the fifth day of a suffocating heat wave. The temperature was given at an official 89 in the shade in the federal forecaster's rooftop booth. A slight shower which fell during the night, in violation of Los Angeles' boast of "no rainy days during the summer," failed to break the heat wave. Temperatures in the area adjacent to Los Angeles ranged from an unofficial 98 in the suburban city limits to 115 in the San Fernando and San Bernardino ranch lands. Los Angeles has had three other extended heat waves this summer. The highest temperature was 96 officially, but ordinary thermometer readings are 8 to 10 degrees higher than the official because the latter is taken in a shady corner of a downtown thirteen story roof top.

All Pacific Coast Hot.

San Francisco, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Heat that was somewhat abated in limited areas pressed down upon the Pacific coast today from Canada to the Mexican border.

Near records for heat were reported from the Pacific northwest today. At Portland, where the temperature reached 103 degrees, it was the hottest ever recorded in August and the hottest on record except for July 10, 1926, when the mercury registered 104. At Medford, Ore., it was 106 during the afternoon. Hood River reported 100; Eugene, 98, the hottest this year, and Klamath Falls, 99.

All August heat records were broken today in Reno, Nev., when for the fifth successive day the temperature climbed above 100 degrees. It was 102.

IT MAY BE LEGAL, BUT SOME WIVES TOTE A WALLOP

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A husband is justified in slapping his wife in the mouth if she calls him bad names, in the opinion of Vice Chancellor Malcolm G. Buchanan.

The jurist made his view known today in commenting on testimony by Mrs. Ruth Goodwin Funkhauser, who is suing Raymond J. Funkhauser for separate maintenance and custody of their two small daughters.

"She admits she called him bad names and says he slapped her in the mouth for doing so," the vice chancellor said. "He was perfectly justified in slapping her in the mouth under the circumstances and his doing so can in no way justify her leaving."

Pair Get 6 Months for Adulteration of Butter

John and Peter Stereck, brothers, were sentenced to six months in the Bridewell yesterday when they were found guilty by Municipal Judge Joseph A. McGarry of violating the pure food law by mixing oleomargarine with butter. Assistant Attorney General Louis Salinger, who prosecuted the cases, said the men were connected with a syndicate he had been trying to run down in an effort to purify the butter supply in Cook county.

FOUR EVANSTON POLICE DIVIDE $200 IN AWARDS

Four Evanston policemen are to divide awards that total $200 for the most meritorious work done by members of the police force in July. Of the sum, $100 is the usual Patten award granted each month and the other $100 the gift of the Orrington hotel.

Detective Auvergne E. Feeley and Hubert Kelsh and Patrolmen Patrick Newton Ingraham and Elmer Egebrecht were named recipients by Chief of Police William O. Freeman.

Feeley and Kelsch, after a pistol battle, captured John Maita and Floyd Hampton, gunmen who later confessed they were on their way to rob a north shore bank. Both have been sentenced to long jail terms. Ingraham and Egebrecht interrupted a robbery of the Orrington hotel and arrested four men who had forced the night manager to raise his hands and were looting the cash drawer. Their prisoners were Harold Klein, Norman Fink, Philip Klein, and Leo Todd.

(3 for $5)

It's summer and that means lots of white shirts are being worn. Furthermore, there seems to be something to this talk about prices going up—we see it every time stocks are replaced. So on the whole we think that men addicted to the wearing of a well-tailored shirt of fine broadcloth with details and collar rather elegantly executed will feel as we do, that this sale is well timed, and the price unusually low for shirts of this quality.

"I'M INNOCENT," ASSERTS WIDOW OF TORCH VICTIM

Mrs. Hanson Grilled for Hours; Sticks to Story.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. May Hanson, 38 year old mother of two children, after a night in jail and eight hours of grilling, was taken this afternoon to her country home six miles west of Rockford, where her divorced husband, Earl Hanson, 42, met his death Sunday night in his flaming automobile, a death which authorities say was a murder.

Hanson's flaming body was found beside his burning car Sunday night a few minutes after he had brought his 12 year old daughter, June, back to her mother. Since their divorce Hanson had been allowed to have the daughter on Sundays each week.

Youth Held For Questioning.

Bruce Thompson, 19 years old, farmer, who lives about a quarter mile from the place where the body was found, was taken into custody for questioning tonight. Witnesses had reported that he was at the scene, holding the swooning widow, when they arrived.

This was true, Thompson said, adding that he had seen the flash of the flames in the lane and had hurried over to investigate. This story was corroborated by the youth's grandmother, Mrs. May Rife. Both said they were at supper when they became aware the car was burning.

Mrs. Hanson was accompanied to the torch death scene today by Assistant State's Attorney Max Weston, Chief Deputy Sheriff Millard Stockburger, and Coroner Walter Julian. Although near collapse as she was taken over the ground where authorities say her husband, an Ingersoll Machine company executive, was murdered by some one who threw gasoline over him as he sat in his car and then set fire to his clothing and the car upholstery, Mrs. Hanson maintained that she was innocent of any connection with his death.

Admits Bitter Quarrels.

Mrs. Hanson freely admitted many bitter quarrels with her husband. She accused him of continuously making her life miserable through "petty tricks." She also told authorities that when her automobile caught fire a year ago Hanson "knew more about it than he had admitted."

Today the investigating officials questioned Nelson McColl, 43, operator of the gasoline filling station near Mrs. Hanson's home. McColl, who admitted he was a close friend of the woman, said he had sold her a gallon of gasoline late Sunday, two and a half hours before Hanson met his death. The gasoline container was found early today in a shed at the woman's home with about three pints of the fluid gone.

Authorities believe the slayer of Hanson carried the gasoline from his container to the scene of the crime a few rods away in a porcelain bowl. The empty bowl, charred by fire, was found near the flame wrecked automobile. Mrs. Hanson admitted the bowl belonged to her, saying she used it to water her chickens.

Widow Is Held.

Apparent burns on Mrs. Hanson's face and hands were examined today by Dr. A. B. Owen, county physician, who found she had been burned about the neck and face. Her eyebrows and hair had been singed, the physician declared.

Mrs. Hanson is held in jail pending the check on the evidence indicating that the gasoline which she purchased from McColl was thrown from the porcelain bowl on her former husband and the matches used to set the flaming death pyre taken from a box which had formerly been in her kitchen and which was found near Hanson's car after the tragedy.

Although no formal charges have been preferred against Mrs. Hanson, State's Attorney Robert E. Nash indicated today he might ask a murder indictment at the October term of the grand jury.

McColl Is Exonerated.

Any possibility that McColl might have been linked with the death was dismissed by Coroner Julian as "impossible." At the time the flames started the gasoline station attendant, whose place of business is but forty rods west of the Hanson residence, was two miles away with several neighborhood farmers fighting a fire in a straw stack.

Attracted by the Hanson fire, he and five others drove to the scene, according to his story this morning.

Mrs. Hanson and two other women used McColl's car Sunday afternoon to make several calls. She returned about 6:30, purchasing the gallon of gasoline, she said, to start an old automobile which was in the garage at her home. Investigation today is reported to have shown that there was a quantity of gasoline in the car.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Fred C. Olson mortuary, with the Rev. O. G. Beckstrand, associate pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, officiating. Masonic services will be held.

SONSTEBY VOICES HIS REGRET FOR KASPER'S ACTION

Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court yesterday addressed a letter to the Rev. Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist church, Chicago Temple, in which he wrote that the reported denunciation of a policeman by Judge Michael G. Kasper for arresting a hoodlum was a "regrettable incident not typical of the Municipal court."

The incident took place in the Stock Yards branch of the court when Stanley Novicki, said by police to be a chauffeur for Joe Saltis, public enemy, was released by Judge Kasper. In releasing Novicki, the judge was reported to have rebuked the police for arresting him, although Policeman Jack Kielty cited Commissioner Allman's orders to arrest all hoodlums. Dr. Thompson wrote a letter to Judge Kasper upbraiding him for his treatment of the arresting police.

SEVEN INDICTED AS KILLERS; 18 MORE TO PRISON

Two Girls Sentenced in Slaying of Doctor.

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court, Acting State's Attorney Grover C. Niemeyer, and the grand jury moved yesterday to bring about speedy justice for gunmen who have committed murders in defiance of the war against crime being conducted by the authorities.

Indictments were voted in three murder cases, one of them the killing of Policeman Joseph Hastings in a pay roll robbery on the Navy pier Monday afternoon. Arrangements were made for the arraignment of the defendants tomorrow and their trial within as short a time as possible.

18 Sentenced in Day.

The judges who are conducting the anti-crime campaign in the Criminal court speeded up the work of the court yesterday and added eighteen more penitentiary sentences to their record. This brings to 127 the number of prison sentences imposed since the campaign started two weeks ago.

Two of the judges, Marcus A. Kavanagh and D. J. Normoyle, worked late in the evening to conclude jury trials and impose sentences to create a new record for prison sentences imposed in one day of work. Judge Normoyle, chief justice of the Circuit court, who broke a tradition of that court to help out in the crime drive, announced that he was through in the Criminal court because of the pressure of his duties in the civil courts. This now leaves only eight judges to carry on the war.

Included in the sentences imposed during the day were those of one to two years each for Mildred Rundle, 18 years old, and Blanche Chevetal, 19 years old, companions of three youths who on Monday were each sentenced to 100 years in prison for the murder of Dr. Bernard F. Garnitz.

Despite the tears of fainting mothers and sisters, Judge Benjamin P. Epstein refused to listen to a plea that the girls be given their freedom on probation. The judge said they were lucky to receive the light sentences recommended by the state's attorney's office because the girls had agreed to be prosecution witnesses against the men.

The first case in which the grand jury acted yesterday was that of Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, the "blonde tigress"; George Dale, alias Kennedy, 28 years old, and Leo Menneci, 27 years old, charged with the murder of Gustav Hoeh, 70 years old, owner of a haberdashery at 5948 Division street. Besides the murder indictment, six robbery indictments were also returned by the jury against the three defendants.

The jury then returned indictments against Morris Cohen, 37 years old, and Hyman Sinnenberg for the murder of Policeman Hastings. The indictments followed quickly on the heels of the action of a coroner's jury in returning a verdict ordering the men held to the grand jury. Cohen was captured soon after the murder. Sinnenberg is still a fugitive.

Slayer in Peril at Inquest.

At the inquest James Hastings, a brother of the slain policeman, tried to strike Cohen and was restrained only by friends and relatives. Some of the bystanders joined in the mêlée, and for a time the situation appeared serious for Cohen, but the police hurried him away before concerted action could be taken by the crowd.

Cohen, although wounded, was able to appear at the inquest and testify. He admitted plotting the Navy pier robbery after he overheard a conversation in a barber shop in which two men told of how men on the emergency relief rolls who are doing work for the city received their pay in a city office on the pier.

The third murder case in which the jury took action was one involving Chester Gallus and James Kuratko, slayers of the conductor of a Cicero avenue street car who resisted their attempt to rob him last week. Both were indicted for murder.

"The only way to answer this apparent defiance on the part of the criminal element is speedy trials and punishment," said Chief Justice Prystalski in ordering the quick arraignment of the seven indicted as killers. "I do hope a few more judges will quickly volunteer for Criminal court service so that we can take up the slack in the ordinary run of cases while we dispose of these murder cases."

The murder defendants indicted yesterday will be arraigned tomorrow morning, as will John Scheck. Scheck is the slayer of Policeman John Sevick, who was shot three weeks ago while attempting to prevent Scheck from escaping from Judge Charles P. Molthrop's courtroom. It was this murder which caused Chief Justice Prystalski to start the present campaign against quick triggered gunmen who have killed 11 policemen since Jan. 1.

Scheck's Plea Delayed.

Scheck was arraigned yesterday before Judge Prystalski, but because he did not have the benefit of an attorney's advice, no plea was entered. His mother, Mrs. Rose Scheck, fainted as she entered a plea of not guilty to aiding her son in his attempted escape by slipping him a revolver in a pocketbook.

Judge Harry B. Miller, one of the volunteer judges in the Criminal court, was credited with five penitentiary sentences yesterday. Those sentenced by Judge Miller were:

EDWARD ETCHINGHAM, 19 years old, and ALFRED KENNEDY, 21, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in prison for robbery of a garage at 3439 5th avenue. Sentence was imposed after a jury found the defendants guilty.

FRANK SROKA, 33 years old, sentenced to 1 year to life for burglary of the home of H. A. Phillips, 2220 West 18th street, on June 18.

RUDOLPH MAGDOLEN, sentenced to 1 year to life after a jury took only six minutes to find him guilty. He was convicted of looting the drug store of Joseph Swanson, Glencoe, on July 12. He was on parole from the Leavenworth federal prison at the time.

GEORGE VENSON, 52 years old, colored, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary when he was found guilty of assaulting Mrs. Luella Williams, colored, with a knife. Assistant State's Attorney Albert Woll prosecuted all five cases.

Those sentenced by other judges, besides the Rundle and Chevetal girls, were:

MORRIS SOLOMAN, 37 years old, and ISADORE ABRAMS, 43, sentenced by Judge Prystalski. Abrams was sentenced to 1 year to life for burglary and Soloman to 1 to 10 years for larceny. Abrams has served two penitentiary sentences.

JAMES MURRAY, 24 years old, and WILLIAM SULLIVAN, 35, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each by Judge Ross G. Hall. They were found guilty of stealing an automobile from Maurice L. Bein, 134 North La Salle street. Both have previous records and escaped from a southern Illinois jail.

VIDAL AQUILERA, 36 years old, sentenced to 1 to 14 years by Judge Marcus Kavanagh when he entered a plea of guilty to manslaughter. He stabbed Andres Jimenez to death during a quarrel.

WALTER HEREDY, 21 years old, and FRED MASACCHIO, sentenced to 1 year to life each by Judge Daniel P. Trude after they were found guilty by a jury. They robbed Joseph Moll, 13358 Houston avenue, of $158 on May 20.

JOHN FRAZION, 24 years old, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Trude. He is the last to be sentenced of the gang which robbed the Aetna Finance company. Theodore Arlt and Walter Newman, the other robbers, were sentenced to 1 year to life 1 week.

JESSE HIBBS, 35 years old, colored, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Trude. He was found in possession of a stolen automobile.

MIKE KLAWE, 53, found guilty of manslaughter last evening in Judge Kavanagh's court and sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary. He was charged with having killed Otto Wargovsky, 52, on May 24, in a shack on the north branch of the Chicago river at Berteau street. Otto Klopke and Nick Stumpf, co-defendants, were cleared.

JACK LIEBER, alias Charles Lieder, 26, found guilty of robbery in Judge Normoyle's court and sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary. He was charged with robbing George Wick, a salesman for a used car dealer at 4107 Milwaukee avenue, on June 28.

Charles Coleman and James Murphy, who were seized early last Friday in front of the home of Mayor Kelly, were held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green in the Felony court on charges of robbery. John Sullivan was held as an accessory. All three of the men are out on parole. Judge Green made the bond $90,000 for each and expressed a hope that they would be on the way to the penitentiary within a week.

AGREE GANGSTER LIVES AS AID OF CITY POLITICIAN

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—George Z. Medalie, United States attorney, told the Copeland committee on racketeering today that gangsters and racketeers would continue to flourish in cities "until politics is divorced from municipal control."

Agreeing with him, Frederic Kernochan, presiding justice of the Court of Special Sessions and a personal friend of President Roosevelt, declared the gangster got protection from district leaders in exchange for services in political campaigns.

The testimony of Kernochan and Medalie—the former a Democrat and the latter a Republican—was the feature of the committee's second public hearing.

Twenty-three judges, public prosecutors, lawyers, and others contributed to the symposium on organized crime and its control. They represented a wide diversity of opinion.

U. S. Should Help States.

Most of them agreed that the government should help the states in the war on crime, either by enlarging existing crime detection bureaus to cooperate with local officials or by tightening the present statutes relative to racketeering.

Several federal judges said the United States courts already were handling too many cases that should be prosecuted by the states.

Howard W. Ameli and Mrs. Medalie, both United States attorneys, declared themselves opposed to a constitutional amendment that would give the United States concurrent jurisdiction with the states over the major crimes allied to racketeering. Mr. Medalie said state officials would be inclined to "lie down and let Uncle Sam do their work," and Mr. Ameli declared it would create "an unsatisfactory division of authority."

Politicians Blamed.

"In almost every large city," Mr. Medalie said, "racketeers and gangsters are part of the machinery of municipal control."

"You speak of the occasional politician, don't you?" asked Senator Copeland, who is a Tammany man.

"No," retorted Mr. Medalie. "I am speaking of the professional politician. I could name four right here in this county."

Joseph B. Keenan of Chicago, special assistant to Attorney General Homer Cummings, asked Mr. Medalie to explain how politics could be separated from municipal government.

"If people regularly overthrew the machine you would have a fair chance of getting rid of that permanent group of parasites," Mr. Medalie said.

Mr. Keenan thought Mr. Medalie wanted "the millennium," but the federal attorney retorted that what had been accomplished in European cities could be done here.

Useful to District Leaders.

Justice Kernochan said the racketeers and gangsters existed "because they had some usefulness to district leaders." It was true they did guard gambling houses from other gangsters, but the special work they did was for the district leaders on primary day and election day.

"Racketeers would be given a tremendous blow," he said, "if in some way the protection of the district leader could be taken from them."

In adjourning the session, Senator Royal S. Copeland said hearings would be held before the full committee on Oct. 3 in Chicago and Oct. 5 in Detroit.

Shotgun Bandits Seize $600 in Store Robbery

Five bandits, some of them carrying sawed-off shotguns and concealing their features with handkerchiefs and smoked glasses, obtained $600 yesterday afternoon in a holdup of the Chicago Auto Parts company store, 3053 Lawrence avenue. One remained in a car parked outside while the others paired off and entered through the front and rear doors, herding six employés, including two women, into a side room. William Collins, the manager, was forced to lead them to the open safe from which they scooped the receipts of several days' business.

DRUGGAN IS MOVED FROM LEAVENWORTH TO ATLANTA PRISON

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Terry Druggan, Chicago racketeer, was transferred to the federal prison here tonight from the penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., where four prison officials, including a deputy warden, were discharged after the revelation that Druggan had been accorded unwarranted privileges.

The transfer was made secretly and Druggan was removed from the train on a dark sidetrack in the railroad yards here.

He was hurried into a prison automobile by a detail of guards and taken immediately to the prison on the outskirts of town. There the silence that envelopes all prisoners covered him. Officials of the prison declined to say anything about him.

The train was brought into Atlanta more than 10 minutes ahead of time, but railroad officials would not say whether that was done purposely to assist in keeping Druggan's presence a secret.

Dead Man at Wheel of Auto on Crowded Street

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 15.—(AP)—A dead man sat at the wheel of an automobile as it sped down one of Des Moines' busiest thoroughfares today until it ended up against a traffic post. The driver, Arthur R. Flinn, apparently had died of a heart attack.

DISMISS CHARGE BY WOMAN WHO SLEW HUSBAND

A charge of operating a confidence game against Adolph Cohen, 40 years old, 1230 West Madison street, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Benjamin P. Epstein in the Criminal court after it was recalled that the complainant, Mrs. Dora Waterman, 52 years old, 1732 West Lake street, had been convicted of murdering her husband in 1921. Cohen was charged with wooing the widow to obtain a loan of $1,000 from her, after which he disappeared.

"Mrs. Waterman," broke in Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, as she was telling of the romance, "aren't you the woman I defended more than ten years ago for chopping off your husband's head with an ax?"

She nodded and smiled her recognition of Mr. Bachrach.

"I'll dismiss this case," the judge said after learning that Mrs. Waterman had been pardoned after serving three years of a seventeen year sentence. "The evidence is not sufficient."

MILWAUKEE

U. S. WILL PRESS TRIAL OF BAILEY, ARCH CRIMINAL

Will Be Taken to Kansas City Scene of Crime.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Harvey Bailey, escaped convict and desperado leader of "the most dangerous gang of criminals in the country," today was formally charged with the murder of Raymond J. Caffrey, federal agent, slain with four other men in the machine gun massacre last June 17, in the Union station plaza in Kansas City.

Bailey is to be returned to the Kansas state penitentiary at Lansing to await trial in Kansas City, where the murder warrant was issued. Federal authorities asserted that the resources of the department of justice would be turned over to Missouri authorities to obtain a conviction and death penalty.

Meanwhile forces of justice were mustering in Denver, St. Paul, and Milwaukee against Bailey and the ten other prisoners who were seized in a swift series of raids by federal secret service agents begun yesterday afternoon. From Washington Attorney General Cummings announced that President Roosevelt's war on criminals "has just begun."

Wanted for Other Crimes.

Bailey is wanted in Milwaukee as a member of a gang which held up the Kraft State bank at Menominee, Wis., in October, 1931, killing James Kraft, son of the bank president, and escaping with $9,000. In Oklahoma City authorities said that Bailey would be formally charged with the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, oil operator, within the next few days.

In Washington today the attorney general reiterated his appeal that citizens notify federal agents when kidnapings occur. He said:

"The department of justice has reached out and captured the parties responsible for these two most recent outrages of murder and kidnaping.

"From among those held in Dallas and in St. Paul in connection with the Urschel kidnaping three complete confessions now are in the hands of the department. It was possible to obtain these results only because of the speed with which the members of Mr. Urschel's family communicated with our men."

Captured Early Monday.

Agents here today revealed that Bailey had been captured early yesterday, when the Paradise farm was raided. They said the kidnapers were spotted and the arrests made possible only because Mr. Urschel was able to recollect that he heard a transport airliner pass over the farm on every day but one during his imprisonment.

Airplanes were dispatched to patrol the gap on the course, and photographs revealed the presence of the farm. Eventually the succesful raid followed. Today Urschel went to the farmhouse and identified the rooms in which he had been kept and pointed out to agents places where his fingerprints were later discovered on walls and furniture.

Late in the day two agents left their Dallas headquarters armed with machine guns and drove out of the city in the direction of a Wise county farmhouse which has been under surveillance for several days.

Turned Over to Missouri Court.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Department of justice officials here today said there is no federal statute which will allow Bailey to be tried in the federal courts for the killing of a federal agent. Consequently, he will be turned over to the Missouri state authorities for trial in the state courts.

Arrest Suspect at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 15.—(AP)—A fifth suspect in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man, was arrested here today by federal agents and pleaded not guilty. The suspect, Barney Berman of Minneapolis, told federal agents, they said, that he distributed $2,000 of the Urschel ransom money in St. Paul and Minneapolis to four others here. Berman was unable to furnish $50,000 bail. Sam Kozberg of St. Paul, and Sam J. Kronick, Charles Wolk, and William Nelson, all of Minneapolis, are being held pending a hearing Aug. 24 on the issue of their removal to Oklahoma. The suspects claim the money came to the Twin Cities in a liquor deal.

Writ Signed Asking Return of Capone for Racket Trial

A formal request for the return of Al Capone from Atlanta penitentiary to stand trial in the Cook county Criminal court with 23 other persons named in a conspiracy indictment charging racketeering was signed yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski at the request of Acting State's Attorney Grover C. Niemeyer.

The request was in the form of a writ of habeas corpus as provided under the law for the return of a prisoner to stand trial on another indictment. The first step in the proceeding was to set a trial date and, at the request of Mr. Niemeyer, Aug. 29 was the date fixed. The application for the writ of habeas corpus was then presented Judge Prystalski and signed.

Approval Up to Washington.

The action of Judge Prystalski is not binding on the federal authorities, who have Capone in the Atlanta prison under a 10 year sentence for income tax fraud. The writ was forwarded to Warden A. C. Aderholz at Atlanta, who in turn will send it to Washington.

There it must be sanctioned by Attorney General Cummings. The attorney general is expected to return to Washington in a few days from a vacation trip in Connecticut.

It is believed by Cook county officials, however, that the government will grant the request inasmuch as State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney and United States District Attorney Dwight Green have already conferred on the matter.

Plan of State Prosecutors.

The plan of the prosecution is to try Capone on the racketeering charge and if he is convicted have him serve the new sentence after he has finished his federal sentence.

Among those indicted with Capone on the racket conspiracy charge are Murray Humphries, his successor in gangland; Dr. Benjamin Squires, economist and labor arbiter; Ald. Oscar Nelson of the 46th ward; Aaron Sapiro, New York attorney, and Attorney Morris I. Kaplan, counsel for several trade associations. Sapiro is resisting extradition in New York.

FEDERAL COURT DENIES WRITS TO TOUHY AND GANG

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.] — Federal Judge F. E. Geiger today ruled that $50,000 bail each for Roger Touhy and three hoodlums held on charges of kidnaping William Hamm, St. Paul brewer, is not excessive, and refused to release them on writs of habeas corpus asked for by William Scott Stewart, their counsel.

"The defendants cannot be said to be held without due process of law, which is the provision contemplated in the application for the writ," the court said. "The failure of the defendants to raise the bail cannot be construed as proof that it is excessive."

JURY ACQUITS; WIDOW CALM AS SHE'S FREED

Cleared of Poisoning a Fire Captain.

Salem, Mass., Aug. 15.—[Special]—A jury in the Essex county superior court today acquitted Mrs. Jessie B. Costello of the poison murder of her husband, William J. Costello, captain in the fire department of Peabody Mass.

Mrs. Costello resolutely had affirmed her innocence through a trial that started July 17. She heard the verdict with no show of emotion. She is the mother of three children, and was accused of causing her husband's death by administering poison in their home Feb. 17.

Mrs. Costello was indicted a month after her husband's body had been found in a hallway of their home. The funeral was halted abruptly at a church. There followed three examinations of the body, each, the state charged, disclosing poison.

For a moment following the verdict there was an intense silence in the courtroom. Some one, however, dropped a note telling of the verdict to a waiting crowd outside. Then the crowd, including many of the defendant's neighbors, gave a long cheer that was echoed by the spectators in the courtroom.

Mrs. Costello walked unassisted to an anteroom. There friends rushed up to shake her hands and kiss her. Among them was a neighbor who had cared for the widow's children while she was on trial. Then Mrs. Costello wept.

"I loved my husband and I didn't kill him," she said.

TRAIN HITS AUTO; EX-POLICEMAN AND WIFE KILLED

William Burns, 62 years old, a former member of the Kankakee police force, and his wife, 59 years old, were killed last night when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by an Illinois Central train at the Station street crossing in Kankakee. A flagman at the crossing said he had waved the car to halt, but that Burns apparently failed to see him.

An automobile collision at Cicero avenue and Dempster street, Niles Center, yesterday caused the death a few hours later of Paul Anderson, 20 years old, 1421 Summerdale avenue. The driver of the car in which Anderson rode, Arthur Johnson, 2105 Summerdale avenue, and another passenger, Arthur Hassen, 2126 Summerdale avenue, were not injured, nor was the driver of the other car, Charles Thiel, 1554 Dewey avenue, Evanston. Anderson's death raised the 1933 Cook county motor toll to 623.

H. J. Christensen, 56 years old, 714A 165th street, Hammond, was killed yesterday when the truck in which he was riding with his son and another man was struck by a Chicago and North Western freight train at a crossing near Normandy, in Bureau county. The son, J. W. Christensen, suffered a broken arm, while the third victim, H. J. Heitman, suffered a broken leg and cuts.

WEIGH PETITION FOR TRUCK LINE IN SHERIDAN RD.

The Illinois commerce commission announced yesterday that it would take under advisement, probably until in the fall, the application of the Willett company for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate a motor freight and express service on Sheridan road between Chicago and Wisconsin cities.

The route would carry the heavy trucks past some of the finest residences in the north shore suburbs. James R. Clark, supervisor of opinions and orders for the commission, completed a hearing Monday at which members of the North Shore Property Owners' association, organized to oppose the truck route, testified.

Testimony was taken from Max Epstein of Highland Park, M. C. Meigs, Evanston; Richard Lyons, Wilmette, and Arthington C. Harvey, Evanston. They asserted that Sheridan road, now one of the most beautiful drives about Chicago, would be damaged by the trucks for use by passenger automobiles and that residential property values would be depreciated. They also pointed out that the new Skokie four lane highway, west of the suburbs, will be opened to traffic next summer, affording a through route for truck traffic.

Robber Captured a Few Minutes After Holdup

Two armed men entered the Bishop drug store at 1530 Madison street last night and forced the clerk, Benjamin Tice, to hand over $14. A few minutes later Policeman Michael Graco of the west park force arrested two men at Paulina and Madison streets on suspicion. Taken to the Des Plaines street station, one of them, John F. Kearney, 25 years old, 326 South Marshfield avenue, was identified by Tice. The other prisoner is Edward Rohn, 24 years old, 4055 Archer avenue.

Fire Damages Warehouse of Old Seipp Brewery

A large crowd gathered early today to watch firemen fight a rapidly spreading fire in an abandoned warehouse of the Conrad Seipp Brewing company at 27th street and the Illinois Central tracks. The flames were brought under control after more than an hour. Actual damage was difficult to estimate, firemen said, as the building, a five story structure, was destined to be wrecked.

MEDICAL ADVISORY BOARD FOR STATE'S INSANE APPOINTED

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today named an advisory board to aid the department of public welfare in care of insane and feeble-minded inmates of the state hospitals.

Its members are Dr. H. Douglas Singer, state alienist, University of Illinois; Dr. Lewis Pollock, Northwestern medical school; Dr. Francis J. Gerty, Loyola medical college, and Dr. Ernest E. Irons, dean of the medical school of the University of Chicago.

Gov. Horner was guided by recommendations of the deans of the state's four largest medical colleges, which are represented on the commission.

"We plan to give better medical attention to the wards in our state hospitals," Gov. Horner said; "and this board will be in reality a small research and education commission."

Railway Employe Robbed After Being Kidnaped

Geneseo, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Leroy Miller, an employé of the Rock Island railway in Silvis, told police this morning that he had been kidnaped and robbed of a satchel containing $3,000 in cash.

CONSTABLE AND WIFE FOUND DEAD IN THEIR HOME

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 15.—(AP)—K. Brooks Williams, 27, constable, and his pretty 24 year old wife, Pauline, were found dead in their home in a suburb early today by Mrs. Nell Draffen, mother of Williams, when she went to the house to deliver Williams' two children, whom she had been keeping at her downtown home.

Williams, shot above the right ear, was lying on a couch. The body of his wife was sprawled at his left on the floor. He died two hours later.

Relatives and police sought to determine a motive that would substantiate the theory that Williams killed his wife and then turned his gun on himself. Police said that relatives of Williams told them he and his wife had quarreled and only last night had been reconciled.

Husband Kills Wife Who Filed Divorce Papers

Dayton, O., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Despite the promised protection of a deputy sheriff who stood near by, Mrs. Julia Ford, 40, was shot to death late today by her husband, Otto E. Ford, 42, an hour after the woman filed suit for divorce. Mrs. Ford had gone home, to get her belongings.

'NOISELESS' SUBWAY CARS MAY BE ADOPTED BY NEW YORK CITY

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A "noiseless" subway car which purrs along as quietly as a Pullman, so that one can carry on casual conversation across the aisle in low tones, impressed a group of dignitaries so much on an experimental run today that it was predicted all the I. R. T. lines will adopt the same type in a few months.

Thoms E. Murray Jr., one of the receivers for the I. R. T., said it is planned to install the noise killing equipment on all I. R. T. cars if a canvass of the passengers shows that they prefer it. An experimental 10 car train of "noiseless" cars will be put into use within a month, and Interborough employés will be detailed to learn the passengers' reaction, he said.

Experts said the devices on the car reduce ordinary subway noise 99 per cent.

Special strips make the doors and windows airtight and noisetight, and there are mufflers at the openings where air comes in. All rattle at doors and windows has been eliminated.

GIRL HUNTING FOR JOB SAVES NINE FAMILIES

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Miss Esther Sanberg, high school graduate, received full credit today for saving nine families from possible death in a serious fire on Hegeman avenue, Brooklyn, shortly before 6 a. m.

Miss Sanberg personally ushered the families out of the building, preventing a panic. When it was discovered that a young boy had been forgotten she reëntered the burning building and aroused him in time to escape.

Miss Sanberg, a graduate of the Girls' Commercial High school in Brooklyn, is unemployed. For the last few months she has arisen about 5:30 a. m., bought a newspaper and started out looking for a bookkeeping job. This morning she smelled smoke.

She immediately set about arousing tenants and leading them through the smoke to the street.

Poison Kills 4 in Auto; Lawyer Held as Suspect

Malvern, Ark., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Poison killed four persons, including two small children, during a motor trip near here late today, and authorities tonight expressed the belief they were murdered. Mort H. Shank, an attorney of Akron, O., was held without charge pending an investigation. One child, 4, escaped the poison.

Welcome, Old Friends and New!

LAST week a little old lady who had not been in Chicago for more than twenty years strolled again through this store. She rubbed her eyes in amazement at the thrilling transformations she saw . . . as marvelous, she declared, as the wonders of A Century of Progress.

She recalled the little 20x60 ft. store near State and Adams streets, where she had loved to shop, back in 1875. What pleased her most was the same friendly spirit that prevailed, despite the massive structure now occupying 11 stories above and 3 floors below the street level, the vast expanse of nearly 1,000,000 square feet required to house today's merchandise marvels.

To our old friends who knew us when The Fair and Chicago were both young, we extend a hearty invitation to celebrate the 100th Anniversary of Chicago, and the 58th year of The Fair, with us, on Hospitality Day.

To those who have never met us, we say: "Come in, browse around, feel at home! Enjoy the conveniences of our rest rooms and the services we offer to help our customers enjoy their shopping to the utmost."

Remember, there's always the spirit of "open house" at The Fair . . . where you will find the best of things for yourself and your home, exquisite gifts you'll be proud to take back . . . the satisfaction of dependable quality, and prices surprisingly moderate.

KIDNAPER TRAP FAILS; 2 ESCAPE IN WILD PURSUIT

Planes and Police Create Uproar in Suburbs.

this case, so they heard, the Touhy gang proposed picking up the money in a car, then climbing into a plane to guard against a double cross and insure a getaway. Hence the employment of the two police planes.

Plans for springing the trap and making certain of the capture of the extortionists were completed at 2 a. m. yesterday in the Scotland Yard station at 21st street and Canalport avenue. At 9 a. m. Sergt. Naughton and Lieut. Andrew Barry proceeded to the Chicago airport, signed waivers releasing the government from obligation in the event of accident, and climbed into the two bi-planes procured for them by Mr. Purvis.

One was a regular army ship from Fort Sheridan and the second an unidentified private plane number 25-E. An army pilot was at the controls of each plane.

The lieutenant and the sergeant each lifted a Thompson machine gun into their seats. The drums were set and the triggers well oiled. The pair were prepared for what they expected to be the first battle between police and gangsters in the air.

Twenty Squads Under Arms.

Equally extraordinary preparations were under way in the Scotland Yard station. Twenty squads were under orders to report there at 2 a. m., and remain within the station and away from telephones until given other orders. Around 9 a. m. they got their first orders.

Without uttering a word, Chief of Detectives Schoemaker handed each squad leader a sealed envelope. Not until the leaders had stuffed their envelopes in their pockets, did the chief speak. He ordered the men into the squad cars and directed the leaders to read their sealed orders as they proceeded west in 22d street. No car was to drop out of line under any circumstances, he commanded.

The cars started west. En route the leaders opened their orders and found instructions to take up posts at various intersections surrounding the square mile bounded by 22d street, Wolf road, 31st street, and Mannheim road. The orders stated that a gang of desperadoes were being sought and instructed the men not to hesitate to use their machine guns. The orders told no more and the squad men proceeded on their way, mystified.

Two Policemen Don Disguises.

At the hour of the squads' departure the two central figures in the police drama were dressing for their parts. Also following sealed orders, Policeman Frank McKenna and Sergt. John Meyers reported at the loop office of the federal bureau of investigation. There Policeman McKenna, especially selected for his short stature and youthful face, donned a messenger's uniform, while Meyers stepped into a well worn cab chauffeur's uniform and donned a driver's cap. Mr. Purvis acquainted them with all the details of their assignment.

The pair stepped into a specially chartered Checker cab at the curb and drove west. The instructions were to drive southwest in Ogden avenue to the point where it crosses Wolf road, gauging the time to arrive about noon. Under the rear seat was a machine gun, while McKenna gripped a bulky package of folded newspapers, containing a couple of wrinkled dollar bills. These were their only "props."

All Is Perfectly Timed.

The entrances of the various players were nicely timed. As the Checker cab rolled along Ogden avenue through Cicero, Berwyn, and Lyons and approached the Mannheim road about noon, the disguised policemen could see the private plane wheeling lazily overhead, while the second ship, marked U. S. army, was just a spot on the horizon, the hum of its engines inaudible.

They could not see the squads, but knew that the twenty from Scotland Yard, reinforced by seven from the state's attorney's office, had taken their posts in convenient side roads. Imperceptible to the motorists driving by, every cross road of the vicinity was covered by machine guns.

As the cab passed Mannheim road in La Grange, still traveling west in Ogden avenue, Policeman McKenna consulted the orders. They indicated that the cab was now entering the negotiation area designated by the gang and that action would follow soon.

The cab rolled along towards Wolf road, the driver and the "messenger boy" on the lookout for a place described in their orders as Smith's barbecue. The cab was just approaching the intersection when they sighted the barbecue stand at the roadside and a Ford eight cylinder sedan approaching slowly from the west. Both cars came to a stop, their fenders almost touching.

The sedan driver, a short, dark man about 35 years old, in a gray sweater suit, leaned out the window and peered into the cab. His partner, recognized later in his flight on foot as about 6 feet tall and of heavy physique, sat up alert with one hand curled in his pocket as if he clutched a pistol.

"A Package for Smith."

"Have you got a package for Smith?" the short man inquired, giving the password the wire tappers had heard arranged between Factor and the gang.

"Yes, yes, here it is." McKenna responded, shoving the package into the short man's hand.

In a second the sedan was racing north in Wolf road. It whizzed past 31st street, where two squads were stationed, and on toward Cermak road (22d street), a mile ahead.

Meanwhile McKenna and Meyers were not idle. In accordance with their orders, they leaped from the cab as the sedan disappeared and began dancing in the road, waving their arms in signal to the plane, now hovering closer. Receiving the signal, the pilot dipped the ship's nose in token that contact had been made with the extortionists.

The Roads Are Blocked!

The eyes of twenty-seven squad leaders were on the plane. As its nose dipped squad cars rolled out of hiding at twenty intersections and the roads were blocked. It looked as if the extortionists were bottled up and the trap could not fail.

The extortionists' sedan flashed across 31st street a moment after the plane dipped. The squads there were just wheeling into action and the car got by. But a mile north, at Cermak road, the jaws of the trap had snapped. Four squads were massed at that intersection with machine guns and sawed-off shotguns ready.

But the sedan driver was skilled with wheel and brake. Sighting the armament from a quarter mile away he whirled his car into a lane at forty miles an hour, backed out, and within two minutes was racing back towards 31st street. The cab by this time was wheeling north, rapidly approaching the returning sedan.

Like a skilled base runner, the sedan driver surprised the policemen in the cab. He headed straight for the cab, as if inviting a collision, and flashed by just as McKenna had adjusted the drum of the machine gun. The policeman released one blast at the fleeing car.

At 31st street the fugitives careened east, passing the two squads still waiting there. The extortionists could see the tops of forest preserve trees beyond the hills. Five or six squads were in full pursuit by now, while the pilot of the private plane was skimming the trees as Lieut. Barry maneuvered for a machine gun blast from the cockpit. The army plane was off in the distance, scouting for the plane it was believed the kidnapers planned to use.

The chase led three-quarters of a mile east in 31st street to a deep rutted lane running into a grove. The sedan wheeled into the lane, bouncing crazily over bumps. Two hundred yards from the road the turns grew too sharp and the car crashed into an elm.

Disappear in the Thickets.

The fugitives plunged into the thickets, observed only by a few Boy Scouts and campers there. The short, dark one emerged fifteen minutes later at a farmhouse near by a mile northeast, overlooking the intersection of Mannheim road and 22d street. The farmer, John A. Landall, was at his chores.

"I'm in a jam," panted the fugitive. My wife caught me with my sweetheart in the woods. Will you take ten spot to get me to a street car so I can get home before she does. I'll do that while I square it with her."

Farmer Landall slipped the money into jeans. While the ever increasing force of squads was searching for the sedan, questioning campers and riding brush on the other side of the woods, the farmer took the fugitive in his car, drove down a lane to the main highway, and started for Maywood unmolested. Later on at the detective bureau there he and his son, Ernest, were held for further questioning. Landall said he dropped his passenger at Fifth avenue and Madison street, Maywood, where he saw the man board a street car.

Whole District Is Aroused.

By now the screech of sirens and the hum of the planes had roused the whole district. Motorists were being stopped at every intersection and squad cars were racing around the area.

Schoemaker heard a police radio broadcast from downtown to every suburb on the Chicago wave length requesting that all available men respond at once. Within an hour the response doubled the searching force. There were chiefs and men from every little community within ten miles, and even one policewoman with pistol in hand.

The search was marked by confusion. The village chiefs, reluctant to take orders, ran hither and yon, attempting to follow the planes which were searching in wide arcs. Chief Schoemaker and Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office attempted to organize 100 men to search every thicket in the woods, but could muster only sixty. These lined up ten feet apart along 31st street and started north through the woods. They emerged on the other side to report the woods deserted.

Second Fugitive Escapes.

Capt. Gilbert observed a bridge on Mannheim road just south of 22d street. The highway there is elevated above deep ditches and the stream, Salt creek, is banked by thickets where it goes under the road.

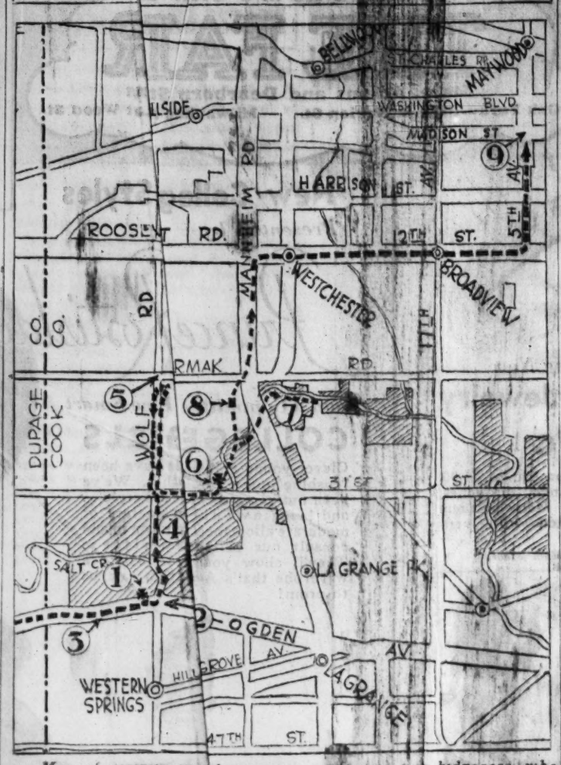
The captain sent a policeman down there to stand guard. The policeman returned almost immediately to report he had seen footprints. No detective story sleuth, Capt. Gilbert did not trouble to measure the footprints, but sent men up the creek which skirts 22d street at that point to see how far the footprints led. The trail was lost a few hundred feet up the road, where, the detectives conjectured, the second fugitive might have cleaned his muddy shoes and got out on the highway.

In any event, they agreed, the quarry had escaped and the trail was cold. The best available clew was the abandoned sedan. Its license plates proved informative. They disclosed that the car had been sold by the Litsinger Motor company to one Eugene Crotty, 7427 Roosevelt road, Forest Park. A raid there last night revealed Crotty to be missing, but, according to the police, established that the place was recently operated as a handbook by "Father Tom" McFadden, one of the four Touhy gangsters now in federal custody.

"The day's work was not entirely profitless," said Chief Schoemaker. "We have good descriptions of these men and we have the coats they left in the car. We have other clews from which I am almost certain they are members of the Touhy gang."

Aside from Farmer Landall and his son the only ones in custody were two unlikely suspects, Morris and Charles Endliss, brothers, 25 and 20 years old, who were found strolling in the forest preserves in shirt sleeves. Morris, who described himself as a Maxwell street salesman, said he and his brother were out on a NRA holiday. The brothers gave their address as 2101 South Springfield avenue.

MAP TRAP FOR TWO KIDNAPERS



Map of vicinity in which trap was sprung on two kidnapers, who escaped. (1) Barbecue stand where ransom money was to be turned over to kidnapers. (2) Police McKenna and Sergt. Meyers in disguise drive west in Ogden avenue to barbecue stand with dummy package. (3) Gangsters approach in west and meet McKenna and Meyers. (4) Receiving the package the kidnapers fled north. (5) At Wolf and Cermak roads the police barricaded the highway, forcing the bandits to turn back. (6) Turning off 31st street into the forest preserve, the kidnapers' car crashed into a tree. (7) One kidnaper escapes on foot along Salt creek. (8) Hot of John Landall, who unwittingly aided the second kidnaper to escape by driving him to Maywood. (9) Fifth avenue and Madison street, Maywood, where second kidnaper was last seen boarding a street car.

QUIZZED IN PLOT

POLICE CAPTURE GUNMAN AND 2 WOMEN IN FIGHT

The police last night had in custody two young women and three men who were seized in two separate shooting affrays yesterday. The women and one of the men were arrested early in the day when police halted an effort by gangsters to settle an affair of the heart with bullets. The other two men were seized after they shot an intended victim while attempting a holdup.

Rivalry for the affections of Frieda Piett, 26 years old, 2809 Warren avenue, led to the first shooting. It took place at the home of Julia Schneider, 20 years old, 1723 West 13th street. After one of Frieda's admirers was routed by six men with shotguns the police arrived and engaged in a battle with the shotgun gang. Five of the gangsters finally jumped into an automobile and escaped, leaving behind John Tenuto, 28 years old, 920 South Oakley avenue, who was arrested with the women.

Trap Laid for Suitor.

Tenuto said that he had accompanied Louis Bangara, 914 South Claremont avenue, and four other men to the Schneider woman's home, where they planned to trap Vincent Minneci, 28 years old, 2170 North Moody avenue, who was visiting the Piett woman there. Bangara and Minneci, he declared, were rival suitors. Frieda herself, according to Tenuto, had known of the plan and telephoned to Bangara when Minneci arrived.

Minneci is a cousin of Leo Minneci, indicted yesterday for participation in the murder of Gustav Hoeh, 70 year old haberdasher. When Bangara and his friends ran into the house Minneci jumped through a window and escaped in a shower of shotgun slugs. The sound of this shooting brought the police.

The women denied Tenuto's story, but an hour after their capture Minneci ran into the Warren avenue police station and asked for protection.

Two Robbers Are Captured.

The two robbers captured are Michael Scafide, 613 Elm street, and Tony Magno, 1104 Larrabee street. They were caught after they shot Stanley Stack, 23 years old, 1900 Wabansia avenue, a meat wagon driver, through the thigh. The holdup attempt occurred in front of a butcher shop at 1450 North Leavitt street. The men stopped Stack and his employer, Mitcheal Sadowski, 2258 West Walton street, brandished revolvers, and demanded money. Stack was shot when he struck at one of the two gunmen.

The sound of the shot reached a police squad cruising in the neighborhood. When the policemen arrived Scafide and Magno threw down their weapons and surrendered.

FALL FATAL TO BABY.

Arnold Aiello, 7 months old, 4529 Gladys avenue, died in the West Suburban hospital yesterday of injuries incurred on Aug. 10, when he fell from his buggy in front of the home.

PICTURE OF OUR ORIENTAL RUG SECTION TODAY

stacked with values . . . in foreground: salesmen eager to show these rugs

Dardezines Herise Shahmirs Araks Chinese

$169 Each Approximate Size 9x12

There are lots of rugs in this group . . . but because of the demand for them which we anticipate, due to the marvelous price, we really consider the collection in the light of a limited quantity. The price is accounted for only by the fact of a timely purchase, when raw materials were at a low and the exchange was in our favor . . . the values are recognizable on sight.

Each of the rugs is typical of the best of the famous names represented in the group . . . and each has a distinct personality of its own. The colors are rich, some with the most remarkable glow, and the patterns, of course, are intricate and beautiful, except for the Chinese floral designs, which are charmingly simple. The durability of an oriental needs no emphasizing.

Hamadan

HAMADAN WEAVES . . SCATTER RUGS . . .

In heavy qualities, lustrous in shading, these rugs are wonderful values. We suggest them as unique gift items . . . a rug from Field's, a fine oriental, at a price that is surprising. Size (approximate) 2.6x4.6 at $11.50 . . . size (approximate) 3x6 at $22.50.

CRIMINAL ACTION IS THREATENED FOR RECEIVERS

Defying Courts, Jarecki Charges.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday totaled $413,758. A total of $36,118,213 has been collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
August 15....	$ 26,096	$ 100,097
Uncollected ..	18,292,699	48,025,634
	1930.	1931.
August 15....	$ 146,724	$ 131,841
Uncollected ..	77,169,946	105,185,318

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $764.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday threatened criminal action against receivers appointed by the judges of the Circuit and Superior courts who have not made efforts in good faith to pay delinquent taxes on the properties they manage. Judge Jarecki did not disclose the names of three receivers who have come to his attention in this respect, but ordered an investigation by Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell.

Charges Defiance of Courts.

"Some of these receivers are in open defiance of the courts that appointed them as well as of this one," Judge Jarecki said, "for only today one of these receivers said to me: 'Why don't you have the state's attorney intervene in our case in the Circuit courts?' But I know a way to stop them and that is to start a criminal action."

Attorneys for the Morrison hotel yesterday paid $30,000 in Judge Jarecki's court, completing their payment on the first installment of 1931 real estate taxes. Judge Jarecki complimented the hotel for having paid all delinquent taxes, totaling $349,000, within the last few months. The payments have been made possible by increased business brought by the World's Fair, the attorneys said.

J. P. MORGAN ASKS FOR CUT IN TAXES ON HIS LONG ISLAND ESTATE

Glen Cove, L. I., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Although the holdings of J. P. Morgan, assessed on the 1934 roll at $1,547,210, received the same 5 per cent reduction as did those of all other property owners in Glen Cove this year, the banker filed complaint early today at the annual grievance day session.

The protest charges overassessment and unequal assessment of the east island properties and the parcel bought about two years ago from the Percy Chubb estate.

In his complaint the banker says that the assessed valuation of his total holdings, uplands and underwater lands, should be $473,697 instead of the $1,547,210 on the roll.

A. L. BOWEN GETS BRANDON'S STATE WELFARE POST

Horner Acts as Democrat Chiefs Ask Jobs.

Gov. Horner at Springfield last night announced the resignation of Rodney L. Brandon, a Republican holdover, as director of the state department of public welfare, effective Saturday. He will be succeeded by A. L. Bowen of Springfield as acting director.

The announcement was preceded by a meeting of the Democratic Cook county central committee in the Morrison hotel, in the course of which failure of the governor to displace Mr. Brandon and two other Republicans in favor of Democrats was bitterly condemned. So strong were the grievances of those attending that it was decided to send a committee of twelve to Springfield from the county organization to urge speedy action on patronage by the state's chief executive.

Seek Other Jobs.

Aside from Mr. Brandon the holdovers who aroused the ire of the local party chiefs are Barney Cohen, director of the state department of labor, and John G. Millhouse, director of mines and minerals.

The state department of public welfare, however, is the richest of the plums, the director having control of all state institutions and of a large budget.

The appointment of Mr. Bowen, who is now state superintendent of charities, does not mean the complete retirement of his predecessor. Gov. Horner named Mr. Brandon a member of the state welfare commission and announced that he would remain in the department for four months to help work out the classification of criminals under new laws which require a shifting of prisoners in state institutions.

Mr. Brandon expressed appreciation of the coöperation of Gov. Emmerson and Gov. Horner in the department's affairs and added that he would give as much of his time as necessary in the handling of the new post he takes.

Bowen a Former Editor.

Under Gov. Emmerson Mr. Bowen served as state superintendent of charities. He was formerly editor of the Illinois State Journal, Springfield. He was executive secretary of the state charities commission from 1910 to July 1, 1917, when Gov. Lowden appointed him superintendent of charitable institutions in the department of public welfare.

The prime reason for calling the meeting yesterday was to make arrangements for Governor's day at the state fair in Springfield next week and Democratic day at A Century of Progress Exposition next month. But the dissatisfaction with the patronage situation soon took precedence.

Among those to express their feelings were Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], Appellate Court Clerk Sheldon A. Govier, and County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough. Cheers greeted the sally by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer that "in Illinois NRA should mean 'No Republicans Allowed.'"

Nash to Name Committee.

The protest committee, it was decided, will be named by Patrick A. Nash, county chairman and national committeeman. It will be composed of three Democrats from the west side, three from the north side, three from the south side, and three from the country towns.

Another committee will arrange for Governor's day at the state fair on Aug. 24, and a third committee will decide on the celebration of Democratic day at the World's Fair, which will probably be held either Sept. 22 or 29.

Mayor Kelly left the meeting before the patronage storm arose. In his speech to the committee he said that he thought the city's finances would be in good shape by the end of the year, but that the outlook for the schools is not so favorable.

IDENTIFY GIRL VICTIM.

Mishawaka, Ind., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A 16 year old girl who threw herself in front of a train last night today was identified as Iline Person. Paul Neiswonger, in whose car she was riding a short time before the suicide, is held for investigation.

L. J. HASSENAUER FIRST ASSISTANT U. S. ATTORNEY

The appointment as first assistant United States district attorney of Leo J. Hassenauer, associated with Attorney Donald R. Richberg in drawing up new deal legislation, was announced yesterday by District Attorney Dwight Green. Richberg is counsel for the NRA and is credited with having drafted much of the legislation required by the administration. Mr. Hassenauer lives in Wilmette.

Reorganization of his staff into two divisions, criminal and civil, was also announced by District Attorney Green, with the purpose of centralizing responsibility of prosecution. Assistant District Attorney Warren Canaday was named to take charge of the criminal division and Assistant District Attorney Lawrence N. Marino was placed at the head of the civil division.

POLITICIANS IN PORTO RICO BALK AT JOB RULING

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A controversy has been started by Gov. Robert H. Gore's published statement that all his appointees must give him undated resignations before accepting office.

The governor said his purpose was to follow out a policy of President Roosevelt. He indicated that the President held his resignation before he sailed for the island.

Antonio Barcelo, president of the Liberal party, said the governor's action was illegal under the organic act sponsored by the late President Woodrow Wilson. There were indications that at least one cabinet member might go to court.

4,375 MEN ARE PUT TO WORK IN CLEANUP OF CITY

Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt announced yesterday that 4,375 men who are on the relief rolls are working for the city in cleaning up vacant lots and pulling weeds. Of this number, 3,640, who are stamping out weeds, are men with families. They are paid $4 a day. The other 735 are single men who live at the relief shelters. They are paid 25 cents a day besides receiving their lodging at the shelters. All of the men are paid from the relief commission funds. The city also started putting 200 men back to work on the Chicago avenue water tunnel. Approximately a mile and a half of the tunnel still has to be bored and eight and one half miles must be lined with concrete. The tunnel is expected to be finished within a year.

Hyde Park Estate Employes of Roosevelt Fly Blue Eagle

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The NRA blue eagle can fly from President Roosevelt's Hyde Park estate—the nation's summer capital. The President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, today notified NRA headquarters that her sixteen employés on the estate had been placed under the blue eagle regulations.

SAVE NOW! IN A FEW DAYS IT WILL BE TOO LATE!

THE time to get your Kelvinator is right now—before prices go up. And we have made it easy for you to do so. You can save the difference between the present low prices and the higher prices which go into effect September 1st by merely making a small down payment on the model you want. If you desire it, we will hold it for you and make delivery any time during September, and there will be nothing more to pay until 30 days after date of delivery.

Prices are low—in all probability the lowest they will be in years to come. The down payment is small. And the monthly payments are actually less than the money a Kelvinator will save you. At such low prices and on such easy terms, you can easily own a Kelvinator now without affecting your budget. As a matter of fact—it will save you money.

September 1st will be here before you know it, so come in soon and pick out your Kelvinator. It will be the wisest investment you've ever made.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

COMMUNITY RESPONSIBILITIES IN RELIEF.

President Hoover, who was willing to go as far as the next one in spending money to buy back prosperity, was against appropriations out of the federal treasury for general unemployment relief. He was acquainted with the English experience which showed that once a man got a dole it was next to impossible to get him to work for a living.

The special session of congress thought differently and appropriated a half billion dollars to be given away this fiscal year. After several months' experience some of Mr. Hoover's worst fears are being realized. The administrator of emergency relief is having difficulty in many states getting them and the municipalities to raise funds so long as there is easy money to be had for the asking at the national capitol. Mr. Hopkins, the federal relief administrator, has warned the states that they must provide half of the billion dollars to feed the unemployed this winter, the federal government providing the other half. And President Roosevelt has written to Gov. Lehman of New York advising him that not only must the state do its part hereafter before being entitled to federal emergency relief money but that cities within a state must also do their full share toward the raising and distributing of relief funds locally. "If," wrote the President, "any municipality fails to supply its reasonable share of relief funds federal aid will be withheld from that state in proportion to the delinquency of the municipality."

The half billion appropriation for direct relief must be treated as of the emergency character which it was represented to be. The cost of maintaining charity cannot be shifted to the communities too soon if we are to escape a permanent pauper population living off a dole.

Hope is seen in the fact that Chicago relief rolls are growing smaller each week, as they should with employment increasing. But in New York City, where the upturn in employment has been vigorous in recent months, there was a ten per cent increase in relief granted during July. Perhaps the imminence of a mayoralty election in that city is responsible. Padded public pay rolls are the usual counterpart of elections. With relief being paid for out of public funds perhaps padded relief rolls before elections should also be taken as a matter of course.

THE CONTINUANCE EVIL.

The present speeding up of proceedings in the Criminal court, admirably organized by the able chief justice of the Criminal court, Judge Prystalski, and carried forward with excellent results by an enlarged bench of judges, is emphasizing the neglected problem of delayed justice. If the gains now being won in this campaign are not to be merely temporary, certain changes of procedure must be accomplished and established. We have already discussed some of these apropos of the present effort to clear the calendar. Another practice requiring correction is the granting of continuances. On this evil recent remarks of T. S. Rice, lawyer and publicist specializing in the field of criminal administration, are timely. Writing in the Brooklyn Eagle, Mr. Rice says:

"Lawyers, individually and collectively, have been absolutely blind to denial of justice due to witnesses withholding information because they were appalled at the utterly senseless amount of time and money they would lose, and annoyance they would suffer, under our present legal systems, civil and criminal. Lawyers are blind to the subject of witnesses because they do not hesitate to ask for really needless delays if they can thereby gain a point for their side, regardless of how many witnesses may be inconvenienced or disgusted by the delay.

"Entirely too many judges are as blind to justice for witnesses as are the lawyers. They grant delays as personal favors to lawyers or others, or to suit their own convenience, wholly indifferent to the fact that from a score to a hundred witnesses may be in the courtroom ready to do their duty to the state when they should be attending to their private affairs.

"In the lower Criminal courts of large cities postponements and adjournments are daily granted on no sensible ground whatever, until the situation is a national scandal. Even in the major Criminal courts postponements are granted, after the witnesses are all assembled, on the piffling plea that the defense attorney is engaged in another court."

The continuance evil is or ought to be notorious, but it receives very little attention. Mr. Rice is right when he charges that it results in the failure of hundreds of prosecutions. Yet "when the prosecution of a notorious thug fails because his trial has been inordinately delayed and he has taken advantage of the opportunity to intimidate or possibly murder witnesses, the magistrates or the Criminal court judges or, as occasionally happens, the complaisant prosecutors, blamed for the failure by press and public?" As Mr. Rice remarks, very seldom. Press and public do not follow the details of procedure and lawyers are complaisant because the custom of granting easy continuances is convenient, even where it does not represent, as it does for unscrupulous criminal lawyers, a deliberate device of the tactics of defense. Busy lawyers, as has been said, do nothing today that can be postponed to tomorrow, and back of the whole situation is a complaisancy toward delay, shared by the bench, the bar, and the public, which refuses to face the fact that delay is probably the chief weakness of the administration of justice in this country and the chief support and resort of the criminal and his aids.

How is it to be cured? Primarily by an awakening of the professional conscience, especially that of our judges. This involves for the lawyers a sacrifice of convenience or improper advantage and for the judges resistance to influence and the inclination to be popular with lawyers. Can this voluntary reform be expected? Not from some practitioners and some judges. For these there must be the condemnation of professional opinion and as to judges and complaisant prosecutors the effectual criticism of the ballot. The latter depends upon more publicity for delays and for this the press must be held responsible, though it has a right to the help of the bar and such citizen agencies as give attention to the routine administration of the courts.

LOYALTIES.

David Darrah, reporting the ceremonies welcoming home General (now Marshal) Balbo and his comrades of the great flight, quotes a sentence from Prime Minister Mussolini's address which will have a special interest for Americans. "When you reached America," said Il Duce, "you warmed with your presence and with proofs of your valor the patriotism of that grand community of Italians."

We do not know the Italian original of this statement, but we assume that Mr. Darrah was accurate in his translation, for Mr. Darrah is a careful and reliable reporter. On this safe assumption, it is not quibbling to remark of Il Duce's use of the word patriotism that it must refer only to Italian subjects resident in the United States and not to American citizens of Italian birth or lineage. For the latter there can be but one patriotism, and that is American, not Italian. The magnificent feat of Balbo and his comrades naturally and properly appealed to the racial pride of all Italians. No fair minded American will resent that. All the world shares their admiration for the accomplishment which is one not only of the valor and skill of the flyers but of the science and disciplined preparation of the Italian air force as an organization. But if the flight to America were intended, as has been rumored, as an effort to stimulate a sentiment of Italian patriotism or perhaps even of Fascist partisanism among all Americans of the Italian race, it would be rightly resented in America as in effect an invasion.

Such an influence would be injurious to this nation, which rightly demands of all its citizens an undivided allegiance. With a just pride in the racial and cultural sources from which our various citizens have sprung, intelligent and loyal Americans sympathize. Each stock brings to the American amalgam special inheritances which will enter into the composition of the eventual American race. But this is a very different matter from nationalist separatism, hyphenated Americanism, as we used to call it. An alien patriotism can only retard the fusing of our people into the unity every nation must have if it is to prosper in peace or survive as a nation. It must afflict us with internal division and set one racial stock against another, importing into our political life issues which are, or ought to be, of little or no concern to the American government and nation.

The Fascist government has seemed on other occasions to cherish intentions which do not respect this important interest of the United States. There are many Italians living abroad whose devotion to Italy a régime which has done so much to invigorate the spirit of the Italian nation quite naturally and properly does not wish or intend to lose. With that wish and intention we do not quarrel until it infringes upon the right of the United States to the allegiance of all Americans to their own nation, and this allegiance must be not merely formal but deep in the spirit of every citizen, regardless of race or previous nationality.

Editorial of the Day

JOHNSON'S RETRACTION.

[Indianapolis News.]

The letter from Hugh S. Johnson to a New York shirt company denouncing what he called its premature and unauthorized use of the NRA sign and saying that he had turned the letter over to the press was hardly less amazing in its implications than his letter of retraction. Taken together, the two incidents define a change in policy paying due regard to the country's sense of justice and defense of the injured when unfair play is exposed. Johnson sent the letter without affording the shirt company a hearing and he gave it to the newspapers with a hope that they would print it, which some did. Undoubtedly the purpose was to pass a swift and sure judgment on an alleged offender at a time when the administration was fearful that its general code might be rejected by important industries.

The letter assumed that the shirt company attempted to exploit the agreement to its own advantage, and the publication undoubtedly was intended to bring public scorn on it. Newspaper executives knew that it might be construed as a libel on the company and its property, but in some instances they assumed that Johnson had taken responsibility and that if the cause were brought to court the newspaper would be absolved of blame on a plea of desire to cooperate in a movement which the President had defined as vital to the cause of national recovery. Others took the view that since the administration could not be sued there was a public responsibility which could not be evaded. They declined to print the name of the company on the authority of an ex parte proceeding.

Johnson soon found that he was in hot water. Ferdinand Pecora appeared as attorney for the company, exhibited the alleged offending advertisement, which was not to the public but to the trade, and maintained that it promised that the company's products could be sold under NRA regulations when the time came to exhibit the signs. He showed also that the company had raised wages in May and complied with all the requirements of the general agreement. Pecora came away from the interview with a letter in which Johnson said "all of us, including myself, make mistakes." If the shirt company suffers no business disadvantage from this experience it will be of benefit to all concerned. Certainly it will warn the administrator that violently coercive enforcement methods cannot succeed unless there is an avowed and deliberate violation and that the good faith of business firms striving within the limits of their ability to promote the President's purpose should be respected.

ARE MACHINES A MENACE?

THE CONFERENCE ACROSS THE STYX became heated. Daniel Webster, presiding, had difficulty maintaining order.

"Whitney did the most damage," said one, "with his invention of the cotton gin. It increased the production of cotton to a point where people have to be coaxed to wear it."

"Don't pick on me," said Eli. "After Howe invented the sewing machine there was such a demand for cotton cloth that only my invention made it possible to keep pace with the demand. And how about Robert there, with his steamboat? Only for him people might still be crossing the ocean in sailboats as in the days of Christopher Columbus."

"Even so, I made the greatest discovery in all history," said Columbus, drawing himself up proudly, "even if my greatest acclaim did come several centuries after I crossed the river."

"Ocean travel cannot compare with railroads," said Commodore Vanderbilt, "even with air travel becoming more popular every day."

"Gentlemen, gentlemen, just what is this discussion all about?" asked Webster; "just what are you trying to prove?"

"That the world is or is not better off with or without machinery," said a forgotten man whose invention had never been seen by another outside the patent office.

(Chorus) "It is—not." Ecila.

SUMMER EVENING

A hush descends; each quivering leaf and bough
Is motionless; all weary wings are furled
Within the nest; the street is quiet now.
Low voices murmur from each darkened porch;
Soft laughter; and the scent of cigarettes,
Each glowing tip a tiny flaming torch,
Is mingled with the smell of grass still wet
And fragrant with the evening's watering.
Security and peace is here, withdrawn
In darkness from the world. The whirling ring
Of hours seem to pause until a yawn
Discreetly, slyly sneaks on time and lo,
The moon sees empty porches row on row.

WANTS FAIR TO CONTINUE.

HTW: I don't know how it sounds to you, but I feel that the large business concerns, hotels and railroads should make an effort to retain the exposition grounds, improvements, etc., and open another show in May, 1934. Then, if the new deal goes over as hoped, thousands and thousands of people would be glad to visit Chicago who are not financially able to do so this year. I have no idea what the expense would be, but think it might be divided up among those to be benefited.

APPEASED.

And now I remember I told you to go;
For though you loved me, I did not want you—
I was too young then my own mind to know.
And ever since then my heart has been questing,
Over the hills and down to the sea,
Where gulls are circling over the headlands,
But never a place where your face I may see,
And never a place where your voice is speaking
Words you would say should we meet again.
The long years of silence are stubbornly keeping
The sound of your voice as I heard it then.
But at last I'm appeased and I've ended my questing,
Though I've traveled long and I've traveled far,
While the silence of years has shrieked unto heaven,

HELPER L. S. OF EFFINGHAM, ILL., SENT a letter of vacation best wishes to R. H. L. addressed to "R. H. L., Somewhere, Canada." The Canadian postal authorities returned it to this country for "Better Direction." On its return it found its way promptly to Tribune Tower. However, we're no better off than the Canadian postoffice men, for Uncle Dick left no forwarding address. It awaits his return.

TWINNING GONE WRONG.

THESE deformed calves that carry around an extra leg and deformed chickens that sport an extra wing are in reality twins. Instead of one calf the specimen is two calves, or one and a remnant of a twin.

Man is subject to the same kind of congenital deformity. Every now and then a three legged baby is born. The extra leg may be near where a leg ought to be, or it may be in some place where no leg is ever expected to be. Such babies are not individuals. In each instance they start out to be twins. Two embryos were growing side by side. There was not room enough and they began to crowd. A part of one grew over some part of the other, destroying it as it grew. In the illustration cited the extra leg is the only visible part of the overrun twin to survive. The specimen is merely an illustration of twinning gone wrong.

Twins like the Siamese twins, in which two individuals develop completely except for some unimportant parts, illustrate the same type of twinning gone wrong in the same way. The difference is that in the case of the Siamese twins there was very little overlapping of the developing embryos.

Most of the examples of congenital monstrosities are due to causes other than twinning gone wrong. The plan of development of the embryo is very complicated. It is not only complex as to its parts, but also as to its time schedule. If a part develops exactly according to the structural plan, but develops too late or too early, it throws the machine out of gear just as much as though the plan had otherwise gone wrong.

We guard against this the embryo is well protected in many ways. In fish the protection is far less perfect. Examine the specimens in a fish hatchery and note there are thousands of deformed fish—minnows with two heads, two tails, and all manner of other deformities. While twinning gone wrong explains the duplication of legs, arms, and even bodies, it does not explain all the other deformities, or even the majority of them.

Why do some babies have six fingers? Suppose we answer by asking, why five fingers? The reply is that the plan calls for five buds on the end of the arm, each growing out of a finger. But that does not answer, why five. The only answer is, that was the inherited plan. Occasionally a baby will start out with a plan that calls for six buds, from which six fingers develop. Why? The only answer is that a child often inherits such a plan from one or both parents. The genetics rules for the inheritance of extra fingers are fairly well known.

Why does one child have a mouth of a size we call normal, while an occasional child has a mouth that is much too large, or another that is so small as to constitute a deformity? Why? There is no good answer. At one period of development of the embryo the mouth cleft is enormous. As development proceeds this cavity becomes smaller. If for any reason the change stops when the mouth opening is too large, or if the closure goes too far, there is deformity. But why?

In some cases due to mechanical injury, infection, or disease of some sort a good plan is not carried out. Something goes wrong. A process stops in its tracks, or it slows up, or it speeds up, or it overdoes. Congenital deformity may result from any of these causes.

PROBABLY THE HEART.

H. B. G. writes: When I drive my car to town every morning to begin a day's work I step out of the car and walk across the street to the office. By the time, or before, I reach the office my head is swimming and my head and body seem to swell temporarily. This happens every morning. If I stoop over and get up quickly my head swims, and at times there is a slight hurting in my throat. If I take exercise that is the least bit vident I have that feeling, and it interferes with my daily work.

My blood pressure is 145 in the morning and my age is 51. I take no stimulants and have always had correct habits. I have had a strenuous life as a banker and have gone through unusual strain and worry for many months. My blood pressure rises ten or fifteen points by afternoon if my work is at all trying.

I have a heart murmur which I was not aware of until six months ago. For several years my head would swim if I got up before a large crowd to make a talk, or if I played too hard at golf, or when climbing a hill. My heart has never pained me.

It seems that I go through a nervous strain driving the car through traffic and by the time I reach he office I am ready for an attack, which lasts about a minute. My heart beats slow and hard for a short time. If I stand still for a minute my head does not swim and the attack passes.

REPLY.

My guess is that the condition of your heart and blood vessels accounts for your symptoms. You probably have an organic heart disease and arteriosclerosis. Have your blood examined for anemia. The best medicine for you is freedom from worry and anxiety and emotional calm.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 16, 1917.

PARIS.—"Hands off" is the keynote of the Paris newspapers' editorial comment on the pope's peace note. This note, they say, reflects the identical attitude evidenced last December when President Wilson issued his peace note without defining clearly the different status of the powers which forced the world war and the powers which took up arms in self-defense. The Vatican's ambiguous reference to Alsace-Lorraine arouses the chief resentment and the slighting of the Balkan-Russo-Rumanian situation draws severe criticisms.

WAR SUMMARY.—Canadian troops tore a great gap yesterday in the German defenses surrounding the city of Lens, the coal mining center in northern France which the allies have been struggling to win for more than two years. The men of the dominion swept the Germans from the famous hill 70, which dominates not only the city of Lens but the entire Loos salient. It was on this hill that the British forces of Sir John French were broken in their efforts to reach Lens in the first battle of Loos, in September, 1915. The hill was the last high ground held by the Germans in the Artois, and its fall menaces their whole line south to Queant and north to La Bassee. The Canadians pressed onward, capturing several of the fortified suburbs of Lens. At last reports they had entered the western section of the city proper and were engaged in hand to hand fighting with the Germans. Troops under Field Marshal von Mackensen are pursuing the retreating Russo-Rumanian forces in the mountain land on both sides of the River Putna.

CHICAGO.—Two companies of the Second infantry and one company of the Seventh infantry are on their way to their training camp in Houston, Tex. They are to put the camp in shape for their comrades who will follow.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The First Illinois field artillery and the troops from Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan and other states forming the new Forty-second National Guard division have been ordered to mobilize at Mineola, L. I., to prepare for embarkation to France.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

QUESTION—What do the jinrikishas rent for by the hour? Has the same price prevailed since the opening of the Fair? What per cent do the boys get?

ANSWER—They rent for $1.40 per hour. The price has always been the same. As to the salary of the boys, that is a personal matter and cannot be answered by others than themselves.

QUESTION—Is it legal to make souvenirs of pennies as they do at the Fair grounds?

ANSWER—It is not illegal to mutilate coins as long as no attempt is made to put them into circulation again.

QUESTION—Where is the Link-Belt company's exhibit?

THE REFORESTATION CORPS.

Marshfield, Wis., Aug. 10.—Your glowing editorial "Relief at Its Best" is distinguished by its puerile optimism and disregard of plain facts, though would that its pretty sentiments were true. You crusade against so many governmental foolishnesses, why not against the bad features of this project? Not that reforestation work isn't decidedly laudable or desirable, for the management thereof.

In the first place, the latitude allowed the recruits is unwise and ridiculous. The men should be under army discipline and subjected to the severest sort of regulation. Discipline is terribly lax. There is much drinking and carousing. The twenty-five dollars of their stipend which is sent to their families is in large measure forwarded right on to them for spending money. Their families must be in dire need!

Secondly, there is nothing to keep the men in camps, such as desertion charges, and how can a disorganized, continually shifting crew work well? The men are constantly leaving and the highways are full of them in their uniforms as they blithely hitch hike away.

Thirdly, the actions of these men have greatly aroused the ire of various communities in northern Wisconsin, at least. Almost no work is done, and these plain bums infest the nearby towns by day as well as night. If you were to send a reporter to Park Falls, for instance, where they hate the sight of a reforestation recruit, he would find that your fond idea that the camps were training "youths in health and morale" would provoke great laughter.

And lastly, if it is the cheapest of all relief works, what extravagant cheapness! Millions of dollars a month are being poured into this dismal fiasco of what was a great conception.

Roosevelt's measures deserve praise, but why must all the newspapers outdo each other in their hysterical paeans for any of his measures, come what may? Not a newspaper in the country professes any alarm at the great outgoing of money into extravagancies. Where are your old battle swords?

Next time you write an editorial, do gird yourself with a few facts or else learn to recognize a poor joke.

COURTEOUS POLICE.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Aug. 12.—I have been reading of the courtesy awards that you have been giving the most courteous police officers.

I have been going into Chicago for the last ten years, both on business and pleasure, and I have always found that officers are more courteous than in the smaller towns and have yet to meet one that would not direct me any place that I asked about, and they were always careful to explain which was the best way to go, if driving; and if necessary to take the surface line or elevated, which car to take.

The only time that an officer ever talked the least bit hard was when I was down in the loop for the first time and made a left turn, and he did not get abusive, just made a few sarcastic remarks about the way Michigan farmers drove their cars in town, and then went on to explain that I could not make a left turn for several blocks in the loop.

I think the biggest trouble with the people that have trouble with the officers is that they get sarcastic and think that the officer should take it and like it.

I think if you are going to give courtesy awards that you should start right in and give them to the entire police force. G. N. N.

HOW LONG TO SEE THE FAIR?

Cicero, Ill., Aug. 10.—I wish to make a statement in regard to a remark in today's TRIBUNE, the Voice of the People, that it takes "eight days to see all the Fair." I don't think that Mr. Lindsay nor any one else is in position to judge how long it takes a person to see the Fair. That depends entirely on the individual. Evidently Mr. Lindsay has made the calculation according to his own experience.

I know of people that could see all of the Hall of Science in two hours, but it would take a scientist a month or more to see it all. That applies to the Fair in general. The estimate of eight days is either one person's opinion or a guess. Neither case constitutes an average. SALVATORE GROTTOLA.

85 PER CENT CORRECT.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—In reference to the statement of A. H. R. in today's TRIBUNE on the weather forecasts: The facts in the matter are that the forecasts are substantially correct 85 per cent of the time. Is it fair to judge of their worth on the basis of the 15 per cent that are incorrect? The question answers itself.

DELAY CLAIMS AGAINST FARM LOAN DEBTORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Federal leniency and the urgency of the farm relief programs today caused Uncle Sam to forego an immediate chance of collecting some of the 300 million dollars farmers owe him on past seed and crop production loans.

In an enunciation of policy, handed down by the Roosevelt super-cabinet, the government temporarily waived all claims against debtor farmers in order that they might receive the full cash benefits contemplated under the cotton relief program.

The executive council's dictum solved the problem first presented by a 58 year old law prohibiting the payment of government money to persons already indebted to the government. Under this statute it was feared that farmers who agreed to cut their acreage would have to use a portion or perhaps all of the "compensating" federal benefits to cancel the debt.

Acute Problem Solved.

This law, Attorney General Cummings found, was rendered inoperative by later amendment. But the problem of how the government could pay the farmer for plowing up cotton he had already posted with the government as collateral for loans was still acute.

The council solved it with the statement that "farmers will not be required to return to the government any part of the payments on account of any debt over which a government lending agency has exclusive control and where the interest of any third party is not affected."

The government felt constrained, the council said, however, to waive only the debts in which it was the only interested party. These include seed and crop production loans previously made through the department of agriculture, the farm credit administration and the regional agricultural credit corporations under the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Unlucky Endorsers.

Where other parties, such as endorsers, are involved, the farmer debtor's obligation will be deducted from the benefit payments he receives. In this unlucky category, it was explained, are farmers whose crops are held as collateral by federal land banks for interest or principal payments in default on mortgage contracts, or whose paper has been indorsed by a third party or rediscounted by federal intermediate credit banks.

Officials of the farm credit administration estimated that of the 100 million dollars to be distributed in cash bounties under the cotton program, about 40 millions would go to farmers who are indebted to the government. Three-fourths of these farmers, it was said, have no third parties interested in their obligation and the federal claim against them will be temporarily waived. The remaining one-fourth, to whom 10 millions in benefits would have gone, will have to use part or all of their cash payments in canceling the federal debt.

Not Reached as to Wheat.

The policy laid down by the executive council today applied specifically to cotton payments, as these are expected to begin immediately. Although the situation is somewhat different with regard to wheat, it was said, a similar attitude will be adopted by the government toward federally indebted wheat farmers when the wheat payments under the domestic allotment plan are ready to begin.

The solution of the problem, which threatened to provoke what Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today termed a "very unfavorable" attitude toward the relief programs among farmers, was worked out by Mr. Wallace, Gov. Henry Morgenthau Jr. of the farm credit administration and Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The announcement of the settlement, made by Mr. Morgenthau, described the decision as "liberal and lenient treatment to the farmer borrowers who are coöperating in the crop reduction program."

Killed in Fight on Street; 3 Youths Held as Slayers

Vincent Gerace, 36 years old, 512 Noble street, was killed in a fight last night at Noble street and Chicago avenue. Three youths were arrested as his slayers. They are John Nasko, 14 years old, and his brother, Peter, 17 years old, of 1503 Superior street, and Walter Zubik, 15 years old, 1350 Huron street. The trio said they had been passing the corner when Gerace attacked a sandwich peddler, Herman Kurkjeim, and that they went to the latter's assistance. Kurkjeim supported this story. It is believed that Gerace's skull was fractured when he was knocked down by the youths.

VETERINARIANS PROTEST PUBLIC SERVICE WASTE

Say U.S. Agents Invade Their Field.

A protest against the waste of public funds in the federal agricultural extension service and that department's encroachment on private business was made yesterday at the convention of the American Veterinary Medical association at the Palmer house.

A report of a year's survey, made by a special committee of the association, complaining of the inactivity of the Shannon legislative committee, which investigated the charges of governmental waste and interference, will be made today by Dr. H. E. Curry of Kansas City, Mo., chairman. It is expected that the report, after being read to the convention members, who number more than 4,000, will be re-referred to an executive committee.

County Agents Assailed.

The veterinarians contend that their field is being invaded by agricultural extension agents and county agents, who are paid by federal, state, and county governments with the public's money. They also contend that the extension service was founded as a wartime measure to increase production and that the agents have outstayed their use.

"County agents have ruthlessly invaded many fields of business in the last 20 years," declared Dr. N. F. Williams of Fort Worth, Tex., president of the veterinary organization.

"They have sponsored and initiated the organization of special groups for political and mercenary purposes to the detriment of agriculture, legitimate business, and veterinary practitioners. Intoxicated by his own seductive practices, the extension worker has been lured to further conquest.

Expects Public to Act.

"With 'Four H Boys' clubs, increased crop production, and surplus crop destruction,' as alternate and convenient rallying cries, he prowls in the field of business, creating discord and hastening the day when the people of this tax impoverished nation will rise in desperation and demand a return to the form of government which those who wrote the constitution intended and which tolerates no such abuses.

"The committee on agricultural extension service has accumulated evidence and presented a brief so convincing that it is inconceivable that the congress which will convene in January can longer permit this heedless, unmanageable group to carry on."

Will Tour West

R. G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture and member of the Roosevelt "brain trust"; Col. Marvin McIntyre, secretary to President Roosevelt, his daughter, Mary, and his son, Kenneth, arrived in Chicago yesterday on the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio railway. They are going to make a tour of the western farm lands.

BLANKET CODE LOOMS BEFORE DAIRY INDUSTRY

Farmers Restless Over Delays.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Imposition of a blanket federal license on the milk industry, bringing producers and distributors alike into a national price fixing agreement, loomed today as the farm adjustment administration's remedy for the ills of the dairy farmer.

An "emergency conference" between representatives of the dairy industry and officials of the adjustment administration has been called for next Monday to discuss problems and devise "methods of immediate action."

The meeting as officially outlined served to strengthen reports that a nation-wide pact is now being considered by the farm administrators.

To Consider All Phases.

"Committees have been appointed," it was said, "and will report suggestions on tariffs, production control, purchases of dairy cows, processing taxes, health, and educational work in behalf of greater consumption of dairy products and retail prices."

Dairy farmers were reported to be increasingly "restive" at the delay over approval of local agreements. Disturbances like that in northern New York were said to be imminent elsewhere.

Farm administrators had hoped to effect marketing agreements locally as best meeting particular problems, but the only local agreement approved thus far—that for Chicago—has encountered determined legal opposition.

Ask Injunction Case Delay.

Meanwhile, federal officials have asked for a delay in the injunction actions brought in the District Supreme court by Chicago Independent milk dealers, seeking to retain enforcement of the Chicago milk marketing agreement.

PAY $700,000 SALES TAXES ON FINAL DAY OF RETURNS

Retailers yesterday turned in more than $700,000 on the 2 per cent occupational tax at the Chicago offices of the state department of finance at 30 North La Salle street, according to Robert M. Stowers, supervisor of the Chicago district. Some of the checks were in excess of $40,000. Approximately 25,000 returns had been made at the Chicago and Springfield offices by midnight, which was the deadline for filing returns on July sales. Delinquents will be assessed a penalty of 25 per cent of the tax, with 1 per cent a month interest added until the tax is paid.

FEDERAL FARM PROGRAM LAGS, DAIRYMEN TOLD

Wallace Is Criticized at Session Here.

Charges of "indecision and sluggishness" in the administration of the agricultural adjustment act were voiced yesterday in a meeting of representatives of 360,000 American dairy farmers attending an executive session of the National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation at the Morrison hotel.

Charles W. Holman, Washington, D. C., secretary of the federation, and Harry Hartke, Covington, Ky., president of the organization, conducted the meeting behind closed doors. From the floor during the day many of the leaders of the 34 coöperatives represented at the conference criticized both Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace and George N. Peek, administrator of the agricultural adjustment act.

Charge That Work Lags.

It was charged that the work of these two men is lagging behind the more effective program of the national recovery act being administered by Gen. Hugh Johnson, although the latter's recovery program has had less time to function.

Eleven men attending the federation meeting were named during the day to draw up resolutions and points of action which will be passed upon today as the conference closes. One of the specific criticisms of lack of coördination in the federal offices at Washington is the statement that 43,000,000 acres which the Wallace program seeks to draw out of crop production apparently are to be permitted to go into grasses, clover, and other pasture crops, adding to dairy overproduction.

"This is not crop control but only a shift in production," declared Mr. Holman. "Dairy products are lagging or falling in price and yet the extra labor in the manufacture of butter because of a labor code will add a half cent a pound to the cost of butter. The housewife sets the price, therefore the farmer will pay for this by getting less money."

Appeals to Consumers.

Chicago milk consumers yesterday were urged to be patriotic and buy milk only from those dealers and distributors functioning in accord with the milk marketing agreement in the Chicago area in a statement issued by W. C. McQueen, field representative in the Chicago milk market area for the federal administration.

He announced that following conferences in Washington over the weekend he had received assurance from the legal department of the agricultural adjustment administration that the Chicago milk marketing agreement would be enforced. Not only are dealers unpatriotic in failing to pay the full prescribed prices to farmers and to labor, according to Mr. McQueen, but evidence will be gathered of any infractions of the agreement and prosecutions will follow.

ENJOY THIS WELCH WAY TO REDUCE

Noted food authorities have now worked out the ideal way to reduce—and the beautiful thing about their plan is that all the time you are losing weight you are actually gaining new-found health and energy.

This delightful new method takes advantage of the amazing health-properties in Welch's Certified-Pure, Pasteurized Grape Juice, a product long recommended by physicians the world over. They insist that Welch's belongs on every reducing diet, because its non-fattening grape sugar forces the body to burn up its fat . . . at the same time satisfying that craving for sweets and rich, fattening foods.

Welch's contains minerals vital to one's health. It helps make red blood. It contains more Vitamin B than orange juice. It cleanses the entire system. People everywhere report that after following the Welch way to weight reduction they feel more vigorous and alert than they had felt in years.

Start today. Drink a glass of Welch's with and between meals, before retiring. Welch's may be diluted with one-third water. Continue—and in a few days experience the wonderful difference.

Send for booklet, "Keeping Your Weight Down," yours free for the asking.

If You Have Children

Welch has published another booklet, called "Red-Blooded Children." It describes a wonderful method of building up youngsters, correcting anemia. If you will send your name and address to The Welch Grape Juice Co., Dept. 1018, Westfield, N. Y., you will receive either or both of these booklets FREE.

IMPORTANT: Insist on Welch's. It is the exclusive Welch Process that retains in the bottled juice the healthful properties of ripe grapes so essential to the system. Only Welch's is Certified Pure and Pasteurized. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no water, and above all, no tartaric acid crystals, crystals. It is selling at the lowest price in 35 years, and is even cheaper by the case. Send for free booklet TODAY.

Holds My FALSE TEETH Tighter and Longer

I've tried several kinds of powders to hold my false teeth. When I tried FASTEETH I found the one powder that does not thin out or wash away, but "stays put" all day. It gives a most pleasant feeling, a real sense of security, and holds and holds and holds. Breath is always pleasant. If any one with loose-fitting false teeth wants all-day comfort and a real stay there fit, insist upon FASTEETH at Walgreen's or any good drug store.

A friend in hot weather—Ever-Dry. It has lots to boast about. It's an effective and easy way to check under-arm perspiration. It lasts long, dries quickly, and is effective immediately. Use it any time day or night. Look for the Good Housekeeping Gold Seal on the bottle.

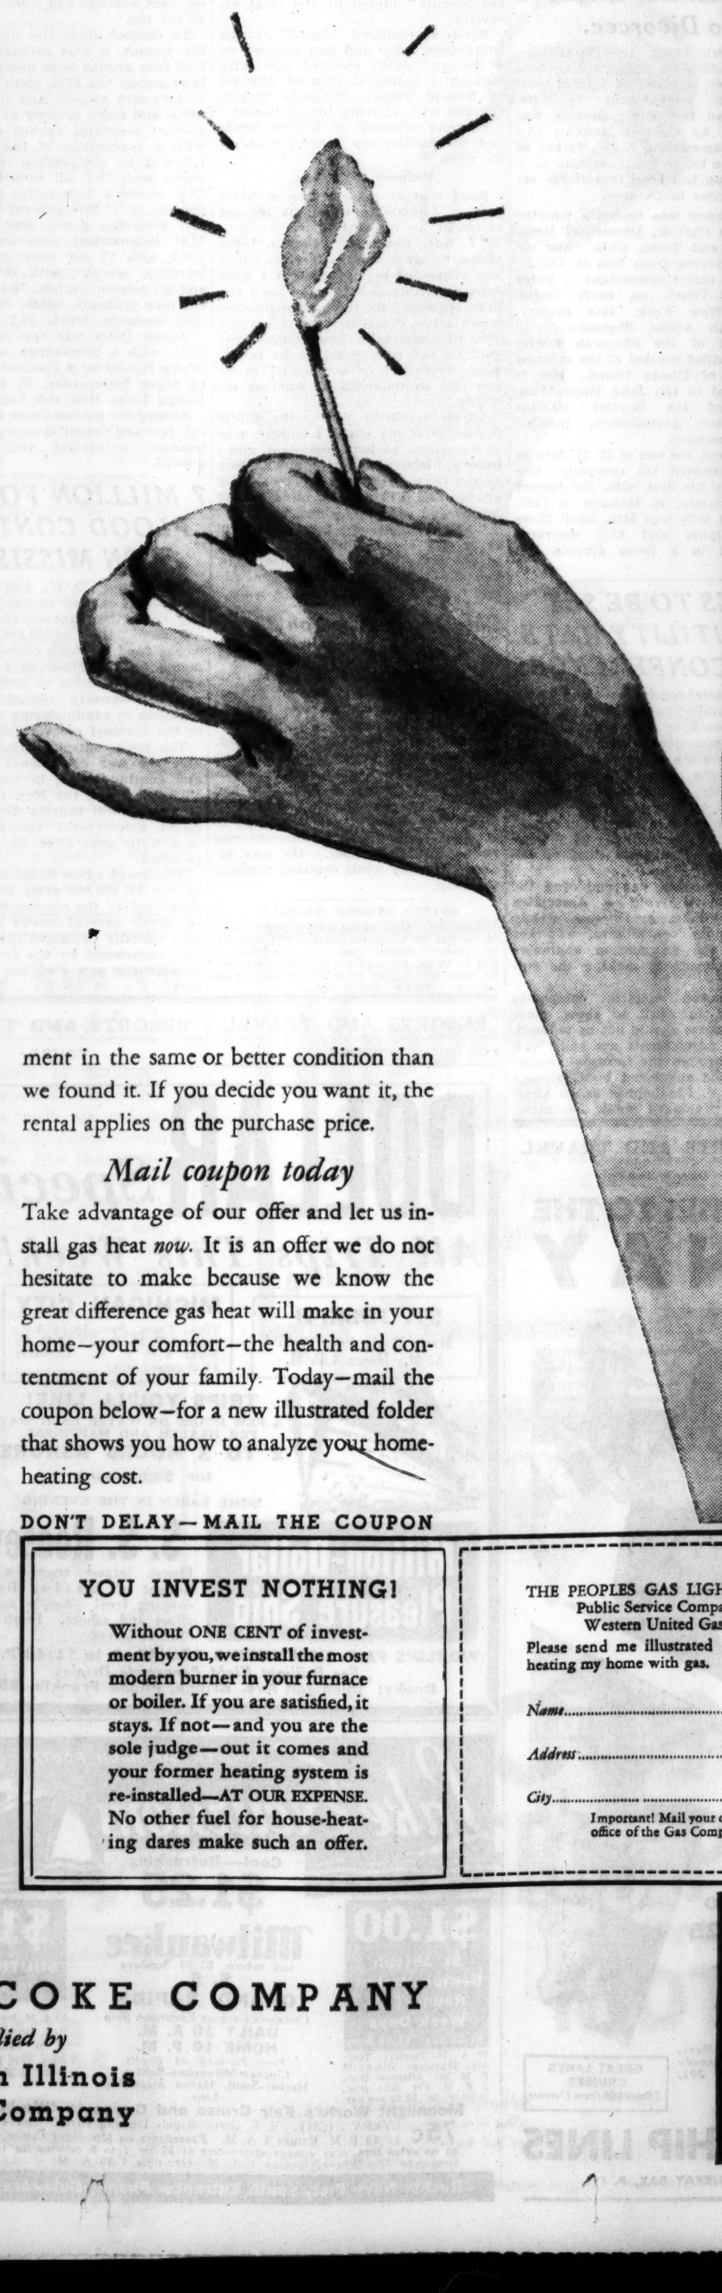
A Single MATCH

your kindling pile—when you Heat your Home with Gas



To prove that every home can afford to heat with gas . . . we will install it at our expense and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

NEXT fall when the temperature begins to drop—go down the cellar steps and strike a match. Gas heat is on! Next spring when it's warm again, go down and turn it off. In nine months you visit your furnace twice. That's automatic gas heat. You fire your furnace from your easy chair.

Cleanliness and convenience

Think of the cleanliness, the convenience that gas heat brings into your home. It saves days and nights of back-breaking coal shoveling . . . dirty hours of hauling ashes . . . the nuisance of chopping kindling . . . the anxiety of watching and tending the furnace. The entire house is kept spotlessly clean and free of messy dust and grime. No tracked-up costly rugs. No fuel smudge on walls and curtains.

All homes—even the most modest, can now afford gas heat. The cost of gas heat at the new low rates is one half what it was in the 1930-31 heating season.

Make no investment

To prove it—and we take the full burden of proof—we'll install it in your home without your making one cent of investment. Then you'll know from your own personal experience whether you can afford gas heat or not. And if we're wrong and you decide you don't want it—out it comes. We remove it at our expense.

During the nine heating months of the first year you pay $3 a month rental for the equipment in the average home. This charge will be included with your gas bill. And if for any reason during the first year you want it removed, we take it out and the rental charge stops immediately. Further, we replace your former heating equipment in the same or better condition than we found it. If you decide you want it, the rental applies on the purchase price.

Mail coupon today

Take advantage of our offer and let us install gas heat now. It is an offer we do not hesitate to make because we know the great difference gas heat will make in your home—your comfort—the health and contentment of your family. Today—mail the coupon below—for a new illustrated folder that shows you how to analyze your home-heating cost.

Now in effect

for Heating Homes with GAS

YOU INVEST NOTHING!

Without ONE CENT of investment by you, we install the most modern burner in your furnace or boiler. If you are satisfied, it stays. If not—and you are the sole judge—out it comes and your former heating system is re-installed—AT OUR EXPENSE. No other fuel for house-heating dares make such an offer.

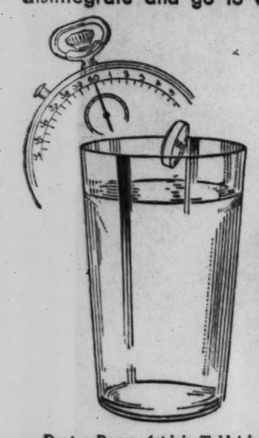
BAYER ASPIRIN

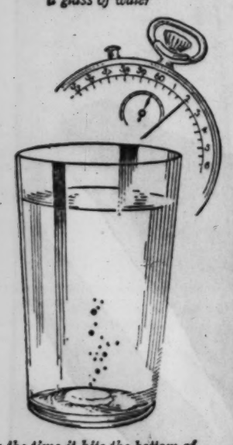
Is Rated the Fastest Safe Relief from Pain

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH

A Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work



Drop a Bayer Aspirin Tablet into a glass of water



By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach

Quicker Relief Now from Pain

The pictures above tell, in a simple way, the reason GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN is rated the Fastest, Safe Relief known for pain.

Note that a Bayer Aspirin Tablet starts to disintegrate within two seconds after touching moisture—in your stomach just as it does in the glass above.

Hence, a Bayer Aspirin Tablet starts to "take hold" of even a severe headache or neuritis a few minutes after taking.

Keep this in mind when in pain. BAYER brings the quick relief you want. And the SAFE relief, too. For Genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

So—always say "Bayer Aspirin" when you buy. Then you'll be sure to get the Quick relief and Safety of the real Bayer article.

Quotes Hoover for That on Detroit Loan.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The names of former President Herbert Hoover, Henry Ford and Senator James Couzens were linked in testimony today of Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the board of the closed First National Bank of Detroit. The witness gave his evidence to Circuit Judge Harry B. Keidan who is sitting as a one man grand jury investigating the closing of Michigan banks.

Mills said that Senator Couzens refused to sanction $6,200,000 of a loan of $43,700,000 which would have saved the Union Guardian Trust company and prevented the Michigan bank holiday which began last Feb. 14. The loan was to have been made by the Reconstruction Finance company.

Says R. F. C. Feared Couzens.

Mills appealed to the then President Hoover, he said. Mr. Hoover declared, during the course of a long distance telephone conversation, according to the testimony, that directors of the R. F. C. were afraid of the criticism of Senator Couzens if they sanctioned the loan.

"The President said," Mills testified, "that one reason the directors of the R. F. C. did not think the collateral offered by the bank was of sufficient value was the fear of Couzens.

"Couzens not only was the senior senator from the state where the loan was going, but also had been chairman of the senate committee investigating R. F. C. loans. The President said that the R. F. C. directors did not want to face Couzens' criticism even for so worthy a purpose as saving about a million depositors."

Plans For Raising Cash.

Mills testified that to place the Guardian bank and its affiliates on a sound basis $51,200,000 was needed. A plan was offered to raise this amount by a loan of $43,700,000 from the R. F. C. and by obtaining consent of the Ford Motor company to freeze its $7,500,000 deposit.

The R. F. C. agreed to the loan, but Senator Couzens refused to sanction $6,200,000 of it on the ground that the collateral was insufficient. The blocking of that part of the loan, Mills said, "unquestionably" precipitated the bank holiday. Had it been approved, he asserted, the banks would probably never have suspended.

Couzens Will Testify.

Senator Couzens, now in Detroit, will answer the statements of Mills when he appears before the grand jury later this week.

As to the agreement with the Ford Motor company, Mills testified that Henry Ford later declared he would take no such action and announced that the bankers must have misunderstood him if they believed he would allow his deposit to be frozen. He quoted Ford as saying:

"If the Guardian does not open tomorrow I will take every cent of my money out of the First National [approximately $20,000,000]. If it opens I will play ball with the First National, but if it does not open I will take out all the money I have out of every bank that is open."

Rattlesnake Nips Camera Man Filming Forest Play

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 15—[Special]—Charles Levin, assistant camera man with a film troupe filming "Sequoia" in the Sequoia National forest, was bitten by a rattlesnake yesterday. Prompt surgery by Dr. Vance Hout, Mountain Land physician who is author of the movie story and who was traveling with the company, assured Levin's recovery.

HENRY H. ROGERS PLANS TO WED A THIRD TIME

Oil Financier Engaged to Divorcee.

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Henry Huddleston Rogers, Standard Oil financier, is planning a third marriage. His engagement to Mrs. Pauline Van Der Voort Dresser was announced by Charles R. Van Der Voort of Jamestown, N. Y., father of the bride to be, at Southampton, L. I. The wedding has been tentatively set for some time in October.

Mrs. Dresser was formerly married to the late Carl K. Dresser of Bradford, Pa., and Tulsa, Okla. She obtained a divorce from him in 1927.

She is a direct descendant of Peter Van Der Voort, an early Dutch settler in New York. Her mother, Mrs. Sarah Adelia Sherman, is a descendant of the Sherman family which provided several of the colonial governors of Rhode Island. She is also related to the John Hays Hammonds and the Bradley Martins through her grandfather, Bradley Martin Sherman.

Mr. Rogers, the son of H. H. Rogers of the Standard Oil company, was divorced by his first wife, the former Mary Benjamin, in Holland in 1929. His second wife was Mrs. Basil Miles of Philadelphia and this marriage terminated in a Reno divorce last May.

DATES TO BE SET FOR UTILITY RATE CUT CONFERENCES

The Illinois commerce commission, members said yesterday, will set dates within a week or so for public hearings or conferences with all the utilities in the state regarding the possibility of rate reductions. A survey of the utility properties and earnings was begun on Aug. 1, when the new law giving the commission power to initiate rate investigations at the expense of the companies involved became effective.

The commission has employed the firm of Mark Wolff & Associates and Dr. William A. Dittmer, widely known utility consultants, who are assisting the commission engineers and accountants in making the survey.

Twenty-seven electric companies were cited in April to show cause why their rates should not be reduced, and these adjustments are being carried out through the informal conference method suggested by Chairman Benjamin F. Lindheimer as an alternative to prolonged public hearings.

GOVERNOR HINTS AT NEW KANSAS BOND SCANDAL

Arrest of Other State Officials Seen.

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Tom Boyd, state treasurer, faced an embezzlement charge tonight in connection with the million dollar Kansas bond forgery scandal, while Gov. Alfred M. Landon promised impeachment proceedings against him and possibly other state officials.

The placing of charges against Boyd was followed by an increase of National Guardsmen on duty in the treasurer's office.

The guardsmen took charge of Boyd's private office and personal desk on orders from the governor.

State accountants began an immediate search of all files and records, including those in the private desk. The vaults of the treasury department have been under guard for a week.

Released on Bonds.

"The investigation which has been conducted so far seems to warrant other impeachments," declared the chief executive. He refused to amplify his statement or name specifically the officials involved.

At the request of the governor the Kansas legislative council created a special committee to coöperate in the bond forgery investigation with a view to recommending the "further impeachments" hinted by the chief executive.

Boyd surrendered himself at the courthouse today and was arrested on a warrant which charged him with making a technical loan of $150,000 to Ronald Finney, Emporia broker, charged with uttering forged bonds.

He was released on $25,000 bonds and his preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 8.

Refuses to Resign.

Boyd tonight made public a letter to Gov. Landon in which he refused to tender his resignation.

"I feel, governor," Boyd's letter states, "that in the matters for which you requested my resignation I have done no wrong and no more than you have requested me to do or acquiesced in on other occasions, and I am unable to understand how similar conduct on my part could be so lawful when requested or acquiesced in by you and so unlawful on another occasion.

"Your action in placing the militia in charge of my office, I believe, was unwarranted, without precedent, and I believe, without authority, and as soon as you cease making my office a show ground and a camping ground I shall return and resume my duties.

"I have furnished a bond which will cover any losses which might result to the state due to my official acts, and the taxpayers can consequently lose nothing on account of the same."

Cab Driver Freed on 32 Charges; Fined on 33d

Thirty-two traffic charges were dismissed and only one fine of $10 on the thirty-third charge was imposed when Leo Klugman, 1303 South Harding avenue, a Checker cab driver, was arraigned before Judge Eugene J. Holland in Traffic court yesterday. Policemen said Klugman had torn up tickets charging him with everything from illegal parking to speeding since the first summons was issued last September. He was arrested Monday while cruising through the loop.

OFFERS MURDER MYSTERY.

Anna, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A verdict of murder by unknown parties was returned by coroner's inquest today into the death of Roy L. Cates, foreman for a local newspaper. He was found shot to death in his parked auto in a lonely church yard.

STATE BOARD WARNS DETROIT ON THE COST OF ITS REFINANCING

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The city of Detroit either must arrange to refund $300,000,000 in bonded indebtedness at a net cost of not to exceed $1,000,000 or abandon the refunding plan, according to an ultimatum served today on officials of the municipality by the state public debt commission.

Mayor Frank Couzens of the motor metropolis and Raymond J. Kelly, corporation counsel, received the commission's decision from John K. Stack Jr., auditor general. Stack, with Theodore I. Fry, state treasurer, represented the state at the conference.

Patrick H. O'Brien, attorney general, who clashed with Stack at an earlier hearing when he advocated repudiation of the city's debt, was not present today.

Stack estimated the cost under the plan submitted by the bankers would prove too costly both to the taxpayers and the bondholders. He estimated the net cost at $2,500,000. Most of it, he said, would be profit to the bankers.

CO-EDS LEADING MEN IN STUDIES AT MICHIGAN U.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—University of Michigan co-eds easily distanced men students in the race for grades during the last year. That was revealed today. Women compiled an average of 78.6 per cent and ranked third among 10 groups for which percentages were computed. While the men students scored a 76.1 per cent average and were at the foot of the list.

To further show the superiority of the women, it was revealed that the first four groups were made up entirely of co-eds, the fifth, sixth and eighth of men and women, and the seventh, ninth and tenth entirely of men. The general sororities ranked at the top with a percentage of 79.2 and were followed by independent women students, with 78.7; all women students, 78.6; women's dormitories and roming houses, 78.2. The general fraternities and sororities group was fifth with 77.6; independent men and women sixth with 77 per cent; general fraternities, seventh, with 76.9; all men and all women, eighth, 76.8; independent men students, ninth, 76.3; and all men students, tenth, 76.1.

Kappa Delta was the ranking sorority with a percentage of 82.3, but it was topped by a fraction of a point by three fraternities, Pi Kappa Phi, Kappa Delta Rho and Trigon.

Among the groups made up of medical, law and dental students, the independent outranked the fraternity groups.

7 MILLION FOR FLOOD CONTROL ON MISSISSIPPI

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The cabinet advisory board today authorized expenditure of $7,000,000 from the $3,300,000,000 public works fund for flood control improvements on the Mississippi river, and approved allocation of $500,000 to the national recovery administration for expenses in administering that section of the national recovery act.

The flood control allotment will enable the war department to resume and continue work in the Memphis, Vicksburg, and the New Orleans districts and will provide direct and indirect employment for about 3,900 men until next June 30, it was announced.

The board again failed to act today on the $67,500,000 army housing plan submitted at the request of President Roosevelt several weeks ago, but it was officially explained that the delay was occasioned by the fact that the President is now studying the revised plan.

MIKADO SAILS TO COMMAND GREAT 'BATTLE' AT SEA

150 Jap Warships Engage in Sham Warfare.

TOKIO Aug. 16 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The emperor of Japan sailed today from the principal base of his navy, Yokosuka, to assume personal command over operations of the most formidable array of warcraft ever assembled in far eastern waters. He is aboard the former battle cruiser Hiyei, stripped of its armor and main turrets and its speed cut down to 18 knots under the London naval treaty.

The imperial Japanese navy is engaged in the grand maneuvers which are held only once in three years. This year its mission is to repel the attack of an "enemy," steaming out of the vast spaces of the equatorial Pacific. The climax is expected to be a great sham naval battle somewhere off the Bonin islands, 700 miles south of Tokio, probably two or three days hence.

150 Warships Engaged.

Although the navy has thrown a mantle of secrecy over the southern seas, it is understood that the red fleet, defenders of the empire, are based in the Bonins and lying in wait for the "enemy" blue fleet, approaching from the south or southeast.

More than 100 fighting ships, nearly the entire first line of the Japanese sea forces, will take part in this week's "naval battle," with smaller non-combatant craft raising the total to nearly 150. At each naval base in Japan proper, Corea and Formosa other small naval vessels are engaged in local defensive exercises, so that nearly every ship of the 284 on the commissioned list of the navy is taking some part.

After the sham warfare is completed the entire fleet will assemble off Yokohama, where on Aug. 25 the emperor will witness a grand review.

Fleet Divided Equally.

The combatant ships are divided into nearly equal forces. Admiral Seizo Kobayashi leads the blue fleet, and Vice Admiral Osami Nagano commands the red fleet.

The blue fleet for the last fortnight has been cruising near the Marshall and Caroline islands, between the Philippines and Hawaii, just north of the equator, which formerly belonged to Germany and passed to Japan after the world war under a league of nations mandate.

According to the assumptions of the present war game, the enemy has seized the Carolines and Marshalls and is steaming toward Japan proper.

PLOT TO KILL U. S. ENVOYS IS BARED BY JAP OFFICER

TOKIO, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Details of an alleged attempt to assassinate an American ambassador and consul were disclosed today in testimony at the trial in a naval court of ten officers charged with killing Premier Suyoshi Inukai and with other terroristic activities in May, 1932.

The projected assassinations were designed to provoke friction between Japan and the United States and in this way encourage a nationalistic and militarist revolution.

Lieut. Kijo Ito, one of the defendants, gave the testimony. A plot with this in view was seriously considered by two naval officers, Ito said.

When the alleged plan to kill the American ambassador was made, Ito testified, the ambassadorship was vacant, Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes having departed for the United States and Joseph C. Grew, his successor, not yet having arrived in Japan.

LINDBERGHS FLY 500 MILES ACROSS SEA TO ICELAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 15. — Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here at 7:42 o'clock this evening after a 500 mile flight from Angmagssalik, Greenland. The entire population of Reykjavik turned out to accord the flying couple a rousing welcome.

Government and municipal officials went by boat to the mooring place in the inner harbor, where the Lindbergh plane was expected to alight. Because of a northerly gale, however, Col. Lindbergh landed near Vid island, off Vatnagardar station, where the sea was calmer. The plane circled over the city before making a perfect landing.

in the constitution, although the change was effected by the pressure of the general economic passive resistance strike and the military coup d'etat.

In the effort to make the bookkeeping straight and regular it is not impossible that actual history will have to be retouched a bit to make it diplomatically satisfactory. One question raised is whether De Cespedes is provisional president or constitutional president. The vice president's office was abolished under Machado and the secretary of state under the constitution is first in line for the presidency.

Claim Machado Cleared Way.

One story circulated now is that Machado resigned before he fled, transferring the presidency to Alberto Herrera, who had been secretary of state while Orestes Ferrara was at the London economic conference. This version is that Herrara immediately made De Cespedes secretary of state and then resigned, upon which De Cespedes automatically became president.

It is one of those stories which have not been confirmed or disproved by the participants in the drama. It is a handy version, anyhow, in that it would show that constitutional provisions were followed in making De Cespedes president.

One story now going the rounds, a classic whether true or not, is that Machado kept the palace guards loyal by a ruse. They and la porra, Machado's strong arm secret police, protected him in the palace, where he was to all purposes kept prisoner on Friday night by the revolutionists.

How He Fooled Guards.

Machado was taken to Camp Columbia Friday afternoon by leaders of the revolt in the army, in which the ABC, the organization of young radical oppositionists to Machado, had been doing much "boring from within," adopting the old policy of the wobblies in the United States.

At Camp Columbia Machado was shown positive proof that the entire army was in revolt. Machado pledged the army leaders that he would resign.

After giving this promise, the story goes, Machado returned to the palace, strode before the assembled palace guards, and, slamming a big revolver on a mahogany table, bellowed:

"This is the happiest day of my life. The army is with me to a man."

The effect of this speech was to keep the palace guards firmly behind the president, and the next day they served as escort when Machado fled to his farm and then by plane to the Bahamas.

One story printed in a Havana paper today is that Machado, seeing the end coming, bought or leased a home near Berlin some months ago. Another story in the Havana American News is that Machado took $2,000,000 with him in four suit cases and deposited the money in the Royal Bank of Canada at Nassau.

The national vendetta against la porra now seems standardized. In the countrywide man hunt for the porristas, who terrorized the political opposition for two years, nine were reported killed today.

There was also a sequel today to the spectacle presented at police headquarters last Sunday when men and women from balconies and roof tops watched the beseiging of a room in which four men were barricaded. After several hours the men were taken away as prisoners in a police car.

Today it was reported that the four were killed in prison under the "ley de fuga" (law of flight) under which prisoners attempting to escape can be legally shot.

Accuses Machado of Murder.

HAVANA, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A cause filed in the Criminal court today by Dr. José Garcilaso de la Vega, a lawyer, accused Gerardo Machado, deposed president, and five associates of "misappropriation of public funds, frauds and legal exactions, falsifications and swindles, homicides, murders, personal attempts and use of firearms against certain persons."

The accusation set forth that the plans for committing the crimes charged had been laid in the presidential palace.

Accused with Machado were former Secretary of the Treasury Octavio Averhoff, Oestes Ferrara, former secretary of state; Antonio B. Anciart, former chief of police; Octavio Zubizarreta, former secretary of the interior, and José Izquierdo, former chief of the central district.

Averhoff and Izquierdo fled with Machado by airplane to Nassau in the Bahamas, Saturday. Ferrara escaped by plane to Miami. The whereabouts of Zubizarreta and Anciart are unknown.

INSURANCE AGENT ROBBED.

Theodore Brown, 1928 Sunnyside avenue, an agent for the Prudential Insurance Company of America, was robbed of $85 by a gunman as he entered the vestibule of his home early yesterday.

U. S. RULES OUSTING OF MACHADO WAS BY FAIR AND LEGAL MEANS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Conditions in Cuba had quieted down to such an extent today that Secretary of State Hull felt justified in leaving Washington tonight for a week's motor trip in the Virginia mountains.

President Roosevelt and the new Cuban president, Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, exchanged friendly messages today and Secretary Hull explained to the press that Cuba had really not had a change of government. He said it was a mere change of personnel without any alteration in the structure or processes of government.

Consequently, he said, the United States did not find it necessary to extend recognition to President De Cespedes since he came in under the constitutional method of succession in Cuba.

Upon his arrival as an exile in the Bahamas, former President Machado gave out a statement expressing satisfaction that Cuba had changed the officials in its government in a manner wholly within the provisions of its constitution.

$85,000,000 IS DISPOSED OF BY BRITON IN WILL

30 Millions Set Aside for Death Duties.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15. — The biggest estate with which British revenue authorities ever dealt was admitted to probate today when a document disposing of $85,000,000 accumulated by the late Sir John Ellerman, baronet, was placed in the hands of executors Sir John died July 16 at the age of 71.

The will sets aside $30,000,000 in liquid assets to pay death duties. The final value of the estate, however, is expected to reach a total of $150,000,000. In that event the heirs of Sir John, who was generally recognized as Great Britain's greatest multimillionaire, will pay the state something like $75,000,000.

Wrote Elaborate Testament.

The great shipping magnate, who led a romantic career after an insignificant start as an office boy, wrote the most elaborate testament known to Britain. The final codicil, written in his own hand on a single sheet of foolscap last February, increased all bequests by the margin which the pound had fallen since Britain left the gold standard.

There are ample reserves to carry out Sir John's wishes, for the statement of the worth of the estate was qualified by the phrase, "so far as can at present be ascertained."

The principal beneficiaries are his son, Sir John Ellerman, present baronet; his widow and his daughter, Mrs. Winifred MacPherson. The son of a naturalized German consul left his widow $750,000 and an annuity of $150,000, tax free. To his son he bequeathed $3,000,000 outright, a trust legacy of $10,000,000 and the residue of the estate.

6 Millions to Daughter.

Mrs. MacPherson was given $3,000,000 outright and a similar amount in trust.

Meticulous care was taken in the bequests to relatives, many of whom benefit under the will.

There are two unusual clauses. One urges executors not to press for repayment of loans made to persons obviously in need and another provides a fund of $50,000 for any relatives which may have been overlooked. Still another stipulation provides that anybody opposing the will shall have his bequest cut by one-third.

Four Hurt When Auto Crashes Into Train

Escanaba, Mich., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Four persons were seriously injured, one probably fatally, when a car in which they were riding crashed into a Chicago and North Western ore train here today. Leona Firkus, Escanaba, received a fractured skull and her condition is critical. The others were Fred Fillion, Blanche Fillion, Escanaba, and Charles Goetz, of the Soo.

Plane 'Runs Over' Buzzard; U. S. Officer Loses 3 Teeth

COLON, Panama, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Lieut. Gerald A. McCoy of the United States Air Corps of France field lost three teeth and was cut in the face today when the airplane he was driving "ran over" a buzzard. He was flying over La Venta on the Pacific coast. The big bird crashed through the windshield.

DE VALERA BEGINS DRIVE TO DISARM FOES IN IRELAND

Sets Up Army Court to Try Opponents.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Free State government decided today to establish a military tribunal to deal with political offenses and started a roundup of all firearms held without authorization.

This action came as Gen. Owen O'Duffy's National Guard, known as the Blue Shirts, started a membership drive after the government had banned its proposed demonstration last Sunday.

Events moved swiftly, with relations between the Blue Shirts, followers of former President William T. Cosgrave, and the followers of President De Valera becoming serious. The Cosgrove followers are making energetic efforts to be ready for a general election if one should be called. It was believed President De Valera may call the election to obtain wider powers to combat the Blue Shirts.

Among rumors current is one that Gen. O'Duffy and his leading supporters may find themselves under arrest before the week is out. Another is that Cosgrave is being urged to resign leadership of his party. There is little likelihood of this step unless all the party demands it. There was no confirmation of these rumors from responsible quarters.

Among the first to be summoned to the newly established military tribunal may be former Vice President Ernest Blythe and Deputy G. O'Sullivan. They refused to hand over their weapons after revocation of their licenses.

Another rumor current in Dublin is that there is discontent in the army ranks and that little is needed to provoke open mutiny. Similar rumors have been frequently denied since De Valera became president.

Admittedly the situation has dangerous potentialities, but these are not creating fears of a civil conflict. The consensus of opinion is that De Valera would hold his own in an election despite the economic conditions.

Gen. O'Duffy tonight, following ecclesiastical intervention, canceled the project church parades scheduled for next Sunday and announced that his Blue Shirts will assemble in various districts on that day to observe a two minutes' silence in honor of the memories of Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins, and Kevin O'Higgins, Free State heroes.

After the period of silence the officer in command will read a message from Gen. O'Duffy, the nature of which was not disclosed tonight.

Farmer, 42, Confesses Killing 5 of Family

CAMPBELL'S BAY, Que., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Provincial police today said Michael Bradley, 42 year old farmer, had confessed killing five members of his family on July 21. The victims included his father, mother, uncle, sister and brother. Police said that when asked what his motive was, Bradley replied that the family was having "fun" with money he had invested in the homestead.

FORMER PREMIER OF ALBANIA, FOE OF KING, IS SLAIN

ROME, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Albanian legation today confirmed reports that former Premier Hassan Bey Pristina of Albania had been assassinated at Saloniki, Greece.

Youth Confesses Crime.

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Reports reaching here today told of the assasination at Saloniki of Hassan Bey Pristina, former premier of Albania.

Ibrahim Tselo, a 25 year old native of Albania, was said to have confessed to police upon his arrest that he killed Pristina yesterday because he wanted to avenge a brother and other relatives executed in Albania during Pristina's premiership.

According to another version, the young man killed the premier because the latter had proposed to kill King Zog of Albania.

Pristina was 55 years old. He was premier of Albania in 1920, when King Zog took over power. He then left the country, becoming one of the strongest opponents of the present Albanian régime.

SLIDING SURFACES ARE LIKE GOLD COINS RUBBED TOGETHER

Metal touching metal in motion destroys both, unless protected by lubrication. Quality of lubricants varies widely—oil must wear well to protect expensive bearings and cylinder walls. ALAN WINSLOW, CHICAGO WORLD WAR FLYER, DIES

A dispatch from Ottawa, Ont., yesterday told of the death of Alan F. Winslow, formerly of Chicago, who was one of America's foremost aviators in the world war. Death resulted from injuries incurred when he fell from a third floor hotel window last Saturday.

The dispatch said that Mr. Winslow, who lost his left arm in the war, fell from the hotel window when he opened it after becoming faint in the close room. His ankles were fractured and he suffered internal injuries.

Mr. Winslow, who was 37 years old, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Winslow of South Haven, Mich. Mrs. Winslow was with her son at the time of his death. The elder Winslow was once a member of Winslow Bros., an iron manufacturing concern.

Decorated by Gen. Pershing.

Alan Winslow was officially credited by the war department with being the first American aviator to bring down a German plane, for which he received a Croix de Guerre. Gen. Pershing later decorated the flyer with the Distinguished Service Cross for bringing down another German plane.

Mr. Winslow, who had attended the Chicago Latin school, left Yale, where he was in his second year, to join the French flying forces, in May, 1917. He later became commander of the 94th pursuit squadron of the famous Lafayette escadrille. Upon his own application he was transferred to the American forces, with the rank of lieutenant. He came out of the war with the rank of captain.

For many weeks during the war Winslow was reported dead, after a fight with the Germans in which he was said to have been shot down. Later, doubts concerning his death was raised and it was learned that the Germans held him in a prison camp, where injuries incurred in the crash made necessary the amputation of his arm.

Aid de Camp of Mitchell.

He returned to America after the war with a record of having accounted for at least four German planes, as aid de camp of Gen. William Mitchell, chief of the air service. He was met by his parents, who had gone through months of anxiety during his imprisonment and reported death.

Capt. Winslow entered the diplomatic service and was first secretary of the embassy in Mexico City and the legation at Berne, Switzerland. In October, 1923, he was married to Miss Rosamond Castle, Washington society girl.

CRAZED HERMIT BELIEVED KILLER OF ANNA ULM

Dover, N. J., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—An unidentified madman who lived in a primitive shelter in Hickery Nut Hollow is believed to have murdered Miss Anna Ulm, New York secretary. The body was found near here Sunday night. He is being sought.

This theory was advanced by the police today after an autopsy revealed that Miss Ulm's skull had been fractured, apparently by a blow from behind with a sharp, flat stone. Her neck had been broken with a rope noose.

A stone with a bloodstain was found near a shack made of tree branches covered by a ragged tarpaulin. This shelter was only 50 feet from the tree stump to which the body of Miss Ulm was tied.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

HE MAKES GOOD; WINS PARDON FOR PRISON ESCAPE

Columbus, O., Aug. 15.—(AP)—A pardon from Ohio's governor, George White, provided a happy ending today to another chapter in the amazing career of Paul Maxim, 25, escaped convict who was found in Chicago two weeks ago—a successful and well liked business man. He was 19 when sentenced.

Under the name of "J. Paul Faraday," Maxim—in the six years since he escaped from an honor camp of the Ohio reformatory—had risen from a humble start as a restaurant dishwasher to a position as advertising manager for a Chicago paint manufacturing company.

He was returned to the reformatory at Mansfield early last week, and was brought before Gov. White today.

Then, while state officials and spectators smiled at the young man's happiness, the governor handed Maxim the pardon.

"I am making an exception in the light of your good record," the governor told Maxim. "My only admonition is—go straight!"

Maxim sentenced to the honor camp near Sandusky, O., in 1927, for taking class pins valued at $100 from a Coitsville, O., school, fled to Pittsburgh.

He went to Los Angeles, obtained a place in the advertising department of the paint company, was transferred to Chicago.

WOMAN CHARGES PLOT TO DEFRAUD HER OF $50,000

Mrs. Edna Barkhouse Tabor, 61 years old, of the Windermere East hotel, yesterday charged in a bill filed in the Superior court that the Windermere company, which originally controlled the hotel, and officials of S. W. Straus & Co. conspired to defraud her of a $50,000 judgment she won against the hotel last year. The bill, which seeks to enforce the judgment, alleges that the hotel property was fraudulently conveyed to irresponsible persons and finally to the Windermere Hotel company, a newly created concern, to prevent her from collecting.

Other defendants named in the bill are Mrs. Harriet Defrees, and her son, Attorney Donald Defrees, who were the controlling stockholders in the Windermere company. The bill charges that the alleged conspiracy was also directed against holders of a $3,500,000 bond issue floated by the Straus company on the hotel. The suit declares the bondholders will get only ten cents on the dollar unless they deposit their bonds with a committee composed of agents of the Straus company.

The $50,000 judgment won by Mrs. Tabor was for injuries received when she was thrown against a fence in the hotel driveway by an automobile.

DAUGHTER OF LILLIAN RUSSELL SUES FILM CO.

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of the late Lillian Russell, has filed a $100,000 libel suit against a film company charging a motion picture produced by the concern in which she was headlined was "shocking."

The suit, disclosed today when she obtained a court order requiring the picture people to show cause why they should not be restrained from distributing the film, sets forth Mrs. Calvit agreed to appear in the movie on the understanding it was to be a tribute to her mother, the famous actress.

Instead, Mrs. Calvit's suit states, she found herself described in the film as a "faded beauty" who was "disillusioned, defeated, and a hopeless cripple living on the few dollars given her by Alexander P. Moore," former ambassador to Spain and Mrs. Calvit's stepfather.

Trusty Locks Up Chickens but Leaves Self at Large

Pontiac, Ill., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Two days of search have convinced Pontiac reformatory officials that Eugene Adams, 23, a trusty, was not the right sort of man to see that things were locked up.

Adams was in charge of the prison poultry, kept outside the walls. Sunday night he went out to lock the chicken pens as usual. A guard went with him, and helped. Adams stepped behind the buildings and hasn't come back. At the time Adams was serving two years for violating of parole.

MELT AWAY Your Stomach Fats

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches, pains in all parts of the body. Indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all? No medicine has helped. No wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. If your digestive juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From the world's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life—Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your digestive juices to work—and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such robust vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist

WOMAN, FORMER HOTEL MANAGER, FALLS TO DEATH

Mrs. Cynthia O. Nelson, 46 years old, plunged to her death yesterday from the 21st floor penthouse on the 1100 North Dearborn street hotel. Mrs. Nelson was a resident of the hotel. She had gone to the penthouse a few minutes before her death and asked Louis Klairmant, a furrier who has his shop there, to examine a fur coat.

While Klairmant was making the examination, he told police, she stepped to the balcony. A moment later he heard a scream, he said. When he ran to the balcony it was empty and, looking over the balustrade, he saw Mrs. Nelson's body lying on the lawn below. Her purse and glasses were lying in a chair nearby. A radio antenna looped over the railing was broken as if it might have given way when she leaned against it, Klairmant said.

Police, seeking a suicide motive, learned that Mrs. Nelson had been the manager of the Lansing hotel, 1136 North Dearborn street, until June 15, when one of County Treasurer McDonough's agents was placed in charge after the treasurer had been appointed as tax receiver for the hotel. At 10 o'clock yesterday morning, an hour before her death, Mrs. Nelson visited the office of Attorney A. W. Fulton, president of the board of directors of the Lansing hotel. She asked if her management had been a factor in the failure of the hotel, Fulton said, and was assured that it had not been. Mrs. Nelson is survived by her husband, John, a hotel manager, and three children.

C. R. WOOLDRIDGE, FORMER CHICAGO DETECTIVE, DEAD

Clifton R. Wooldridge, 79 years old, 1434 North Clark street, a noted Chicago police detective in the early years of the century, died yesterday in the county hospital. He was penniless, hospital attendants said.

Wooldridge joined the Chicago police force in 1888 and served on it until 1909, when he became a private detective. His career was a stormy one, complicated by his literary activities. He wrote a score of pamphlets telling of his exploits. He was frequently in trouble with his superiors because of his writing, but was given numerous important assignments, one of which was the investigation and prosecution of scores of fake fire insurance companies which made Chicago the center of their operations.

Couple Reconciled; Divorce Case Dropped

Attorney Norman Becker obtained permission from Judge Peter H. Schwaba yesterday in the Superior court to withdraw the bill for divorce which he filed for Mrs. Bernice Hooper, 1841 Newcastle avenue, against Sylvanus Ross Hooper, employé of a printing company. Mrs. Hooper charged her husband with cruelty, and also asserted that he was a victim of kleptomania, embarrassing her by carrying off objects from the homes of friends, and even carrying off his own teapots. The couple have been reconciled, Judge Schwaba was informed.

DR. JOHN DODSON, NOTED MEDICAL EDUCATOR, DEAD

Teacher Here Since '89; Succumbs at Age of 74.

Dr. John M. Dodson, noted medical educator and until recently editor of the health magazine, Hygeia, died yesterday afternoon at his home in the Hyde Park hotel, 1511 East 51st street, of uremia. He was 74 years old.

Dr. Dodson had served for many years as dean of students at Rush Medical college and as dean of the medical courses at the University of Chicago.

Born in Berlin, Wis.

A native of Berlin, Wis., Dr. Dodson was graduated at the University of Wisconsin in 1880. He later received degrees from Rush Medical and from the Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia. He began the practice of medicine in Chicago before 1890.

Taking a post on the Rush faculty in 1889, Dr. Dodson was successively a lecturer and demonstrator on anatomy, professor of pediatrics, junior dean, and from 1901 to 1924 dean of students there. He was professorial lecturer and dean of the medical courses at the Midway from 1901 to 1924.

On University Faculty.

He was professor of pediatrics at the Northwestern University Women's Medical college from 1894 to 1897. In 1918 and 1919 he was medical aide to the governor of Illinois and held the rank of major in the medical corps, U. S. A.

Dr. Dodson was a member of a number of organizations, including the American Medical association, for which he was once director of the bureau of health and public instruction; the Illinois State Medical society, the Chicago Medical society, the Association of American Anatomists, and the Chicago Pediatric society. He also belonged to the University Quadrangle and Flossmoor clubs.

Surviving Dr. Dodson are his widow, Mrs. Mary Hyde Webb Dodson, and a daughter, Mrs. Lester J. Michael. Funeral services are to be held in the University of Chicago chapel at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be at Berlin.

Guide Children with Reason—
Mrs. Bevans Points the Way

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

WE like the story the Italian ambassador, Augusto Rosso, told Mrs. Hal Strotz when he was here recently, about dining with his dog. He said that the day he arrived in Washington to take up his new duties he went through a very active day, greeting many charming people. Towards dinner time these charming people began to drop away, and at dinner he found himself quite alone except for the servants, in the great marble halls of the embassy, built after the style of an Italian palace. He was lonely, he said, and as he dined in solitary state attempted to converse with the functionary behind his chair. The functionary discouraged this with monosyllabic and polite replies. Finally giving up this attempt at sociability, Sig. Rosso ordered his pet dog brought to the dining room. And talked to the dog as he finished his dinner. Since then, whenever he dines alone, the dog is brought to the dining room to keep the Italian ambassador company.

WHICH brings to mind the dog of Titus Byszewski, Polish consul general for Chicago. It is a Spanish hunting dog which he acquired in Palestine and brought with him to Chicago. And its name, strangely enough, is Boks. Mr. Byszewski is devoted to Boks, and when he left for Honolulu the other day he solemnly consigned his dog to the care of the assistant consuls. Boks now goes to the consulate every day so the vice consul and the attachés can keep an eye on him, and they are pretty nervous about his welfare, since he is the apple of their chief's eye.

A FLAPPER stepped up to the bandstand at Old Mexico at the Fair the other day to ask Tommy West for his autograph.

"Oh, thank you, Mr. West," she chirped after he had written his name for her. "Now I have the West family complete. I got your sister Mae about a month ago."

Whereupon Bandmaster West, who is as much Mae's brother as Will Rogers is Buddy's father, murmured:

"She done me wrong. She done me wrong."

A VISITOR back from Sands Point tells about the hostess who was entertaining at a dinner for Rosa Ponselle. She was a little uncertain as to her Filipino houseboy's ability to serve at so formal an affair, so she took him aside for a little last minute coaching about the glasses.

"These," she said, "are for the cocktails; these for the champagne with dinner, and these go to the men in the library after dinner."

The Filipino nodded understandingly and she was almost satisfied. During dinner, however, she heard Miss Ponselle give a little gasp. The singer was looking at a little strip of paper stuck to the glass which said:

"Go to the men in library after dinner."

DR. OTTO H. F. VOLLBEHR, the bibliophile who presented the Gutenberg Bible to the Library of Congress, visited the Indian village at the Fair the other day. The Hopi tribesmen were in the midst of a strenuous dance when a tall young man, pallid and languid as if from late hours and dissipation, was wheeled in in a roller chair and sat watching their gyrations.

"Here's progress for you," commented Dr. Vollbehr.

Shows Prize Pumpkins at Lake Geneva

The pumpkins alone were worth a ribbon, thought the judges at the recent Lake Geneva flower and garden show, but when shown by attractive Miss Jane Weese they were given a special prize.

Miss Weese, whose home is in Barrington, was the house guest last week-end of the W. G. McIntoshes at the fashionable summer resort.

Horse Show of Dunham Woods Club Added to Sports Events

Second Annual Event to Be Held Sept. 10; East-West Polo Game Today.

BY JUDITH CASS.

AS soon as the east-west polo excitement has subsided there is another "equine" event to demand the attention of society's horse enthusiasts. The Dunham Woods Riding club, that delightful retreat in the country at Wayne, is to have its second annual horse show beginning at 2:30 o'clock the afternoon of Sept. 10.

Last year the show was the reason for the gathering of thoroughbred horses from many of the best Chicago and suburban stables and also an excuse for a gay round of week-end house parties. This year the show promises to be even more of a sporting attraction with the establishment of Dunham's own riding stable the last few months under the competent direction of Hans Kopf, who used to have charge of former Gov. Kohler's private stable at Sheboygan, Wis.

Children's participation in the show is especially encouraged this year through the introduction of two new events. In one class saddle ponies are to be judged and in another the horsemanship of young boys and girls. In the latter it doesn't matter whether the little equestrians are riding an old cow pony or the finest hackney pony, for the judging will be on horsemanship alone.

There is also sure to be considerable interest this year in the family class, which will enlist parents and their children for judging on their performance, appearance, and teaming. The David McDougals will ride together in this class and so will the Joy Mortons, the Perry Drydens, the Nathan McClures, and the Henry Stantons. Mrs. John West is bringing her horse down from Manitowoc to ride in the family group with Miss Sylvia West and her sister, Ruth, the daughters of Mrs. Charles C. West.

Mrs. Charles West is a member of the horse show committee which also includes Mrs. Wirth S. Dunham and Jesse F. Burt.

Invite Barrington Group to Enter.

Since a number of riders from Dunham Woods went over to Barrington July 30 to take part in the Barrington Hills gymkhana on the Jevne Haugan's polo field, invitations have been issued to several members of this group to take part in the three and five gaited saddle classes, the egg and spoon race, and the polo bending race the afternoon of Sept. 10.

The Donald Batemans are coming over. And so are the John Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cameron, the junior Charles H. Canbys, Mr. and Mrs. Jevne Haugan, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Magnuson, and Miss Elizabeth Van Hagen.

From the Geneva-St. Charles-Dunham Woods area some of the entries are those of Mr. and Mrs. George Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore I. Swan, Mr. and Mrs. Horace O. Wetmore, Miss Jane Ripley, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wheeler.

The junior Charles Lindsays and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindsay III. will probably be among those entertaining city guests over the horse show week-end, also the John Doles.

Prince to Attend Polo Match Today.

Between every chukker of the second game of the east-west polo series this afternoon at Onwentsia many binoculars will be leveled in the direction of the Nawab Mahomet Zahir Uddin Khan and his attractive 21 year old wife. Yesterday the young prince, who is in the city on a five day visit, took a box for today's game in line with his lively interest in the sport.

Although there was one of the most brilliant throngs ever gathered in Lake Forest at the polo game on Sunday, predictions are that there will be a larger and more distinguished turnout for today's contest. The start will be at 4:30.

After the game interest for many of the fans will be divided between the Onwentsia club, where Maj. and Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin are to be host and hostess to some 75 guests, and the Hardwick Moseleys' beautiful sand beach in Lake Bluff.

All of the polo players, east and west, have accepted the McLaughlins' invitation. Then there will be the guests Mrs. Howard Linn had invited to the dinner she had originally planned to give this evening for her house guests, the Reeve Schleys, due to arrive from New York this morning. When Maj. and Mrs. McLaughlin suddenly decided on their party, Mrs. Linn graciously canceled her dinner, or rather merged it with the McLaughlins'. Last evening Mrs. Linn was hostess at a dinner party in town.

The Moseleys' party is to be a beach supper and then a swim, providing the water isn't too cold. Several dozen guests are on their list.

In keeping with polo minded Chicago is the exhibition of miniatures at the Renaissance society at the University of Chicago. These miniatures are in the collection of Kazork Demirdjian, who is here with his wife to see the Fair, and they are so pleased with the Exposition that they are remaining in town, thereby enabling the society to have this collection of 15th century to 18th century paintings on its walls until Aug. 25.

Mrs. Martin A. Schutze, president of the society, is enthusiastic over the painting of a polo game, done in the early part of the 16th century when miniature painting was at its height. Early Persian poets often wrote of polo, for it was there the game originated.

Arrange Parties for Miss Glidden.

Even though Sept. 16 is a whole month away, the bridesmaids and ushers for the wedding of Miss Peggy Glidden to John Roderick Rogers have already been planning an interesting round of entertainment. The ceremony is to take place at 4:30 o'clock the afternoon of the 16th in the Trinity church in Highland Park and a

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt gave a luncheon today for the prime minister of New Zealand and Mrs. C. W. Forbes. They are accompanied by the minister of education, industries, and commerce of New Zealand and Mrs. Masters, who were also guests at the luncheon. Other guests were the secretary of agriculture and Mrs. Wallace, the secretary of commerce and Mrs. Roper, the secretary of labor, Frances Perkins, the acting secretary of state, William Phillips; the chargé d'affaires of Great Britain, F. D. G. Osborne; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr.; James C. Dunn, chief of the division of protocol and state conferences of the state department; John Dewey Hickerson, assistant chief of the division of western European affairs; Louis M. Howe, secretary to the President; Mrs. Margaret Le Hand, Mrs. Malvina Thompson Scheider, and Capt. Vernou and Col. Watson, naval and military aids to the President.

The Turkish ambassador, dean of the diplomatic corps, gave a swimming party this afternoon at the Annapolis Roads club, followed by a dinner party at the embassy tonight. The swimming party was in compliment to the ambassador's guests, Mme. Sefa and her daughter, Miss Leyna Sefa.

The Canadian minister, William Herridge, left this morning for St. Andrew-by-the-Sea, Ontario, to join Mrs. Herridge and their young son for a week's vacation.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman has returned here to spend this week after spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Harriman Russell and her children at Mount Kisco, N. Y. She will motor back to Mount Kisco in a few days.

Critic Views This Farce as Stage Tragedy

'Peggy Be Careful' Presents Some Old Gags.

"PEGGY, BE CAREFUL."

A farce comedy in three acts by Charles George, starring Peggy Worth and featuring Edgar Mason. Presented at the Blackstone theater Tuesday, Aug. 15.

The cast:

The Maid.....Marjorie Grant
Claire Smith, engaged to George.....Lilyan Dushell
Peggy Bell, wife of Ted.....Beverly Younger
Ted Bell, a young playwright.....Reese Taylor
George Alexander, Ted's Pal.....Edgar Mason
Gerald Wilson, Peggy Bell's brother.....John Ehrle
Peggy Tinklepaugh, a stenographer.....Peggy Worth
John Wilson, Peggy Bell's father.....Philip Lord
Mrs. John Wilson, his wife.....Hazel Haslam

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"What is the matter with this household?" inquires one of the characters in the second act of this latest contribution to summer drama. Which character does not greatly matter, since up to the time of leaving the theater last night the question remained unanswered.

Postponed in performance from Sunday night, the piece would seem to be something of a mystery. Finally presented, the mystery grew more insoluble, not to say incredible. Even the unconscious betrayal of another character, "This is not a comedy, it's a tragedy," hardly served to explain it.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bell grew weary of unwavering domestic relations. Wherefore Mrs. Bell starts a flirtation with her husband's best friend, incidentally the fiancé of her best friend, and the husband sends for a stenographer to type his last play.

Complications follow, also acres of talk about them. The play bristles with lines like "If marriage is a lottery, I have drawn the wrong number," and "What does the job pay?" "All you are worth." "I refuse to work for that." There are not one but several jokes on the subject of the mother-in-law, and they become no less a subject material for farce than the fact that two of the characters, not to mention the star, bear the first name of Peggy. And this is in the year 1933, too.

How it all turns out is explained some time before the final curtain, but it is hardly necessary to record the solution here. One might add however, that the two characters most under suspicion are not locked in a bedroom. It is a bathroom.

Fraternity Will Consider Students' Money Problem

The 15th bi-ennial convention of Lambda Chi Alpha, national collegiate fraternity, will open today at the Edgewater Beach hotel when 350 delegates will gather for a three days' session. The organization, which has 22,000 members and 82 active chapters, is one of the five largest of its kind. Principal among the problems to be considered are those arising from the effect of the depression upon school attendance and student finances which are being felt by all fraternities, it was said.

Try New Blues if You Tire of Other Colors

BY RHEA SEEGER.

If you think black makes you look and feel like a neglected orphan, and if all the shades of brown leave you passively uninterested and if you want something new and dark, try the new shades of blue. Nothing dull or quiet about any of them, nothing electrical or hard to wear or look at, just stunning new tones that are positively the newest and nicest blues of the season.

Deep sapphire blue, and dark gentian blue, with plenty of life to both, fashion some eye-filling new dresses that go places night or day . . . long super-slender dinner dresses of Tagheera cloth, made with cleverly draped necklines and loosely hanging bands to make sleeves, all of a very vital tone of blue and then—slashed with crimson for startling contrast.

Slim street frocks of soft woolens are trimmed with dusky gold buttons, a buckle and a gold satin ascot tie or neck scarf. Printed blue satin spattered with tiny golden dots fashions skin fitting dance dresses. The dresses have tiny puffed sleeves that are belted in gold, to match the golden silk roses that accent the shallow V neckline.

Shimmering satin in deep blue is used in dresses that have matching suede cloth jackets. White blue chiffon is trimmed with old silver. Anything and everything you need for a new blue note in your new fall wardrobe is available with and without color contrast or velvet trimmings.

Hats of fascinating and becoming blue can be worn with devastating effect with all the new street dresses and suits . . . clever fingers can fashion a velvet scarf of the same blue velvet as the hat, to tie intriguingly at the top of a silver gray frock, an old gold colored two piece wool suit or with the interesting new smoke grays that are clouding the fashion horizon.

Swagger Styles, Gay Colors Mark Clothes in New Deal for Men

Business men have tired of sombre clothes and conservative cuts and are turning to sport clothes, gay colors, and swagger cuts for every day wear, according to style experts at the convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers at the Hotel Sherman. Semi-Norfolk and college cuts are in favor, they say.

The ascot scarf is staging a return to favor, while the trench coat is going out of favor with the advent of light weight, durable raincoats worn over topcoats and overcoats. Plaids are being used in scarfs and ties in combination with other designs. Shirts are in vogue in new shades, among them canary ad raven. Pajamas with velvet collars and cuffs are on the ascendant.

Two from N. U. Score in First Roles in Films

Lucille Lund, Hal Boyer Win Attention.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Don't be surprised if you notice a purplish cast to your favorite movie of the autumn crop—it's merely the Northwestern university influence.

A trip 'round the studio lots discloses:

At Universal City, Lucille Lund, 20, blonde beauty from Evanston, via a national co-ed beauty contest. Miss Lund, in a smart looking autumn gray wool suit, with gray cape, was going through a scene of "Saturday's Millions" with Johnny Mack Brown and Robert Young. She's made quite an impression on the Universal officials with her unexpected deftness as an actress and is held on a long term contract with optional clauses, which means that the studio has the right to renew its bargain for her services at a stipulated salary.

At United Artists, Jane Vance, another Northwestern campus beauty, noted among fifty of the "slave girls" in Eddie Cantor's current variation of the typical Cantor girl-music-joke-pageantry spectacle, titled "Roman Scandals." Miss Vance at one time sang blues with the Whiteman orchestra. She has some stylish company in the lightly clad ranks about her on the Sam Goldwyn sets depicting an ancient Rome more wonderful than any Cæsar thought of. Some of her dancin companions include Aileen Riggin, the ex-Olympic diving champion; Dorothy Stevens, who used to be interscholastic golf champion of the northwest, living in Portland, Ore.; Sandra Shaw, a niece of Dolores Del Rio; and four dancers from the Muriel Abbott school in Chicago.

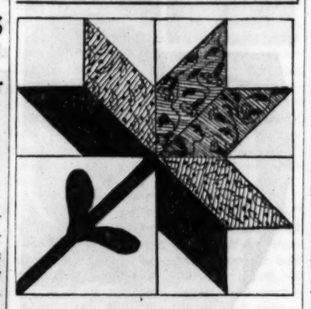
At Fox Western Avenue studio: Hal Boyer, Northwestern, 1932, who pushed his large athletic frame through the closely guarded movie studio gates to accost James Ryan, casting director, who said: "You ought to photograph well, and perhaps you can act. There is a small part in Director Kenneth Mackenna's film, 'Walls of Gold,' that you may be able to act in while it serves as a screen test for you at the same time. The part's that of a young ex-college man working as a bartender in a swank speakeasy. I suppose you can mix and shake drinks."

Boyer said he would report in the morning. Next morning Ryan's phone rang. A tired voice—the voice of a man who had been up all night—said: "This is Hal Boyer. I have been practicing and I can do that bartender job now."

Boyer not only filled the bit well, but pleased the camera and sound track exactions so neatly that he got the chance to engage in film repartee with the principals, Sally Eilers and Norman Foster, and now it looks as if his film career will be sprouting alongside Miss Lund's. Young Boyer, who played on the Illinois A. C. water polo team as well as all the Northwestern water teams, is 23 years old, 6 feet 2, weighs 188, has curly brown hair and gray-blue eyes, and was born in Neuss, on the Rhine, where his father, John F. Boyer, one of the McCormick company veterans, was representative of the International Harvester company. He spoke little English until he was ten, and his father was ordered back to this country. He came to the coast with the I. A. C. swimmers to try for the Olympic games last summer and stayed to play rôles in the Pasadena Community playhouse productions of "Lightnin'" and "Peer Gynt." His folks live in Tinley Park, Ill.

Lucille Ball, blonde beauty who is one of the "slave girls" in Cantor's "Roman Scandals," fainted while standing as one of 16 girls making a human frieze on a little ledge circling a great granite pillar 16 feet in the air. She was saved from possible serious injury when she was caught by several of the actors.

Floral Designs May Once More Enjoy a Vogue



Single Lily.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This unusual floral pattern was at one time a great favorite with quilters everywhere, though examples of it now are rarely seen. The "Single Lily" is a delightfully simple design to cut and piece, and is most attractive made up in soft yellow prints, with the lower petals and stem in green. The background might be milk white or a natural white.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Many Children Hope to Attend Baseball Game

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The Sox have been playing some pretty swell ball lately, in spite of several tough breaks, and we're sure to see two good games a week from tomorrow. Baseball experts seem to think very well of their chances to win a few in the very near future. So the boys and girls who'll accompany me out to Comiskey park on Aug 24 will probably see some real baseball.

There's a huge pile of mail on my desk, and in that pile are the 100 winners. They haven't been chosen yet, of course, but today's my busy day, you know, when I read every last one of the letters and make my selections. Then the names go down to the composing room and come out in the paper on Sunday. If you followed the rules and your letter has been mailed in time to reach me today, you'd better keep your fingers crossed until your Sunday TRIBUNE arrives. Then all you aspiring young fans will know your fate.

Parish Picnic.

Members and former members of St. Bernard's parish of Englewood will hold a picnic and golf tournament today at Westgate Valley Country club, 131st street and Ridgeway avenue.

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's step-brother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, and an old friend of Redd's, helps the men from the district attorney's office in solving the crime. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a débauché. Of the servants, the Chinaman, and a dwarf, Sabino, are the most important, and there seemed to be some secret bond between them and their employer.

INSTALLMENT IX.

SURPRISING DEVELOPMENTS.

Rather reluctantly Motley betook himself down the driveway, and the moment he was out of earshot, Bray turned on me, and with a seeming offhandedness which I could tell was the cover for a tense underlying keenness, he remarked, rather dreamily:

"That lad, Clabby, may have funny theories but he remembers things. Yes, sir, and he has the knack for putting two and two together, and that's not a bad gift for a green copper to have."

"Meaning by that just what?" I asked, matching my mien of indifference against his.

"O, 'tis of no consequence." He put an almost affectionate pressure into his hold on my knee—incidentally a good enough rough way to detect a subject's physical responses to any sudden nervous reflexes. "I'm only mentioning this to you, Gilly, me-lad, because I'm taking you into my confidences. But this here Clabby did happen to whisper to me that he thought it just a bit strange that when he called you on the phone you should seem to know the man was dead before he ever spoke the word 'dead.'"

He pinched down still harder, but I knew he got no private answer through my muscular reactions, since my leg was limp under his fingers.

"That so?" I said. "Well, perhaps I had a kind of premonition. Or perhaps the very tone of his voice—he went at his dénouement by a roundabout way—gave me an inkling a moment in advance."

"That must have been it," he decided in a satisfied tone. He stood up. "'O, by the bye, Gilly, would you be good enough to go along with me and call out that fellow Verity?"

As we neared the house, going toward its rear, I caught a quick glimpse of Florence's face pressed against the pane of an upstairs sash, and, although the sunshine made the glass glary, I could read the misery in her widened, watchful eyes. But Bray didn't see her, I am sure of that.

Then, when we rounded the service ell where, sure enough, Deputy Durkee stood sentinel at the exit, and came out of the shrubbery to face the front breadth of the sun porch, I saw how the dwarf, Sabino, shifted his squat deformed shape and brought his swarthy and glowering face close to the glazed French door, and I thought he was making an anxious but covert effort to engage Bray's attention or even mutely communicate to him some message or some plea. The detective paid no heed, though.

He turned his back on the house, saying to me: "Stick right here, Gilly, I don't mind you hearing this." And when old Verity, answering my beckoned summons, had corkscrewed forth with curious twistings of his gnarled legs, Bray began his attack without any preamble:

"You're the boat tender, eh?"

"I be," said Verity gravely, "amongst other things."

"Such being the case, you should be wise as to the tides through the vent of your creek here?'

"Yes, yes."

"When was it high tide in here last night?"

"About nine-thutty, I sh'd say, or mabbe nine-thutty-five."

"Uh huh! Did you ever happen to hear of a fellow answering to the name of Tony?"

"Seems like I know consider'ble many Tonys," he answered evasively. "Seems like to me that's a common name fur Eyetalian fellows."

"I didn't mention him being an Eyetalian," said Bray with a deceitful gentleness.

"Well now—hem," temporized Hawley, flustered over his indiscretion, "that jest slipped out, mister. There bein' so many Eyetalians around I——"

Bray cut him off sharply:

"How many boats are there in that boathouse?"

"Belongin' to us, you mean?"

"What else would I mean?"

"Well, there's our motorboat—a twenty-two footer—she's the biggest one. And there's two rowboats, twinslike, and both painted red. That's our hull fleet, ez you mout say."

"I see. Well, when was the last time you gave that fleet of yours a look?"

"Last evenin' gittin' along tor'des dusk when I fastened up the boathouse fur the night ez usual."

"Dead sure you fastened the lower double doors on the water side?"

"Tubby sure—yes, yes. Fore and aft I fastened her up."

"Well, Mr. Boat Tender, what would you say if I was to tell you that your bonthouse ain't fastened up any more—that the front doors have been broken open—lock smashed and hasp sprung and——"

"Judas Priest!" exclaimed the stricken Verity, and made as if to start for the pond.

"Come back here!" commanded Bray. "I'm not through yet. And what if I was to tell you furthermore that that launch of yours—that motorboat—is missing and that in its place, drawn up 'longside your two rowboats, is a green skiff with a hole stove in her bottom and the oars missing, and on one of her seats a big brown smear where it looks like somebody planked down a hand that was all over blood? . . . That'll be all now. You can run along back inside and visit with your friends some more."

. . . . . .

I look at the clock and to my surprise it tells me I have been dinging away here for nearly three hours, and still have carried my tabulations of today's—no, it's yesterday's now—yesterday's events no farther than noon.

I'm not sleepy and mentally I'm not tired. I guess the excitement of watching one development after another following so fast on the heels of its predecessors, stimulates me. And the impulse within me is to keep on till I have put into copy the finished record of the afternoon and the evening—especially the evening, with its culmination involving Florence's sweetheart, young Gregory Thorpe, that burst so unexpectedly, like a bombshell.

But I'm going to put from me the temptation to go on. I'm going to stop right here and brew myself a pot of coffee and smoke and lie down for an hour or so. I know I'll be thinking of the climactic explosion that flung poor, little, crushed Florence's lover into the fore front of it all. And between times I shall be thinking of my ride home, an hour before midnight. There was a thick sea fog that had come up. There was no wind to trouble the ocean, but I could hear the rumpled swells grumbling loudly as they piled up on the beach. A heavy surf with no wind behind it—a curious thing. And as I negotiated the last turn in the sandy road before entering my gate, I could hear old Brian Boru, the senior staghound of my stud, howling in his kennel.

He is still howling in his kennel. When I was a boy, the darkies down home had a superstition that when a dog howled like that and wouldn't stop, it meant somebody was dead or somebody was about to die.

STUDENT: THE BEST THING I can recommend for correcting knock knees is exercise that requires high kicking. The position of the leg is thrown into good balance an in it there is a chance of correcting a knock-kneed condition.

PEARL: IF YOU CAN'T AFFORD to buy a good tanning lotion for acquiring a nice coat of tan, olive oil or cocoa butter will serve as a preventive for burning. Take your sun baths for half an hour at a time, for a satisfactory tan.

GASOLINE ALLEY—GUESS AGAIN

I'M SORRY TO DISAPPOINT YOU BOYS ABOUT BUYING A CAR WITH YOUR $20, BUT NOT ONE OF YOU IS OLD ENOUGH TO DRIVE IT.
WE'D BE ALL THE MORE CAREFUL, UNCLE WALT.
BESIDES BUYING A LICENSE YOU'D HAVE TO HAVE LIABILITY AND PROPERTY DAMAGE INSURANCE ON IT.
MAYBE IT'S GOT THAT ON IT. IT'S GOT A HORN AN' WINDSHIELD WIPER.
THEN A CAR AT THAT PRICE WOULD PROBABLY HAVE NO BRAKES.
WE WOULDN'T GO FAST.
UNCLE WALT SAYS NO!

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Everybody Works but Fathaw

WINNIE, I JUST RECEIVED A LETTER FROM SOME OLD FRIENDS OF MINE, THE FRASERS, AN' THEY'VE INVITED US ALL UP TO SPEND TWO OR THREE WEEKS WITH THEM ON THEIR FARM IN TH' COUNTRY!!
GOSH, AND I WAS JUST WONDERING WHERE I WOULD SPEND MY VACATION THIS YEAR!!
AUG. 16
MY, I HAVEN'T SEEN JESSIE FOR YEARS! SHE SAYS THEY'VE GOT A TREMENDOUS BIG FARM! WOULDN'T IT BE WONDERFUL IF WE COULD ALL GO UP THERE FOR A COUPLE OF WEEKS?
GOSH, I'VE NEVER BEEN ON A REAL FARM BEFORE!
SOUNDS PRETTY GOOD TO ME!!
I'D LOVE IT!! WE CAN GET UP EARLY IN THE MORNING AND HELP FEED THE COWS AND CHICKENS AND HELP THEM MAKE HAY—AND PLOW—AND WORK IN THE CORN FIELDS—SAY—IF WE'RE GOIN' UP THERE TO WORK—YOU CAN COUNT ME OUT!!

Magic Trinity Should Govern Parental Care

Love, Understanding and Faith Compose It.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Three and seven are magic or holy numbers. We find them in different faiths.

So many religions seem to have used the "mystic three" in epitomising the essentials of their belief. I have just been reading of the East Indian mahavira who preached of the three jewels—right faith, right knowledge, and right living. The Christian religion has its trinity, too, faith, hope, and charity.

There is also a magic trinity for us parents in our relation to our children—three jewels without price.

This trinity is:

Love,
Understanding,
Faith.

They are the touchstones. They are the fundamentals without which all our efforts are as "sounding brass and tinkling cymbals."

If we strive to understand our children, if we love them and have faith in them, we have given them and ourselves a rock on which to stand. The wind may blow, and the rain may fall, but we have something firm to stand on.

We cannot always understand, we cannot always fathom our youngsters. Their motivation may be too obscure for us. Then we have to fall back on faith. When even that falters at times, we have one more bulwark—and that is love.

We cannot, of course, realize all that we, as parents, want to be. We may not have the imagination or the perception to comprehend our children. We may not always be big enough or sure enough to trust them—to have faith in them. But if we lack in that direction through our own spiritual shortcomings we can give them love unstintingly—the loveliest of us is as capable of that as the highest. As a great man said: "And the greatest of these is love."

A list of Books New and Old for Children Under Seven is now ready and will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Husband with Yen for Liquor a Real Problem

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am married to a man who drinks. He drank a great deal when we were first married and before we were married. Now he is not so bad, but he goes on a spree a couple of times a month. This is the only bad habit he has. When he is sober he is generous, kind, and considerate, and even when drinking he is good to me.

"I am nearly crazy with worry when he is drinking because he drives a car. Also, his drinking interferes with his work . . ."

The above should give other girls who are contemplating marrying a drinking man a simple idea of what they may have to contend with. Not that we expect a pen picture of another woman's state of mind is going to restrain a girl in love from marrying one with a like fault. But, at least, our hope is that she will be better prepared to cope her man's taste for liquor.

When the recurrence of outbreaks come she must realize that she is going to have to fight more than broken promises. She has a real sickness to contend with and one in which the patient lacks the strong will power that helps other forms of invalidism to recovery. It's a hard nursing job a woman assumes, believe me, when she takes up life with this type of patient. But, if it is adopted, then the rules for mate management have to be altered to meet the emergency, I think.

Leaving a man temporarily would not have much effect for good. The cures that I have known have been effected through a consummate faith in the man's ability to leave his liquor alone.

There's only one way the game can be beaten and the man has to beat it. But a woman can lend him encouragement, faith, and morale. It doesn't always work. But it has.

reception will follow at the home of Miss Glidden and her father, Henry Leonard Glidden, in Highland Park.

As her nine bridesmaids are among her very best friends, Miss Glidden is not distinguishing between them enough to choose one young lady as honor maid. The out of town attendants are Miss Kathryn Rogers, sister of the bridegroom, with whom Miss Glidden has spent the last five months traveling abroad, and Miss Bettylee Rich of New York, Miss Elizabeth Eddy of Bay City, Mich., and Mrs. Albert O. Snite, the former Betty Pierce, of Plattsburg, N. Y., who were roommates of Miss Glidden's at Dobbs Ferry. The other five are Miss Gwendolyn Juergens, who made her début jointly with Miss Glidden two years ago, Miss Welthyan Harmon, Miss Helen Marie Castle, Miss Louise Ruffner, and Miss Eleanor Page.

Miss Ruffner is giving a tea for Miss Glidden Friday afternoon at the Ruffner home in Highland Park. Miss Glidden has asked that there be few if any showers, so there will be only one—a magazine shower to be given by Miss Mary Anderson.

The list of ushers is not complete, but among them are James and Spaulding Rogers, the bridegroom's brothers; Robert E. Kenyon Jr., whose fiancée, Miss Bettylee Rich, is a bridesmaid, and Richard Glidden, the bride's cousin. Ward W. Briggs of New York will be Mr. Rogers' best man. Mr. Glidden will give a dinner for the wedding party.

The Arthur L. Millers are planning a dinner-dance at the Exmoor Country club for the Saturday before the wedding. It is hoped that the bridegroom and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Geer Rogers, and sister-in-law, Mrs. James Rogers, and the eastern contingent of the wedding party will be here then, although it is likely that they won't arrive until the Thursday before the wedding.

Exchange Sale at Charlevoix.

Even a vacation in the north woods doesn't halt the charitable activities of Chicago's society women. Today is the second day of the summer sale the Woman's Exchange is having at the warm weather home of Mrs. Daniel H. Burnham Jr. at Charlevoix. Assisting Mrs. Burnham are Mrs. Harris Whiting, Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot Jr., Mrs. Oscar W. Johnson, Mrs. Frederick H. Scott, Mrs. Robert Stuart, Mrs. John Stuart, Mrs. John P. Wilson, Mrs. Ezra J. Warner, Mrs. William B. Mellvaine, Mrs. Robert C. Orr, and Mrs. Harold C. Smith.

Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter has just joined Mr. Carpenter at the Chicago club at the resort, and Miss Cornelia Conger has gone up to visit her mother, Mrs. William P. Conger. Miss Louise Lackner and Mrs. George A. Poole Jr. are staying at the John Stuart cottage.

The Lorado Tafts, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warren Everett, Miss Jane Addams, the British consul general, Lewis Bernays, and Mrs. Bernays, and the Quincy Wrights are a few of those who will attend the dinner the Friends of India are having at 8:15 Friday evening for Dr. Vernon Herbst at the International house at the University of Chicago. After dinner the guests will move into the theater to hear Dr. Herbst, who has visited several of the famous Hindu princes (those, as one young woman expressed it, who own white peacocks) tell of his experiences.

Tell Engagement of Dorothy Nunn.

At a dinner party at Exmoor Country club Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Nunn of Moraine road, Highland Park, made known the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy, to Thomas Samuel Harrison Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Samuel Harrison of Denver and California. Mr. Harrison Jr. and his parents and sister, Miss Ruth Harrison, and brothers, Edward Newton Harrison and John Wiley Harrison, have been visiting the Nunns for a few days while seeing the Fair.

Miss Nunn attended Highland Hall in Pennsylvania and finished at the Weylister school in Connecticut. Mr. Harrison prepared at the Lawrenceville school and was graduated from Yale last year. Although no date has been set for the wedding, Mr. Harrison and his future bride will make their home in St. Louis, where he is in business.

Yesterday we heard that Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher Hoyt were among the guests last Saturday at the buffet luncheon Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had after the famous southern music festival on White Top mountain. In the afternoon Mrs. Hoyt's mother, Mrs. George H. Fergus, sang for the First Lady a folk song program and was presented in turn with a cane of white holly made from trees that grow on the mountain side. The songs aroused much interest among some of the composers present for they date back more than 80 years, having been learned by Mrs. Fergus as a child in Michigan.

While in Marion, N. C., the Hoyts were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Dickey Lincoln, whose lovely estate graces the Lee highway on the outskirts of the southern town. They will be back in Chicago this week until the end of the month, when they will go to Vermont, where Mrs. Hoyt is to give a program Sept. 1.

Week-End Parties at "The Butternuts."

No matter what influx or outflux of visitors there is, the Kellogg Fairbanks continue smoothly on with their week-end entertaining at their summer home, "The Butternuts," in Lake Geneva. Next week-end among other guests will be Miss Janet Fairbank's former singing instructor, Louis Bochman of Berlin, the Philip B. Mahers, and Dr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Moorehead. Miss Fairbank has returned to the city from a motor trip east.

Dedicates Book to Children

Louis Bromfield and his three children to whom he has dedicated his new book, "The Farm," a brilliant panoramic record of the middle west and its culture from the early nineteenth century to the world war. This picture was taken in the garden of his home in Senlis, France.

MINUTE MYSTERY

CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A DATE WITH DEATH.

"It was a horrible sight," calmly remarked cool, calculating, Jean Baker during Prof. Fordney's questioning of her. "My brother, Walton, and I found Max lying under a tree in the woods, where we had an appointment to meet him. Walton wanted to see him about a business matter, and I . . . the face was almost torn away!"

"Yes, I know . . . he was killed by a shotgun charge," Fordney interrupted.

"I thought he was dead," continued Jean, "but I wanted to make sure. Summoning my courage I unbuttoned his coat and held my ear to his heart. It was then I recognized the watch and chain as Max's. No . . . that's all I did. Then while Walton remained with the body I hurried back home and phoned headquarters."

"But surely you recognized the clothes as Hoffman's?" questioned the professor. "They certainly weren't new."

"That puzzles me. I've never seen him wear that suit."

Fordney turned to her brother and inquired, "Did you touch the body at any time?"

"No, sir. I did not."

"Did you think it was Hoffman?"

"Well . . ."

"Answer my question!"

"Yes . . . I did."

The leather wallet containing nearly $600, watch and chain, coins and cigarette case—the only articles in his clothing—that Fordney removed from the pockets of the dead man at the scene of the crime shortly after Jean's call for help were in Inspector Kelley's desk. But they did not prove the body that of Hoffman. He recalled the few blood stains on the man's shirt. Had he been shot while lying on the ground? Why was Jean lying about the tragedy?

WHAT WAS THE LIE THAT AROUSED FORDNEY'S SUSPICIONS?

[See solution on page 35.]

Perhaps you have a story or problem you would like to submit to Prof. Fordney. If so, send it to him care of this paper. He will be delighted to receive it.

Mrs. Anna Boal Wickes, whom the Samuel Douglass Floods of Kenilworth have been expecting for the last several days, will arrive Saturday to visit with her sister and brother-in-law. Her home is in Washington, D. C.

Aside from the pleasant expectations of a visit from her sister, Mrs. Flood is thrilled to think of seeing her son, Samuel Jr., within the next two weeks. Mr. Flood Jr. is well launched on his career as a diplomat. He had Toronto for his first post, and after completing his service there went to Washington for ten weeks in the school of diplomacy. He finishes there shortly and will be at home by a week from Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins are to arrive in New York Sept. 4 or 5 from a North Cape cruise. They will come directly to Chicago in order that Mrs. Hopkins may complete plans with her daughter, Miss Marjorie Goodman, for her marriage the first part of October to Charles S. Dewey Jr.

After two months of travel through Europe with her four children, Mrs. W. David Owen has returned to Chicago. They were met at the New York dock by Mr. Owen.

Pictures Life of Americans Before War

Bromfield Says U. S. Has Lost Ideal.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Farm," by Louis Bromfield. [Harper's.] Published yesterday.

Louis Bromfield dedicates "The Farm" to "Dear Anne and Hope and Ellen" and he tells them, among other things, "The Farm is written for you, who were all born after the war ended, so that you may know what it was like to have lived before 1914. . . . You will never know what it was like at first hand, and you will never know the country from which your father came, because even if you ever went to visit it, you would fail to find it. . . . 'The Farm' is the story of a way of living which has largely gone out of fashion. It was and is a good way of life, and although you live to be as old as the colonel, I doubt that you will find a better way. . . . It has in it two fundamentals which were once and may be again intensely American characteristics. These are integrity and idealism. They are tough qualities needed in times of crisis."

Unlike most dedications, this one is important. In it is the very essence of the book which follows. "The Farm" is a book written out of a great love, not only for the past but for the future. Louis Bromfield, that his children may know what manner of background they had, has done a real labor of love. That his daughters may understand the depths of their own natures, he has carefully, con amore, and with a passion for understanding pictured the natures of the forebears which bred those natures.

The phrase "Integrity and idealism" is also important, for "The Farm" not only celebrates these qualities but it is the living essence of them. If ever it is evident in a book that its author is idealistic but at the same time has striven to preserve his literary and his social integrity in its pages in "The Farm" that is evident. Louis Bromfield has so obviously striven to tell the truth as he knows it, as his parents knew it, as his grandparents lived it that "The Farm" has an authenticity about it rooted deep in the realities.

And, finally, "They are tough qualities needed in times of crisis" seems to me to sound the clarion of the book's certain popularity. These are days when we need urgently to know our national mind, to build out of the social mêlée firmly, solidly, and perhaps permanently, with the best bricks of the American consciousness. There is something energizing about such as book as "The Farm," which, even though it mourns a day that is past, does record its rightness and its values, does tell its readers that although greed has dominated America, integrity and idealism have not been absent. They triumphed once, they may triumph again.

"The Farm" is not a novel. It is narrative, elaborated social history, autobiographical . . . autobiographical not only of the first eighteen years (or so) of the author's life, very thinly disguised as "Johnny," but of the blood which coursed through his veins . . . the autobiography of a family, of a class. For the reader feels, when he has finished the last of the 346 closely printed pages, that the author began to live in the Colonel, his great-grandfather, and that only because he felt himself so definitely a part of the generations before him, as he felt those generations a part of him, can he reconstruct them as he does.

"The Farm" begins with the early nineteenth century, when the Colonel emigrates to Ohio. An esthete, a relic of the eighteenth century with its cultured and highly individualistic design for living, he really has no rootedness in the farm. His son-in-law has, and again his great-grandson. In between his grandson misses the land's call—misses much of life because he belongs to a different generation spiritually than the one into which he is born.

"Within the lifetime of old James," writes the author, America "had passed through four stages of civilization which elsewhere in the world had needed hundreds of years to ripen, to rot, and to be transmuted into something else. For old Jamie had seen a pastoral world, still half wilderness, and then a great agricultural democracy, and he had lived to see the world of the farmer decay and yield before a new autocracy of business men and industry."

That changing scene, social as well as economic and geographic, Louis Bromfield records in what, it seems to me, is the best writing he has ever done. There are whole pages of the most lyric description of spring in a glen, a picnic, a scene in the playyard of the school he attended as a child, where foreigners and poverty were alike jeered at, and of lush autumn afternoons when the earth brought the fullness of all things to birth. There are inner realities in the writing of "The Farm" which Mr. Bromfield's former books have only hinted at.

And there is also a maturity and a richness of human understanding which is deeper than has ever been before in his work.

"The Farm" is no new theme. It has been the dream of almost every artist to set down, if possible, in words, in paints, in clay, the rhythmic flow of life. Most often that is possible—in words—in a record of family roots, and for many writers inevitable. When that sort of book demands to be written, it is invariably [if honest] a real contribution to literature. "The Farm" is such a book . . . Louis Bromfield's clear answer to that imperative call of blood, of heritage, to be expressed.

To my mind, "The Farm" is not only Louis Bromfield's best book, but one of the best of the panoramic records of the midwestern culture.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Offers White Spitz Dog.

"Dear Miss Brown: We have a black and white spitz dog, very handsome, 1 year old, and a good watch dog. We are giving up our home and going into a small apartment for the winter, and as he has always been used to a large yard we haven't the heart to coop him up. His license has been purchased for this year and he has a collar and leash. Please try to find some one who will be especially nice to him. Mrs. E. R."

If you are interested in having this dog, and able to provide for him, write to Mrs. R. in care of this department. Please do not telephone.

Square Shoulder Line Rounded by Schiaparelli

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—When Mme. Schiaparelli was in America early this spring she had lots of opportunity to see the results of her square shoulder propaganda. Shoulders bigger and squarer than any that this creator of the big, he man shoulder line had ever imagined paraded by the thousands up and down the avenues. She came back to Paris and did something about it in her midseason shows. Her new collection is consecrated to spirited winged shoulders and to the rounded and roll padded line, something quite different from the square.

One of Schiaparelli's best suits for early fall is shown today. It has the new round shoulder line, given by the raglan sleeves being caught up into two standing tucks along the top of the shoulders, these tucks diminishing into nothing after making the curve of the top of the arm. Further, in the same rounded interest, the sleeves themselves are safe, bishop like in cut, and tucked into wide wrist bands. The jacket, made of light blue and navy checked tricot jersey, is three-quarter length and straight in line, with big patch pockets and a standing collar of crimped elastic ribbon. The straight narrow skirt has an elastic, crimped ribbon belt.

The blouse is of light blue linen with a soft tie collar having long ends. The little cap of dark blue wool has a crimped ribbon band and is trimmed with a long tassel.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Skeptical of Flattery.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend thinks that whenever I say nice things to her in the way of compliments it is a mere line. How can I convince her that it is really the truth? "CURLEY."

Why not tell her it's a special line that only she could inspire? That ought to hold her.

BY MARY MEADE.

Practically never do we let ourselves get caught these days without the makings for some sort of tinkling, long, cool 'ade. But too often we're likely to turn up with the most delectable of thirst quenchers only to remember that there isn't a thing in the house to accompany it.

Which calls for deep thought and, if I may suggest it, refrigerator cookies! The reasons are triplets. It's poor policy to make up great armies of cookies at once. Sometimes they get soft, hard, strong, or broken before they disappear. Again, if there are no cookies and we want cookies hastily, the job of mixing them and rolling them out for baking is a 100 per cent nuisance. And lastly, there are styles in cookies just as there are styles in hats and baby buggies. And right now refrigerator cookies are much in vogue.

Characteristics of these cookies are much stiffness and usually much butter. The dough may be rolled in a cloth or it may be pressed into butter cartons or deep pans lined with waxed paper. As a starter, some extra good ones are made this way:

OAT-DATE REFRIGERATOR COOKIES.
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup ground rolled oats
½ package dates, chopped
1-8 cup chopped nuts
½ cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup milk

Sift the flour, baking powder, and sa together and add the oats, dates, and nuts. Cream the butter and sugar together and add the beaten egg and vanilla. Stir in the dry mixture alternately with the milk. Work with a wooden spoon or the hands until the dough is evenly moist and packable. Press firmly into butter cartons or a deep pan lined with waxed paper. Chill for 4 hours. When ready to bake cut the dough in thin slices and bake on a greased baking sheet in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.] for 15 minutes.

Sweden has given us another to-be-chilled cooky which is delightfully rich and dainty—perfect as an accompaniment for frozen desserts or frosty beverages.

SWEDISH COOKIES.
4 cups cake flour
1 cup sugar
2 cups butter
1 egg, well beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream the butter till fluffy, then add the sugar and continue creaming till very light and perfectly blended. Add the egg and vanilla and beat thoroughly. Add the flour, which has been sifted three times, stirring it in a little at a time. When all has been worked in, the dough will be very thick. Shape it into 2 rolls, about 1½ inches in diameter, and chill overnight or as long as desired. To serve, cut the rolls in thin slices and bake on an ungreased cooky sheet in a hot oven [400 degrees F.] for five minutes or until done. Only enough cookies for your need should be cut and baked at one time, the rest returning to the refrigerator to await another cooky call.

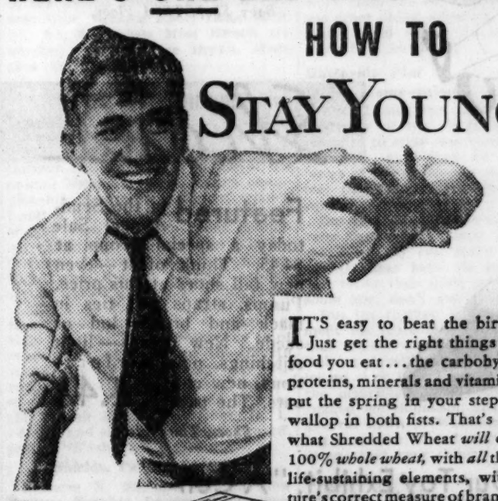
HERE'S ONE DAD WHO KNOWS HOW TO STAY YOUNG!



IT'S easy to beat the birthdays. Just get the right things in the food you eat . . . the carbohydrates, proteins, minerals and vitamins that put the spring in your step and a wallop in both fists. That's exactly what Shredded Wheat will do. It's 100% whole wheat, with all the vital life-sustaining elements, with Nature's correct measure of bran. Nothing added, nothing taken away—ready cooked, ready to eat. Tastes great, too! Golden-brown biscuits, a generous helping of milk or cream, topped with fruit. Try this treat for ten mornings. Or order it for a sensible lunch. And step along with the happy hosts who eat Shredded Wheat . . . and stay young!

Women Sweep Into Room in These Skirts

PARIS, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Styles recalling the day when King Edward VII. ruled England have been launched by Dilkusha [Princess De Rohan] as formal winter fashions for 1934.

"Back to the Edwardian vogue of dressing for dinner" is the slogan of the display, which features long sleeved, long skirted dinner gowns designed on a slender curve revealing silhouette with emphasis on the bust.

Most of the gowns are fashioned with skirts having all the fullness at the back so that madame may sweep into her own dining room once more.

One frock is designed of Burgundy red ribbed silk with a high necked, close fitting bodice and an ankle length skirt with fullness to the back having a little lace handkerchief peeping from a low hip pocket. Another long sleeved gown with rippling flounces down the back of the skirt is fashioned of black moiré. It is finished at the point of the "V" neckline with an antique turquoise jewel.

The Edwardian influence also makes many daytime frocks. One high necked model of gray broadcloth is designed on a princess silhouette with the two deep flounces suggestive of a flat bustle effect at the back of the skirt. A black wool dress cut on fitted lines is finished with a demure little white net frill at the neckline.

Fur trimmed coats with slightly broadened shoulders are cut on simple lines designed to fit smoothly over the slender frocks. Fabrics and colors reflect the conservative richness of thirty years ago. Broadcloth, mohair, Melton cloth, Moiré, and Ottoman [heavy ribbed silk] gashion many of the models which appear in such hues as black, iron gray, cinnamon, and chocolate browns. Flashes of bright "Tommy Atkins" red, Petunia and Edwardian pinks and blues and colorful touches.

Many novelties brighten the conservative array. Long gloves of silk crêpe woven to resemble pigskin or suede in tones of beige and "Tommy Atkins" red appear with sober velvet and crêpe evening gowns. New evening sweaters made of a crinkled elastic velvet in a bright shade of petunia are shown with dinner gowns designed for wear on cold winter evenings when the steam heat runs low.

The sports clothes which complete the collection are trig and modern in design. Simple wool suits fashioned with hip length jackets are worn with high necked blouses of a contrasting color. One suit of cinnamon brown tweed is accompanied by a high collared blouse of dark blue corduroy velvet, while an iron gray wool model is worn with a bright red wool blouse.

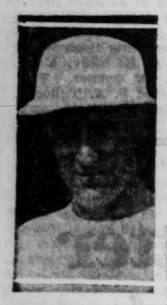
The western all star polo team is ready for the big push. This band of daring and spectacular riders will take the field at Onwentsia today in an attempt to complete the overthrow of Tommy Hitchcock's eastern team.



TOMMY HITCHCOCK.

The West brought about one of the greatest upsets in polo history Sunday by beating the East, 15 to 11, in the first game of the world series, but Hitchcock's players are not through yet by any means. Today they will have a healthy respect for those rough riders from the far west and there is no danger that they will be caught off guard.

East's Foe Strong.

If the westerners are victorious today, the series will be over, but if the easterners win, a deciding match will be played Sunday. Since becoming a ten goal player in 1923, Hitchcock has never been on the losing side in an international series. But this is an intersectional series and the western team is rated more powerful than any which could be assembled by a foreign country.

The polo public acquired an entirely new outlook on the series Sunday afternoon. The long established prestige of Hitchcock, the known ability of Winston and Raymond Guest, and the widely recognized prowess of Michael Phipps overshadowed the reputations of the westerners.

Even though Cecil Smith was rated as the only nine goal man in the country, he was not known to the public of the central states as well as were a number of easterners of lower ranking. Aidan Roark was a genuine dark horse, whose real ability was unguessed even in the west, and few realized the tremendous capabilities of Rube Williams. Elmer Boeseke had gained a measure of recognition when he was picked for an international team which invaded Argentina last fall.

West Favorite Now.

The west had many supporters, though it might have been more correct to call them sympathizers. The easterners were overwhelming favorites. Today, however, the situation will be reversed and Hitchcock's men will be making what might be called a last stand.

Hitchcock has announced no change in lineup. Polo followers have speculated upon the possibility that Earle Hopping might be substituted for one of those who played Sunday, but Hitchcock alone is in a position to say what will be done. And he has issued only the cryptic statement: "I am not prepared to say that I will not make a change in lineup."

Carleton F. Burke, manager of the western team, said yesterday his team had definitely demonstrated its ability to carry through to victory in the series if the players do not become overconfident. Overconfidence, however, is not generally believed to figure in the makeup of the westerners, for they still have plenty of respect for Hitchcock's team.

Smith to Play.

Smith is still troubled by aches and pains as a result of Sunday's fall in which his head, wrist, and ankle were injured. However, it has been decided definitely that he will play today.

Lee Aldwell, a Texas breeder, who has loaned a number of ponies to the western team, said that the horses should be in their very best form today. The hard game Sunday, with two full days of rest intervening, might be expected to put them perfectly on edge, he said.

Williams instead of Smith will be captain of the western team. Although that honor originally was bestowed upon Smith, he waived it just before Sunday's game and requested Burke to give it to Williams. It was Williams who taught Smith to ride a horse when the latter was 5 years old.

The Horse Association of America will present medals to the owners of the eastern and westen ponies which do the best work in the series. The performance of the mounts will be judged by Burke, Louis E. Stoddard, and Maj. Frederic McLaughlin.

15,000 Seats Available.

Tickets to today's matches will be on sale at the Onwentsia field and, up to 2 p. m., at the series headquarters in room 912 Builders' building, 228 North La Salle street. There will be 15,000 seats available.

Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock Sr. of Long Island, N. Y., mother of Hitchcock, was a bit dubious yesterday about the outcome of today's match.

"If the western team plays as well in the next game as it did on Sunday there is little chance of an eastern victory," she said.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

It is interesting to observe that among the 22 candidates for the eastern team that will meet a group of all stars from the Pacific coast in the East-West football game at Soldiers' field Aug. 24 are three winners of THE TRIBUNE'S most valuable player trophy.

They are Harry Newman of Michigan, winner of the 1932 award; Clarence Munn of Minnesota, who won in 1931, and Wesley Fesler of Ohio State, the 1930 winner.

Five other players on the eastern squad were picked by their teammates as the most valuable men on their particular squads. These include Berry of Illinois, Horstman of Purdue, Rentner of Northwestern, McGuire of Wisconsin, and Kekich of Indiana.

If Dick Hanley and Tug Wilson, promoters of the game, were cinema magnates they would call their presentation a super-super-super-monster-super feature. But being athletic officials at Northwestern university they are satisfied to let it go as the biggest all star football game Chicago has had.

At guard for the western eleven will be a player who was the leading actor in the most thrilling football drama this writer has seen. His name is Johnny Baker and his goal from placement in the last minute of play enabled Southern California to defeat Notre Dame, 16 to 14, at South Bend in 1931.

There will be other athletes whose names are familiar to followers of the Notre Dame-Southern California series. Among them are Morley Drury, whose long runs thrilled 120,000 at Soldiers' field in 1927; Gaius Shaver, quarter back of the 1931 Trojan team; Tay Brown and Ernie Smith, the best pair of tackles in 1932 football, and Stan Williamson, center. All were coached by Howard Jones, who will direct the coast squad on Aug. 24.

Professional football teams are going in for cultural background this fall. The Boston Redskins will open a two weeks' training period at Northwestern Sept. 1 and on the same date the Bears will pitch camp at Notre Dame.

George Halas, owner of the Bears, will announce in a few days that he has appointed himself coach of the team to succeed Ralph Jones, who resigned to direct the Lake Forest college eleven. Halas was unable to hire the coach he wanted because the man is now engaged. He refers to Heartley Anderson of Notre Dame. In the opinion of the Bears' leader Anderson knows more football than any one in the game, professional or college.

Joe O'Connor, San Francisco sportsman, and Joe Carr, president of the National Professional league, will meet in Chicago this week to discuss plans for the formation of a professional football league on the coast.

The projected league would play its early season games in southern California so as not to conflict with Catholic colleges in the northern part of the state, some of which play Sunday football. The winners of the National Pro league would go west to play the coast champions for the United States title in January.

Carr also is considering a proposal to transfer four or six of the leading National league teams to California for a round robin series after the regular schedule has been completed.

WESTROPE RIDES FOUR WINNERS; NINE IN 2 DAYS

Young Jockey Again Thrills Hawthorne Fans.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Jockey Jack Westrope, the 16 year old Iowa farmer boy speeding along toward the American jockey championship with hardly any opposition, will wake up this morning and discover that he has ridden 181 winners since he first appeared in silks at the Oriental Park track in Cuba last February.

He thrilled another crowd of 10,000 at Hawthorne yesterday when he was first past the winning post on four horses and finished second in another race. He wore silks in six races and was out of the money but once.

His sensational riding followed an afternoon in which he had piloted five winners home. Nine winners in two days is his mark, and it is the finest record hung up by a jockey in this country in more than a dozen years. Records made by Sloan, Isaac Murphy, Walter Miller, Sande, and other idols of American racing are periled by Westrope's remarkable horsemanship.

Wins on Victorium.

Westrope's work for the afternoon started in the second race when he climbed into the saddle on Victorium. It was a dash at 6½ furlongs and as soon as the word went out that Westrope was to ride Victorium the ancient sprinter from the far west was made the favorite.

Victorium was outrun in the early stages but he felt the Westrope touch in the stretch and then stepped away from his rivals. Lebruyere was second and Royal Purchase was third.

Barney Sexton was Westrope's next mount. He was running in the third race and everybody thought he was going to complete the daily double. Old Barney wasn't in a running mood and finished fourth.

Then Came Dark Mist.

After a rousing stretch finish he got Dark Mist up to win the fourth race for his second victory of the afternoon.

The farm boy sensation booted in Tela in the sixth to make it No. 3, and he had no trouble whatever winning on Happy Fellow in the last race, after finishing second on Otto W Lehmann's Her Elegance in the seventh.

Sharing the spotlight with Westrope were two sensational 2 year olds from the Audley farm in Virginia—they may be as good as any in the country—which accounted for the two best races on the program.

The spectacular young thoroughbreds were Signalman and Giggling. The hope of Audley farm in the Hawthorne Juvenile handicap Saturday is Signalman, a son of High Cloud-Sister Ship. He won the Chicago Meadows purse yesterday from a band of eligibles to the stake and won it as he pleased after enjoying a wide lead for the entire trip. It was the second start of his career.

Giggling, a daughter of Pompey-Giggles, won the first race just as easily, but, unfortunately for Audley farm, she isn't eligible to the Hawthorne Juvenile.

Fans Plunge on Giggling.

Giggling was one of the hottest tips of the entire Chicago season, and the Hawthorne customers didn't seem to mind that she was making her first start. They wagered on her early and late and made her the favorite at post time. Sensational workouts were responsible for the extraordinary plunge. She ran the 5½ furlongs in 1:07 1-5 and in the mutuels paid $4.54. Few 1 to 10 shots ever have scored in more easy fashion.

Signalman ran the same distance in 1:07 and won even more impressively. Like Giggling, he romped into a long early lead and he seemed to have more in reserve at the finish than did Giggling.

Jockey Earl Pool booted both the Audley Farm 2 year olds to their triumphs. There is quite a contrast between Pool and the sensational Westrope. It was 18 years ago that Pool rode his first winner on one of the major tracks of the country. That was nearly two years before Westrope was born. Westrope did not ride against Pool in either of the 2 year old races.

Bush Pitches 5 Hit Game, But Braves Beat Cubs, 2-1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 15.—The gallant Guy Bush was betrayed by his Cub mates today in the opening contest of the eastern invasion. They gave him no help in the way of runs, so the bronzed Mississippian, despite a brilliant five hit performance, fell before the Braves by an old fashioned 2 to 1 score. The jolt dropped the pennant seeking Chicagoans to four and one-half games behind the top place Giants.

GUY BUSH.

Even though it was a failure, Bush's performance was almost a classic. Only six men reached base on him, five on hits and one on a pass. Three of the base runners appeared in the second, one of them scoring. The other three appeared in the ninth when three safe hits in a row scored the run that doomed the Chicagoans. In between these two widely separated assaults Bush set down 21 batters in succession, including the last two in the second and the first man in the ninth. Not one of these 21 men hit a ball solidly.

Opportunities Go Begging.

The Cubs attack wasn't exactly a case of not hitting. It was a matter of not hitting in the pinches against long Ben Cantwell, now the owner of 16 victories against seven defeats. The Chicagoans were painfully prodigal with their opportunities. They had 10 hits, one walk, and three errors from which to produce runs, but did so on only one occasion. And it took a blunder to boost them along in that instance. They had one or more runners on bases in seven of the nine innings. Once three hits in a row availed them only a headache. And while all these base runners were dying Bush was retiring the hostiles almost without exception.

Bush's persistency about being a hitter probably brought on the finish before extra innings were necessary. He doubled in the ninth and, on reaching second, called for time so that he might remove his shoe to shake out a mythical pebble. He was stalling for time. When he got ready to pitch the last half of the inning he stalled some more. Hartnett even threw the ball into right center to give the pitcher a rest, but it didn't help. Bush plainly was done.

Lady Luck Eludes Babe.

Urbanski, the first to face Bush in the ninth, was easy on a tap in front of the plate, but only a few more minutes were needed for the final punches. Jordan singled between English and third base. Berger swung at the first pitch and it shot between short and third for a single. Bush pitched wide three times to Randy Moore before getting over a strike. Then the ex-White Sox drove the ball low into right center. Cuyler scooped it up and shot it into the plate, but Jordan was already there with the winning run. Moore was credited with a double, but he never could have reached second if they had played for him.

The matchless Babe Herman encountered what he thought was a piece of very bad luck in the first inning. It cost him a hit and the Cubs a run. Cuyler singled with two out and the graceless Babe whacked a terrific fly to right center. A cross wind carried it away from Berger, who was in hot pursuit. The ball came down just a bit in front of a 417 foot sign on the fence, balanced a moment on the tip of Berger's glove, and then fell securely into his grasp. English also suffered misfortune in this inning. He hammered a whistling line drive back at the pitch-

Jim Bausch to Play Full Back for Cardinals

Jim Bausch, former Kansas football player and the greatest all around athlete in the world, yesterday signed a contract to play with the Chicago Cardinals during the National Professional league season, which opens next month.

Dr. David L. Jones, owner of the club, said Bausch would play full back. He will report at Mills stadium Sept. 1 with other candidates for the team.

Bausch, who played half back on the 1930 University of Kansas eleven, was ruled ineligible after participating in a post-season football game. He previously had been under fire from the Big Six conference faculty committee because he was drawing salary from a Topeka insurance firm during the time he was representing Kansas on the gridiron.

Bausch was an all around track athlete in high school and college. He established a new world decathlon record in the 1932 Olympic games at Los Angeles. His record for the ten events:

100 meters	11.7 seconds
Running broad jump	22 feet 9⅝ inches
Shot put	50 feet 3½ inches
High jump	5 feet 7 inches
400 meters	54.2 seconds
110 meter hurdles	16.2 seconds
Discus	146 feet 3¼ inches
Pole vault	13 feet 1½ inches
Javelin	203 feet 1½ inches
1,500 meters	5 minutes 17 seconds

Bausch last year was awarded the James E. Sullivan memorial medal, which is presented annually to an active athlete who has done most during the year to promote sportsmanship.

Three Sentenced in Investigation of RaceHorseDoping

Three men arrested in connection with the investigation of doping of race horses at Chicago tracks pleaded guilty to the sale and possession of narcotics and were sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday while the district attorney's office sought indictments against 20 other men.

Those sentenced and their terms are Chauncey Berger, three years; William [Bottoms Up] Cooney, two years, and John [Tipeasy] Pride, colored, two years.

Berger formerly was an exercise boy at the Arlington Park track, and Cooney is a former jockey. Pride is alleged to have been a partner of Berger in sale of heroin to government informers at Arlington and Lincoln Fields tracks. A fourth defendant, Hinton Parks, colored, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Sept. 11 on charges of having made six sales of narcotics to investigators at Sportsman's Park, Arlington, Lincoln Fields, and Washington Park.

Meanwhile, Assistant Attorney General Leslie E. Salter continued his presentation of evidence before the grand jury. Reported to be seeking the indictment of twenty persons, he took the first of a score of witnesses before the jury.

Dayton Polo Team Wins Over Oak Brook, 6-5

The Miami Valley Hunt and Polo club of Dayton, O., yesterday defeated Oak Brook, 6 to 5, in two overtime chukkers and entered the final round of the intra-circuit tournament. Miami will meet Fort Sheridan for the championship tomorrow.

TWO HELENS, ONE IN SHORTS, WIN IN U. S. NET MEET

Miss Jacobs Takes First Match in Love Sets.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Cal., American women's singles champion, led the customary parade of favorites through the opening round of the national championship tournament this afternoon. Miss Jacobs, playing in shorts, the first woman to do so on the stadium courts here, defeated Eunice Dean, San Antonia, Tex., 6-0, 6-0.

Sharing the day's spotlight with Miss Jacobs was Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who gave no evidence that she is still suffering from the spinal injury which forced her to withdraw from the Wightman cup matches. Mrs. Moody, dashing about the courts easily, scored a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Dr. Esther Bartosh, Los Angeles, to advance to the second round in her quest for her eighth national championship.

Betty Nuthall Advances.

With a minimum of effort, other favored players reaching the second round were Betty Nuthall, Mary Heeley, Margaret Scriven, members of England's Wightman cup squad, and Alice Marble, Sarah Palfrey, and Marjorie Sachs.

Miss Nuthall, who held the title in 1930, had little difficulty defeating Jane Sharp, Pasadena, Cal., 6-3, 6-3.

Dorothy Round, another of England's leading players, whose claim to tennis fame was a one set victory over Mrs. Moody, the first woman to accomplish this in six years, also triumphed, but she received a scare in the first set in her match with Eugenie Sampson of Winnetka, Ill. The Illinois girl outplayed the British star in the first set, but Miss Round finally found her game and won out, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Helen Fulton Beaten.

Another American player who turned in an impressive performance was Alice Marble, San Francisco. Miss Marble, who is seeded No. 3 among the United States players, allowed her opponent, Margaret Cluett, Troy, N. Y., only eight points as she won, 6-0, 6-1.

Another Illinois girl to lose in the first round was Helen Fulton, also of Winnetka. She was defeated by Frances Herron, Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-2. Two New York players, Baroness Maud Levi and Millicent Hirsch, advanced to the second round. Baroness Levi won from Bernice Ayer, Lake Bluff, Ill., 6-2, 6-0, while Miss Hirsch triumphed over Beatrice Bryan, Memphis, Tenn., 6-0, 6-0.

VINES, ALLISON WIN

Newport, R. I., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The favorites continued their march through the preliminary rounds of the annual Newport Casino tennis championship tournament this afternoon. Leading the way into the fourth round of play were Ellsworth Vines, defending champion, who holds the Wimbledon and American singles championships, and Wilmer Allison, member of the United States Davis cup team.

Allison, seeded No. 2, drew a first round bye, defeated A. C. Cushing, New York, 6-1, 6-4, to reach the third round and advanced to the fourth round with a 6-1, 6-3 victory over William Tilden III., Philadelphia, nephew of Big Bill. Vines defeated 58 year old Russell Dana, Pawtucket, R. I., 6-0, 7-5, and eliminated Henry Prusoff, Seattle, Wash., 6-1, 6-3.

Shields, Parker Advance.

Frances X. Shields, veteran New Yorker; Frankie Parker, Milwaukee, national clay courts titleholder, Gene Mako, Los Angeles, another young star who has scored several brilliant victories during the season; Joe Coughlin, San Francisco, and H. G. N. Les of Great Britain were others to advance to the fourth round.

Tournament officials speeded up play because of yesterday's postponed opening. George M. Lott Jr., Chicago, and John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, who gave the United States its only victory in the Davis cup doubles play against England, won their first round matches in remarkable time.

WHAT CAN A BALL CLUB DO TO GET ITS BLUE EAGLE?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—How do the baseball people think they are going to earn their blue eagles, holding, as they do, to an old rule which limits the number of jobs that a ball club may offer to the employé class and, in the minor leagues, to another little dandy of a rule which limits the size of the wage which the clubs are allowed to pay to their limited number of players?

These understandings between the capitalists of the game seem to me to challenge some of Gen. Hugh Johnson's favorite ideas of the subject of reëmployment and pay. Figuring that the magnates are doing the best they can and not any too well for themselves, either, I do not really give much of a damn about the situation, bu. nevertheless I think I will view with alarm and do a little fearless denouncing just to keep my hand in.

Consider the Case of Arthur Shires.

Yes, this is a pretty bad case, calling. I should say, for some of the loudest and most righteous tongue-throwers on the NRA staff, and it wouldn't surprise me at all if, before this year is over, a lot of baseball magnates find themselves being shagged through the swamps by the posses.

It is dramatized just now by the cruel persecution of Art [The Great] Shires, Gordon Slade and a couple of other fellows who have been fined and otherwise mulcted [a word I hate worse than victuals] for secretly accepting from the Columbus ball club of the American association more pay than the ball club, under its own agreement with the other firms in the league, was supposed to give them.

The Columbus club was punished, too, and of course that was all right because the club was party to the conspiracy against the player class and was trying to sneak something over on its fellow oppressors. Not out of love for the athletes, I suspect, but more likely to keep these pathetic hay chasers up in their work, did the soulless corporation of Columbus pay the boys more than the magnates, in their big wisdom, had decided was good for them. Thus Columbus is presumed to have enjoyed a finer and more gallopy measure of work from the boys in question than the other clubs, adhering to the wage limit, could expect to receive from their field hands.

Dastardly Plot Stifles Competition.

Well, I must say that this was very dastardly of the Columbus club. To conspire to stifle free competition was dastardly and then to violate the terms of the conspiracy was dastardly too. One dastardly plus one dastardly equals very dastardly.

But the ballplayers certainly had no voice in the conspiracy and I don't see how they can mulct [that word again] these boys for accepting the best terms they could get. Isn't there some law, don't you think?

But the further I pursue my argument the more painfully aware am I that I have clamped a sort of headlock on myself and don't know how to let go. For here I am contending for the principle of free competition, or rugged individualism, and here is the general down in Washington promoting a system of industry which condemns that very thing.

Regulation Is an Old Idea of Magnates.

I know those ballplayers shouldn't be fined for doing the best they could for themselves, and I am quite sure the general will endorse their right to do so. Yet I can't imagine his condemning the magnates and refusing them their eagle, or at least some subordinate type of wild fowl, on the ground of their having long ago hit upon the idea of regulating competition, lest the strong and efficient consume the weak and incompetent.

The minor league magnates conceived the idea of the salary limit so that the club residing in a large and prosperous town or the club with a rich and sporty proprietor would not

CROWDER LEADS ATTACK WITH 3 TIMELY HITS

Hose Run Amuck on Bases.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Alvin Crowder, the majors' winningest pitcher, rang up victory No. 19 yesterday at the expense of the highly confused White Sox. The score was Washington, 5; Chicago, 1. The outcome enabled the Senators to keep 5½ games ahead of the New York Yankees.

ALVIN CROWDER.

Crowder had something more than a good day at pitching. He had a perfect day at bat with a walk, a double, and two singles. He scored the tying run after his double in the sixth and scored again in the eighth. So personally Alvin scored enough runs to beat the Sox. Both of the Senators' scoring rallies were started by his hits. In addition to all these things Alvin almost died laughing at the efforts of the Sox to run bases.

Crowder, of course, had a good day coming, for the last time the Sox were in Washington they licked him twice in four days, which was a lot of torture, seeing as the former soldier has lost only eight games all year.

Sox Think Too Fast.

The Sox made exactly the same number of hits as the visitors—nine—and they were of much purer quality. But the Washington lads showed skill and thought on the base lines, whereas the Sox sought to operate through instinct and their cerebella couldn't carry the load. It seemed that every time a member of the Sox made a hit somebody was thrown out in the midst of a display of ambition to go places.

The Sox hits were all bona fide except one, whereas the Senators had four hits that were outright scratches. This, however, is not cited as an alibi for our fellows, for the league leaders made enough sound smacks in the eighth to score two runs, sufficient to win, of course.

Jimmy Dykes led the hitters of both teams with a triple, a single and a double. The triple drove in Appling, who had just doubled with one out in the second; his single led off the fifth, but he couldn't get aid beyond a sacrifice by Rhyne, and his double to the left fieid scoreboard with Appling on first resulted in Appling being thrown out at the plate by a margin of about six feet.

Dykes Breaks Loose.

After Simmons had tapped to Cronin to start the second inning, Appling doubled past Bluege. Then Dykes got that triple to right. Rhyne was hit by a pitched ball and Sox partisans were justified in believing a rally was in the making. Then something went awry. Rhyne ran to second and when Sewell saw Dykes holding third, he threw to Myer, and after Myer and Rhyne wrestled around the bag for a while, Rhyne was out and Dykes still was on third. The thud became resounding when Berry was called out on strikes as Crowder cast up his deceptive nothing ball.

In the first five innings the Senators' attack consisted of a bunt, which Manush beat out in the fourth. And it promptly was blotted out by a double play. The sixth saw the Senators demonstrate the ancient precept that a good ball club makes its breaks.

Crowder Starts Trouble.

Crowder lifted a high one to short left which seemed certain to light foul. Simmons made a heroic attempt at a diving catch and Umpire Kolls ruled Simmons had touched the ball before it went foul. So it went for a double. Myer then executed a perfect drag bunt, which he was able to beat out for a hit. Crowder stopping at third. Goslin then flied to Simmons and Crowder scored the tying run after the catch.

Manush got a legitimate single to center, putting Myer on third. The runners held on while Cronin bounced out to Kress. Schulte popped a high fly to short left and, after chasing

FIELD OF TWELVE TO RACE TODAY IN $50,000 TROT

Mary Reynolds Favorite in Hambletonian.

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Twelve fleet 3 year old trotters, survivors of an original field of 40, tomorrow will match strides over the triangular racing strip at Good Time park for the major share of $50,000 in the seventh renewal of the Hambletonian, the "Kentucky Derby" of light harness horse racing.

The seven colts, two geldings, and three fillies, comprising the largest field since the inaugural year at Syracuse in 1926, were named this morning, following the posting of $500 entry fee by their owners. They will face Starter Steve Phillips for the first of the three out of five mile heats at about 2 p. m. [Chicago daylight saving time].

Expect More Than 30,000.

Barring a sudden change in the weather, a crowd of 30,000 is expected to augment the 3,000 population of this little hamlet. The town's two inns and half of the private residences already are booked to capacity, while the advance sale of reserved seats, the largest in the history of the race, indicates that the Goshen hospital, to which William H. Cane, sponsor of the race, annually turns over a large percentage of the profits, will benefit greatly.

The track has dried out rapidly after yesterday's rain and will be lightning fast for the rich stake if the weather continues fair.

With the "dress rehearsals" at Cleveland, Toledo, and Salem, N. H., throwing little light on the possible outcome the race is considered a wide open affair for the first time in several years.

Mary Reynolds Impresses.

Mary Reynolds, a fleet little bay filly sporting the silks of W. N. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, N. C., drew the most comment among horsemen this morning as her veteran trainer and driver, Ben White, sent her around the mile course in a brisk workout. She is expected to rule the favorite in the auction pool wagering at even money against the entire field.

Although victorious in three minor stakes, the southern owned filly has been beaten. Brown Berry, representing J. I. Lyle of Plainfield, N. J., has been improving with every start, winning the American stake at Rockingham park, and is the probable second choice. The colt will have Fred Egan handling the reins.

Remainder Rated Outsiders.

King Ben, owned by Cane, who won the event with Walter Dear in 1929, and I. O. Blake's Atlantic Volo, of New York City, also are well considered. Henry Thomas will be behind King Ben, while Lyman Brusie will be in the New York colt's sulky.

The remainder of the starters are given only an outside chance of winning the major share of the purse, although Spencer McElwyn from Henry H. Knight's Chicago stable is capable of whipping the field if he trots back to his winning performance as a juvenile, when he was considered the best of his age. He won the Matron stake earlier in the season but since has proved a disappointment.

The other entrants are Captain Hanover from the Hanover, Pa., farms; J. L. Dodge's Hollyrood Portia, of Lexington; Henry Oliver's Poplar Hill, of Sewickley, Pa.; Thomas Ashworth's Prince Hall, of Charlton City, Mass.; Allan J. Wilson's Sir Raleigh, of Boston; Henry W. Scott's Mary Sunshine, of Philadelphia, and Maurice, owned by William Hughes of Cleveland. Dodge, wealthy owner and trainer, will drive his own entry.

In the draw for post positions Spencer McElwyn drew the coveted rail position, with Mary Reynolds in third position, with Atlantic Volo drew No. 2, King Ben, No. 4, and Brown Berry, No. 11.

Partners Sell Racing Papers to Annenberg

Moe Annenberg of Chicago has bought out the interest of his two partners in the Daily Racing Form group of horse race papers for a reported price of $2,000,000, it was learned yesterday.

The principal racing papers in the group are the Daily Racing Form, American Running Horse, and the American Racing Record. The syndicate also owns Radio Guide. Control of the chain was vested in two investment companies, the Walter Holding corporation and the A. B. & M. corporation, of which Annenberg is now the sole owner.

Deal Ends Legal Fight.

Annenberg formerly held a third interest in the two holding companies, the remaining stock being owned by his partners, Hugh E. Murray and Joseph D. Bannon.

The outright purchase of his partners' interest by Annenberg ends a legal fight among the partners in which Bannon and Murray attempted to oust Annenberg as president and general manager. Two suits were brought in the Delaware courts, one asking an injunction to prevent Annenberg from operating the papers and the other asking that receivers be named for the parent companies.

Suits Are Dismissed.

Both suits were dismissed. They charged Annenberg with mismanagement and alleged that he tried to run the properties down in order that he could buy out his partners at a low figure.

Murray has resigned as secretary and director of the company and Bannon has given up his jobs as vice president and director, it was learned. Annenberg will continue as president and general manager of the group, which is the largest chain of racing papers in the country.

Safety Council Engineers Hold Golf Tourney Today

SEEK SECOND POLO VICTORY TODAY

Inlander Is Entered in Chicago Derby

Although the entry list for the renewal of the Chicago Derby Sept. 2, is not complete, the names of several 3 year olds nominated for the race were announced yesterday.

Easterners seeking the $10,000 prize were Inlander, winner of the Arlington Classic and his stable companions, Okapi and Caesar's Ghost, the Catawaba stables' Mr. Khayyam, winner of the American Derby; F. A. Griffith's Sarada, Leo Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, Joseph E. Widener's Golden Way, and Adolph Pon's Swivel.

The westerners entered are Bamboula, Friend Charlie, Teralice, Esseff, Advising Anna, Gay World, Royal Blunder, and Big Red. These horses are all in active training and most of them will accept the issue.

New Deal, the 2 year old owned by J. W. Parrish, Midway, Ky., banker, reeled off three quarters of a mile in 1:13 3-5 yesterday morning and immediately won a lot of backers for the Hawthorne juvenile handicap to be run on Saturday.

Clyde Van Dusen, trainer of the Dixiana farm horses, is very mysterious about the 2 year olds he will saddle for the juvenile handicap. His three leading candidates are Far Star, Mata Hari and Constant Wife. A lot of guesses were being made that Far Star and Constant Wife will do the running for Dixiana.

The two proudest lads at Hawthorne yesterday were E. Vangundy and J. Strong. After serving for months as stable hands and exercise boys they were allowed to wear silks for the first time. Vangundy was upon Uncle Mitch in the second race and Strong was in the saddle on Dody in the seventh.

Dr. J. G. Kaiser, Hawthorne veterinarian to the stewards, will be host on Friday to a thousand members of the American Veterinary Medical association, which is in Chicago for its annual convention.

VICTORIUM, lucky to slip through on inside when improving his position in first quarter, came around LE BRUYERE on stretch turn and drew away rapidly through stretch. LE BRUYERE had raced around throughout, and weakened badly in final eighth. ROYAL PURCHASE closed with a rush.

Winner trained by M. J. Beauchamp. Went to post at 3:07¾. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

SUN TEATIME, under some restraint for five-eighths and forced very wide by PHANTOM ROCK on stretch turn, worked her way to front when straightened up for final three-sixteenths and weakened, but lasted. PHANTOM ROCK bore out entering back stretch, again went out on stretch turn, and held on stubbornly after being headed. REVERBERATE saved ground throughout and weakened in final five-sixteenths.

DARK MIST, bumped on first turn and raced wide while being reserved off the pace, came around HARAMZADA fast on stretch turn and, drawing clear, won thereafter but had little left. ESKIMO, in four-quarters on first turn and forced to three-quarters, withstood the drive gamely. PEACE LADY, slow to get going and far back for three-quarters, saved some ground on stretch turn and then came to outside and closed with a rush.

Patterson. Went to post at 3:57. At post 7½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

SIGNALMAN away fast, drew out into a long lead on the turn, was shaken up repeatedly in the stretch, and weakened but was not endangered. POSTSCRIPT, away slowly, made up much ground in first quarter and held on gamely under severe pressure through the final quarter. DAN SABATH, forced back by COPLIER on stretch turn, also held on well.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Plumpen. Went to post at 4:25. At post 2 minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

TELA much the best, was sent along under brisk hand riding after reaching the backstretch, easily disposed of AL NEIMAN and, drawing out, won in hand. AL NEIMAN, well raced in the early moremaking, could not withstand TELA's winning rush but held on well and was best of others. ISLAM fell back slightly on stretch turn and went evenly in the drive.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:40½. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

FOXLAND HALL, taken back repeatedly on the first five-eighths, moved fast after reaching the lower turn, bore over, crowding INDIAN BOY and HER ELEGANCE entering the final eighth, and weakened in the late stages, but outstayed HER ELEGANCE. The latter, probably best, followed the early pace under snug restraint, failed to withstand the winner's rush in the stretch, but came again after meeting interference and was wearing down the winner. INDIAN BOY had good speed, suffered from crowding, and held on fairly well when clear.

ALL ROADS LEAD TO GOOD FISHING IN MINNESOTA

Woods Filled with Bass and Pike Lakes.

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Marcell, Minn., Aug. 15.—You can take almost any turn from the highway above Marcell and by just following the forest road eventually reach one or more bass or pike lakes. A stranger in this country may not always know where he is going, but there are so many fishing holes in this wooded country that he can be sure that sooner or later, if his gas holds out, a lake will appear ahead of him.

Yesterday we took a right hand turn above Marcell and saw three or four lakes before we unloaded our fishing outfit on Big Island lake, a body of water well named, since it contains several islands. Merritt Alden, the Marcell resident who was fishing with us, headed the boat across the lake and then around a point without stopping to fish. He said we were pointing toward the Crooked lake portage and the orders were not to fish until we reached it. An easy trail lead us over a couple of low hills covered with poplar and birch trees. Then we hit the alder covered shoreline of Crooked lake, which has many arms and branches, although it is not a large lake when compared with Jack the Horse, North Star, and a few other fishing holes here in the woods.

Encounters Squally Weather.

Crooked lake, however, has several extensive weed beds out in the open water, large areas with those tall, snaky looking growths coming up from the bottom of the lake into which the bass flock in warm weather. We had hoped to get enough windless hours to permit fly casting these weed beds. We failed to get a break from the weather man, however, until along toward sundown. Throughout the afternoon squally weather mixing high winds, black clouds, and occasional rains kept the lake stirred up.

Right now bait fishing around these submerged weed bars is the method which lands fine strings of bass. The fish are down deep during the hot, bright hours of the day. Not a sign of a bass of any size did we find along the shore line of Crooked or Big Island lakes when we were casting during the afternoon. Small bass by the dozens were around the lily pads and the snags and they walloped our flies in typical bass fashion. But the big boys stayed in deep water.

They Rush at Lure.

At sundown we moved to one of the weed bars and slowly circled it with our fly rod just as the sun was going down behind a forest covered hill across the lake. The water was calm and smooth in the little bay in which we were fishing so that the bass could quickly detect the action of our dry flies on the surface. Some of the fish rushed the lure so fast and were so eager to seize it that sometimes they leaped out of the water to get it.

Will Baseball Teams Have to Hire 10 Men?

be able to out-salary the poor club and thus cause discontent, sabotage, and ruin in the league. It was even decided that, in the peculiar nature of the baseball business, the survival of the poor firms was essential to the exisence of the rich ones.

Because, kill off the weak clubs altogether and your league isn't a league any more. You cannot play marbles with one marble, and in baseball the standard size of a league is eight clubs.

There have been some leagues of four clubs or six, but the citizens do not like them, preferring the regulation group even though they usually know that from two to four clubs of a league are merely stooges, so to speak, for the good ones. You may keep the poor poor, but if you wipe them out entirely there is nobody left to keep the rich rich.

So, whither am I drifting?

Frankly, my friends, I do not know how it is going to work out, but I find that the magnates deserve an eagle for anticipating the evils of rugged individualism and renouncing it long before the idea ever occurred to Mr. Roosevelt, but also find them unworthy on the ground that they arbitrarily and artificially limit the opportunities for work and the rates of pay therefor. Could they, maybe, have half an eagle, or, say, a red winged flamingo?

RED SOX DEFEAT TIGERS, 5 TO 3, ON RALLY IN 8TH

Walk, 3 Straight Doubles Bring Victory.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 15.—(AP)—In a game of heavy hitting that saw nine doubles and one home run, the Boston Red Sox defeated Detroit, 5 to 3, today to even the series at one game each.

Fred Marberry, Detroit's pitcher, was breezing along with a 3 to 1 lead when the eighth inning opened. Then he walked a man and three doubles followed to net three runs and the ball game. The Sox got an unneeded run in the ninth.

Two walks issued by Marberry figured in the scoring, as did two of three errors perpetrated by Rogell, Detroit shortstop. Each team collected nine hits. Henry Johnson, Boston pitcher, helped win his own game by getting a double and scoring two runs. Score:

YANKEES, 8; BROWNS, 5.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The New York Yankees, opening their final western jaunt of the season five and one-half games behind the league leading Washington Senators, put on one of their old fashioned big innings to defeat the Browns, 8 to 5, in the first game of their series today.

The Yanks hammered young Jack Knott to score five runs in the fourth inning. Then, with the game apparently clinched, Johnny Allen weakened and was removed in the seventh.

Babe Ruth, who declared himself benched for a two day rest with the consent of Manager Joe McCarthy, was pressed into service as a pinch hitter in the eighth. He came through with a double that hammered in a Yankee run. Lou Gehrig played his 1,396th consecutive game, which put him in line to tie Everett Scott's all-time major league durability record tomorrow. Score:

Former Stars in Big Leagues Play on Sunday

More than 30 ball players of other days in the major leagues will be in uniform Sunday at Mills stadium to appear in an old timers game against a team of former semi-pro players of Chicago. The game will be the feature of Bill Harley day, a testimonal given for the manager of the Mills team, and will precede the regularly scheduled game between the Mills team and the Altoona club of former professional players.

Among the old time stars will be Mordecai Brown and Jimmy Archer of the old Cubs when they won pennants for Frank Chance and former members of almost every big league team of 15 to 25 years ago. Besides Brown and Archer the following have enrolled:

Pitchers—George Pierce, Cubs; Joe Benz, White Sox; Eddie Stack, Cubs and Phillies; Lou Fonesy, White Sox; Oscar Knowles, Brooklyn; Burt Keeley, Washington; Billy Leibvelt, Detroit; Tom McGuire, Chicago Federals; Frank Schmidt, Giants and Baltimore and Reggie Richter of the Cubs.

Infielders—Charley O'Leary, Detroit; Dutch Meir, Pittsburgh; Jack Ness, Detroit; Ollie O'Mara, Brooklyn; Pete Dyer, Detroit; Henry Butcher, Cubs; Joe Kernan, White Sox; Frank Martin, Giants; Joe McGuire, St. Louis, and Joe Nagle, Cincinnati and Brooklyn.

MOON MULLINS—EMMY PIPES DOWN

Braves Beat Cubs on Five Hits, 2 to 1

Braves Take Lead.

Bush dropped three Braves in succession in the opening inning and set down another in the second before trouble appeared. Whitney doubled into the left field corner. This apparently annoyed Bush a bit and he walked Lee. Spohrer popped a single over short to score Whitney. Babe Herman dashed over to the right field line to catch Maranville's fly, and Lee went to third after the catch. This disturbance ceased when Cantwell poked a gentle grounder to Bush.

The Cubs started on their series of fadeouts in the third. Bush walked with one out and Maranville produced a very inelegant error on English's grounder. This chance went to pot in a hurry. Billy Herman bounced to Urbanski and a double play, with Maranville in the middle, was executed.

Cubs Get One.

The Cubs' tying run in the fourth began after Cuyler had popped to short. Babe Herman singled to center and Stephenson singled to right. Hartnett bounced a robust smack to Cantwell, who wheeled around and threw to Urbanski to force Stephenson at second. Urbanski had ample time to complete a double play, but inadvertently bounced the ball to first base and it rolled away from Jordan. Meanwhile Babe Herman raced in from third. Grimm then scratched a single through Urbanski, but Cantwell threw out Jurges.

The Cubs attained the heights of something in the fifth, but it wasn't scoring. Three successive singles went to waste. With one out English singled past Whitney. He immediately attempted to steal and failed, which was the big mistake. Billy Herman followed with a single to left. He tore to third when Cuyler looped a single into short right. Babe Herman then bounced into a force out.

But Cubs High Hat 'em.

Eastern Girl Captures Fair Archery Title

Scoring 72 hits with 72 arrows in the Columbia round, the concluding one for women, in A Century of Progress open archery tournament yesterday, Dorothy Dugan of Greenwich, Conn., topped the field with a score of 1,674.

In the final round she made 508 points out of a possible 648.

Isophene Swendsen, St. Paul, Minn., made 71 hits out of a possible 72 to finish second with 1,557 points, while Alice Dugan of Greenwich, Conn., duplicated her sister's feat of 72 with 72 arrows to finish third with a total of 1,356.

A Habit with Dorothy.

Dorothy, who is 20 years old, is a former national champion, has held numerous titles in the east and was runner-up in the national meet in St. Louis last week.

John Robson of Portland, Ore., won the junior tournament with a total of 2,232, scoring 72 hits with 72 arrows in the last round. Gordon Smith of Forth Worth, Tex., was second with 1,960, and Jack Thornton Jr., of Terre Haute, Ind., was third with 1,180. They were the only three to compete.

Miller Adds to Lead.

Ralph Miller of Seattle, Wash., 17 year old southpaw, who won the national championship at St. Louis last week, won in the men's division over William Brink of Chicago. Miller finished with 1,323 to 1,256 for Brink.

Washington Beats Sox in Opener, 5 to 1

Simmons away from it. Appling misjudged the ball. As there were two out both runners had reached home before the ball hit the ground. Schulte tried to advance to second during the confusion, but was out, Simmons to Rhyne.

Manush Fools Sox.

In the seventh, again after Simmons had tapped to Cronin, Appling caromed a single off the bag at third. Then came Dykes' aforesaid handsome double to the scoreboard in left center. No one noticed, apparently, that Manush had fielded the bounce off the numerals with perfect precision and had shot the ball to Cronin in short left. At any rate Appling kept right on coming and was and easy victim at the plate Manush to Cronin to Sewell. Rhyne then bounced to Myer.

In their eighth the Senators touched up Jones with a bit of viciousness. Crowder shot a hot single to center and went to third on Myer's line single to right. Goslin also whizzed a single to right, scoring Crowder and putting Myer on third. Manush grounded to Rhyne, who headed off Myer with a throw to Berry, but Buddy got back to third and the bases were full with nobody out. Cronin flied to Haas, scoring Myer. Schulte was thrown out by Appling and Kuhel was given a more or less intentional pass, filling the bases. Bluege popped to Rhyne.

Hits Go to Waste.

Berry led off the Sox eighth with a line single to center, but was forced by Lyons, who batted for Jones. Swanson singled to right, putting Lyons on third, but was an easy out, Goslin to Cronin, when he tried to run to second. Haas flied to Manush.

Simmons made the second of his two singles with one out in the ninth but Appling and Dykes flied to Schulte.

The Sox and Senators will play their second game of the series and their 16th of the season this afternoon. Milt Gaston will pitch for the Sox and Earl Whitehill for the enemy.

Manager Joe Cronin continued in the slump which recently tossed him out of the Big Six. The best he could do in four times at bat was drive in a run with a fly ball in the eighth. The first time up he fanned, the next two times he bounced out to the infield and in the eighth he knocked a fly which was easy for Haas.

The Sox ticket office yesterday reported a cheering demand for tickets for the Yanks-Sox double header next Sunday. Amateur weather phophets are encouraging the management with guesses that perfect weather will prevail.

East and West Game Will Be Aerial Battle

The forward pass will be the principal weapon of the east and west teams in their intersectional game at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 24.

Dick Hanley and Howard Jones, the rival coaches, announced yesterday that they had agreed to waive the rule which necessitates that the passer be five yards behind the line of scrimmage before throwing a pass.

Coach Hanley presented a rule legalizing passing from any point behind the line of scrimmage to the college rules committee last winter, but it was not accepted. Later it was adopted by the National Professional Football league and will be put into effect this fall.

"Offense Needs Speeding Up."

Both Hanley and Jones think that the rule eventually will find its way into college football and for that reason have decided to experiment with it in the World's Fair game.

"I have long thought that the offense in football needed speeding up," Coach Hanley said, "and this will be accomplished through abolishing the present five yard restriction on forward passing.

"This new rule opens up numerous possibilities for the offense. A back can take a plunge into the line, stop suddenly at the line of scrimmage and throw a pass. This will prove confusing to the defense and we can expect higher scores and more thrills."

Coach Jones, himself an ardent disciple of the forward pass game, expressed himself as being in favor of the new rule.

"I am in favor of anything that will help speed up the game and I think this is a fine opportunity to try out Coach Hanley's theory," Coach Jones said.

"Naturally I welcome such a rule for this particular game since we have some fine passers. I wouldn't be surprised if Coach Hanley regrets he ever thought the matter up."

East Has Three Great Passers.

On the other hand, the east boasts three of the greatest passers in recent football history in Newman, Renter, and Berry.

Both coaches were unanimous in stating that the forward pass will be their principal offensive threat in the east-west clash. With both teams boasting heavy lines, they feel that it would have been difficult to build up a running game with the old forward pass rule in effect.

"Now the defense won't know what to expect," Coach Hanley pointed out. "Defense men will not be able to anticipate whether a play is going to be a run or a pass. Under these new conditions I anticipate that both teams will score frequently, which is what most of the fans desire."

The east and west teams worked out at Dyche stadium yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Wheeler Scores Upset on 20th Hole

The defeat of Mrs. Rose Long, Jackson park, medalist, by Mrs. C. N. Wheeler, Lincoln park, provided the chief interest in the first round play in the Women's State championship golf tournament at Lincoln park yesterday. Mrs. Wheeler won over Mrs. Long, 1 up, in 20 holes in the day's biggest upset. Mrs. Long had qualified with 94, while Mrs. Wheeler was 15 higher with 109. The medalist battled with traps throughout the day and at the 20th hole rolled into one from which she was unable to get out.

Mrs. Jamieson Wins, 5 and 3.

The defending champion, Mrs. Alex Jamieson, Lincoln park, won 5 and 3 over Mrs. Francis Albery of Pistaqua Heights.

Mrs. Wheeler and Mrs. Long were all square at the turn. Mrs. Wheeler was out in 49 and Mrs. Long in 50. Coming back Mrs. Long had trouble in traps again, and on the 17th picked up her ball. She squared the match at the 18th where Mrs. Wheeler threeputted. On the first extra hole both had par 5's, but on the next hole Mrs. Wheeler was on in 3 while Mrs. Long was buried in a trap and was forced to pick up.

The card:

Mrs. Wheeler, out	674	664	655—49
Mrs. Long, out	566	574	666—60
Mrs. Wheeler, in	674	674	657—52—101
Mrs. Long, in	774	674	5x6

Mrs. Hoover Gets Par 43.

Mrs. Ray Hoover of Lincoln won, 7 and 6, over Mrs. Thelma Kurry of Jackson park and shot the only par nine holes, 43, ever made by a woman over the new course. She took a 7 on the seventh by getting in a trap and another trap at the eighth cost her a stroke. She had three birdies.

Summary of the first round matches:

Miss Lois Tucker, Winnetka, defeated Miss Virginia Jensen, Mohawk, 2 up.

Mrs. Ray Hoover, Lincoln park, defeated Mrs. Thelma Kurry, Jackson park, 7 and 6.

Mrs. C. N. Wheeler, Lincoln park, defeated Mrs. Rose Long, Jackson park, 1 up, 20 holes.

Miss Shirley Ann Johnson, Sunset Ridge, defeated Mrs. Mildred Simmons, Hickory Hill, 5 and 6.

Mrs. D. A. Dobrey, Davenport, defeated Mrs. Harry Hoffman, Lincoln park, 3 and 2.

Pairings for today's second round:
Mrs. Jamieson vs. Miss Souchek.
Miss Tucker vs. Mrs. Hoover.
Mrs. Wheeler vs. Miss Conner.
Miss Johnson vs. Mrs. Dobrey.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Matches in the Chicago public parks championship golf tournament at Jackson park yesterday were decided just about as expected, with Al Andereggen, Cherry Hill, providing the only excitement of the day. He shot 35—33—68, one under par, to win his match, 5 and 4, from D. B. Kirk of Indian Wood.

Both former champions, Doug McKay and Bill Fitzgerald, won their first round matches and will meet today in the first match of the second round. Frank McNamara, the golfing policeman, won out from Don Mullaney, 3 and 2.

Only one of the golfers from outside Chicago who started yesterday remained in the running at the end of the first round. He is Senerau De Willo of Hollywood, Cal., who advanced, 2 and 1, over Hyman Judelson of Harlem. Ray Allman of Rock Island was eliminated, 5 and 3, by William Anderson, Casa del Mar.

Results of yesterday's first round matches:

William Anderson, Casa Del Mar, defeated Ray Allman, Rock Island, 5 and 3.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—In continued light trading bonds displayed a firm tone in most sections of the domestic and foreign lists yesterday.

Speculative railroad issues drew the bulk of buying attention, with moderate gains in Allegheny corporations 5s, Central Pacific first 4s, St. Paul 5s, Denver and Rio Grande 5s, Houston and Texas 5s, Louisiana and Arkansas 5s and others.

High Grades Firm.

Improved sentiment was noted in the market for United States government issues, the short term obligations attracting most of the buying. Demand for short terms was laid to the low rate of 26-100 of 1 per cent obtained yesterday on the sale of about $75,000,000 of discount bills. The two new issues reached new highs, the 3¼s selling at 100 23-32 bid and the 1⅜ selling at 100 12-32 bid.

German Issues Strong.

Germans were strong and stood out in a foreign list that was generally reactionary as the dollar strengthened. Fractional gains were scored by German government 5½s and 7s, followed by such issues as Berlin City Electric 6⅛s and Westphalia Union Electric Power 6s.

Argentines had another spell of strength, with buying converging upon the 6s due February, 1961, which advanced 3 points in an active market.

NEW ISSUES.

The Harris Trust and Savings bank is offering $420,000 Allentown school district, Pennsylvania, 3½ per cent school bonds maturing serially from Sept. 1, 1934 to 1938, and $100,000 Olmstead county, Minnesota, public welfare 4 per cent bonds, due serially Aug. 15, 1935, to 1941.

A $120,000 issue of 4½ per cent bonds of St. Joseph, Mo., maturing from 1938 to 1953, has been purchased by Salomon Brothers & Hutzler.

Nash Motors.

Investors' Guide: What can you tell me about Nash Motors?—R. B.

Answer: Nash Motors company manufactures medium priced automobiles, ranging in price from $695 to $2,055. It is one of the few automobile manufacturers that have reported profits during 1931 and 1932. It was able to do by keeping inventories at a minimum, maintaining a close control over operating expenses and obtaining substantial income from investments.

For the six months to May 31, 1933, loss was $280,000, the first deficit in many years. This was a result of general stagnation of business during the period, climaxed by the bank moratorium. It compared with net profit of $534,000 for the corresponding 1932 period.

In the year ended Nov. 30, 1932, the company sold approximately 20,000 units for $15,331,000. Net income was $1,020,000, or 39 cents per common share. In the preceding year about 40,000 units were sold for $35,928,000, and net income was $4,807,000, or $1.78 per share.

Dollar sales for previous years have not been reported. The company sold 55,826 cars in the 1930 year, 121,063 in the 1929 year, and 137,926 in the 1928 year. Net income for the Nov 30, 1930, year equaled $2.78 per share, against $6.60 per share in the preceding year and $7.63 in the 1928 year.

Current position has been consistently strong. Cash assets on May 31, 1933, amounted to $31,800,000. On Nov. 30, 1932, they were about $32,000,000, in comparison to total current liabilities of $1,145,000.

There is no funded debt and the preferred stock was retired in 1926. Capitalization now consists of 2,646,200 shares of no par stock.

On April 10, 1933, directors voted to omit dividends on the stock "until such time as conditions justify." On July 7, 1933, they declared a dividend of 25 cents a share, paid Aug. 1, 1923, in the belief that business is improving.

Margin Trading.

Investors' Guide: When stock is bought on margin are any certificates really purchased by the broker?

Answer: If the broker is reputable, yes. He purchases the stock and holds it as security for the balance of the money due him.

It is a serious offense for a broker to inform his client that he has purchased stock for him and charge his client for his services when the transaction has not been made. That is what is commonly termed "bucketing."

FEAR SECURITY LAW MAY CHECK RECOVERY PLAN

Banks See Financing of Industry Curbed.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Requirements imposed in the new federal securities law were seen in La Salle street yesterday as offering obstacles which may partially offset the efforts being made under the national recovery act to promote business and put men to work. Investment authorities asserted that the terms of the securities law are making it impossible for corporations to engage in the legitimate financing necessary to expand and carry on their businesses.

Already there has arisen, these authorities asserted, a serious situation with respect to the refinancing of maturities due between now and the first of the year. One estimate placed the maturities of industrial corporations alone due between July 27, when the provisions of the act became effective, and Jan. 1 at just under $200,000,000.

Fear Defaults Will Result.

Failure to meet maturities will mean defaults which will cripple the companies involved and hinder their efforts on behalf of reemployment, it was asserted. This situation was pictured as likely to become progressively more acute with the passing of time because of the interdependence of many of the industries.

It was asserted that there is practically no underwriting of new issues for corporations or utilities. Investment authorities pointed out that of the securities registered with the federal trade commission as required by the new law more than 90 per cent are those of investment trusts, with a sprinkling of gold and silver mine stocks and oil company issues. The industrial corporations represented are negligible.

Chicago investment house officials said they knew nothing about the report from New York that certain bankers are considering the establishment of a central agency for assembling information pertinent to new security issues.

Consider Capital Needs.

While holding that the goal sought by the New York group might be difficult to attain, they stated that the gathering of statistics regarding the financial requirements of industrial and utility groups would be very useful in arriving at a solution of the problems now confronting them.

Demands for capital for new enterprises are involved. As an example, the situation in the distillery industry was held up. Admitting that repeal of the eighteenth amendment is likely, these investment authorities said, this industry will require considerable capital when it is made legitimate again. This capital can be obtained either from the public or from rich individuals or groups. A large part of it must be obtained from the sale of securities. Similarly, there are other industries which will need new capital.

Refinancing Is Handicapped.

The securities law works alike with regards to capital required for refinancing or for industrial expansion. Officials of corporations and underwriting houses refuse to sign their names to security registrations because they will be individually or severally liable for damages for errors in statements which may have been made either by themselves or any of the other signatories. The liability extends over a period of 10 years.

There are many places where an error may develop, investment authorities asserted. An official of a company or of an underwriting house may commit it, or the fault may be due to an aduitor or an accountant. The result is a circle in which the various interested parties fear to sign a statement which may result in their losing their fortunes, due to an error by some one else.

U. S. and Canada Increase Production of Newsprint

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—Newsprint production in the United States and Canada in July aggregated 259,869 tons, compared with 255,803 tons in June, a gain of 1.5 per cent, and 216,993 tons in July, 1932, an increase of 19.7 per cent, the Newsprint Service bureau reported today.

U. S. Spending Points Way to Sure Inflation

BY HOWARD WOOD.

A lot has been written and said about what the administration at Washington may or may not decide to do about inflation.

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, the eminent grocery dollar enthusiast, has made a widely publicised visit to the President and so have Prof. Rogers of Yale, the free trade debt cancellationist, and Prof. Warren of Cornell, the dollar devaluationist.

This publicity about inflation has been largely offset by the rumblings of the sound money boys in the treasury department at Washington. The treasury experts are still hard money advocates, and even though what they say may be only the expression of their own wishful thinking, it serves to offset the unsettling effects of the professorial group's inflation talk.

By sounding first one and then the other group it is possible to maintain a nice balance. One day the markets can be boosted a peg or two by the inflation chorus and the next it can be brought back by a treasury refutation.

Back of all this "Simon says thumbs up; Simon says thumbs down"; hocus pocus, however, there is gradually developing a set of circumstances which point definitely in the direction of actual currency inflation and no fooling.

Guesses vary as to just how long the government can keep on spending in excess of its income without cheapening the dollar, but a good many shrewd observers are inclined to believe that something in that direction may come before the end of the year.

Yesterday the treasury received about 1 billion 200 million dollars, the proceeds of the sale of the current offering of eight year bonds and two year notes. The treasury already had a cash balance of 750 million dollars on Aug. 11. Therefore, after paying off maturing notes the treasury today will still have about 1 billion 200 million dollars.

This money, however, will not last long. In addition to the securities that matured yesterday the treasury has about two billion dollars of certificates, notes, and bills maturing before the end of the year, nearly a quarter of a billion of it coming due Sept. 15.

Refunding of existing debt is only the beginning. Despite the fact that a double entry set of books is being kept by the treasury so that the vast public works expenditures may not unbalance the regular budget, the treasury is already showing a deficit of 174 million dollars since the beginning of the fiscal year July 1.

The big spending, however, will occur outside the regular budget and it is about to begin. The public works administration up to Aug. 1 had already alloted 1 billion 23 million dollars for public works construction and was still going strong. The program calls for a total of 3 billion 300 millions of such expenditures.

The 1 billion 200 million dollar treasury cash won't last long with two billions of maturing securities to be paid off before the end of the year, the regular budget already 174 millions shy in the first six weeks of the new fiscal year and the public works administration having promised the first billion and going strong on the second.

And that isn't all. The Reconstruction Finance corporation is embarking on an ambitious program of pouring money into closed banks by buying preferred stock in them if they are city banks, or by taking over their frozen farm mortgages if they are country banks. Some of this money will eventually be paid back, but just now it's got to come out of the treasury and the treasury can only get more money by borrowing it.

The federal government's debt is now 22 billion 300 million dollars. How many more I. O. U.'s the treasury can sell before it runs out of takers no one will predict. Commercial banks in 90 principal cities alone hold more than five billions of the government debt. Government borrowing is absorbing about one-third of their total credit. The 12 federal reserve banks hold more than two billions more, which represents about nine-tenths of total reserve bank credit.

The investing public still offers a substantial market, but the investing public is beginning to fear inflation and the tremendous excess of government expenditures over income.

When the ordinary markets are saturated the treasury will be forced into actual currency inflation whether it wishes it ornot. Under the emergency banking bill the treasury has the power to purchase an unlimited amount of its own bonds with paper money. Merely to disguise the operation it must be carried out through the federal reserve banks, but the practical effect is simply that of printing greenbacks.

New Diamond Match Stock Listed on Chicago Market

The Chicago Stock exchange yesterday listed 1,050,000 shares of the common stock and $50,000 shares of the $25 6 per cent preferred stock of the Diamond Match company. The present Diamond Match company was formed in 1930 to take over the predecessor firm of the same name.

STOCK MARKET BARELY MOVES; AWAITS EVENTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Speculative Wall street merely stood by today—wondering if the Chicago Board of Trade was really going to permit the emergency prices established for grains a fortnight ago to go by the board. Floor traders swapped a few bundles of shares occasionaly when time got to dragging too heavily and once in a long while some customers imbued with the NRA spirit fired in an order to buy or sell.

As a stock market, however, the proceeding was pretty poor shakes. Considerably fewer than a million shares changed hands in the whole four hours and price swings were negligible. No one group did anything worthy of special comment.

There was the usual dearth of trade news and brokers seemed to be advising their clients generally to stay out of the market pending further developments.

Price Changes Evenly Divided.

Price changes were about equally divided between gains and losses. Two or three of the liquor stocks met with moderate demand, American Commercial Alcohol rising more than 2 points.

A growing belief that oil prices will be fixed and that adequate provision will be made to control production as a result of the consideration of the so-called petroleum problem in government circles served to fix some attention on the shares of the oil group. The Standards, Houston, Texas corporation, and others rose fractionally on light trading.

Gold mining issues sagged somewhat as the dollar perked up on the foreign exchange and other mining descriptions, particularly those of copper producing companies, found the going beyond them.

The motor, amusement, and food stocks did almost nothing. Utilities were hardly noticeable and the rails drifted a bit lower with the general list.

Traders Ponder Events.

In the absence of anything in the way of price movements or news to fix their attention, traders whiled away considerable time speculating on the effect of the elimination of the grain pegs, the outlook for the administration's general recovery program and other topics of vogue.

Comment indicated that while many of the speculative community disapprove of the NRA plan on principle, they believe it will do much good if properly handled and, like most others of the community now in the depression hole, are rooting for its success as the best bet in the immediate offing.

DOLLAR GAINS; VALUE IN GOLD IS 74.77 CENTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—The American dollar continued to gain against the principal foreign currencies today. It closed at 74.77 cents in terms of French gold francs as compared with 74.56 yesterday. The final quotation on the franc was 5.24 cents.

The British pound also retreated against the dollar and finished at $4.41½, a loss of 2½ cents for the day. Scandinavian funds, German marks and far eastern currencies followed the pound and the franc to moderately lower quotations. The Canadian dollar was an exception and gained ⅛ of a cent to close at 94.37½ cents in United States money.

Seasonal trade influences are credited with the strength in the dollar. Coupled with this is the world wide "short interest" in the dollar, which is tending to even up with the lessening of inflation talk in this country.

Building Permit Granted for Presbyterian Church

A building permit was issued yesterday for the construction of a Presbyterian church at 11056 Longwood drive. The new building will cost $30,000 and will replace the church which burned down recently. Six building permits were issued yesterday amounting to an aggregate of $57,950.

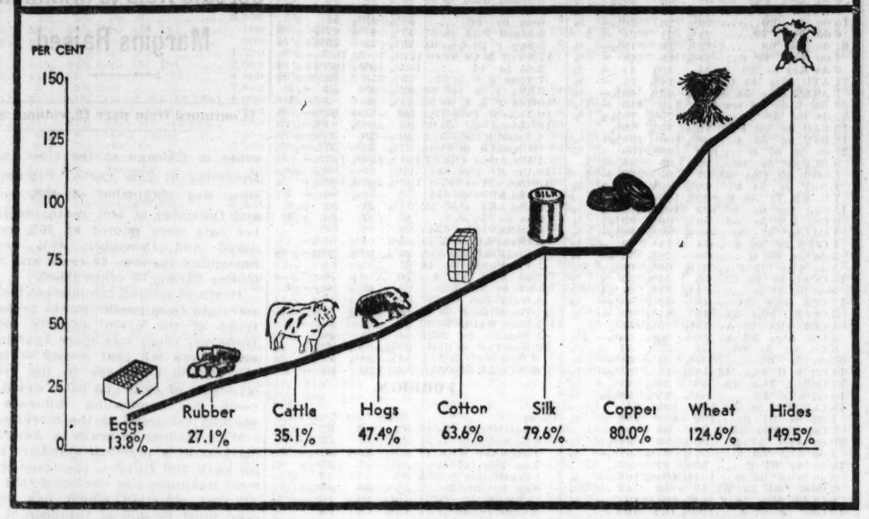
Percentage of Increase in Prices of Selected Commodities Over Their 1933 Lows



FINAL FIGURES SHOW OFFERS FOR NEW U. S. BONDS NEAR 5 BILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—Total subscription for the 3¼ per cent bonds and 1¾ per cent treasury notes sold early this month was $4,802,568,450, more than four times the sum of $1,189,901,650 accepted, according to final treasury figures released today.

Cash subscriptions of $2,748,372,650 were received for the eight year bonds, while subscriptions to be paid in August treasury certificates were $244,949,000, and subscriptions to be paid in September treasury certificates were $231,057,500.

Of the $3,224,379,150 total subscription for bonds the treasury allotted $835,036,650, of which $124,835,500 was on exchange subscriptions for the August certificates, and $231,057,500 on exchange subscriptions for the September certificates.

On the 1¾ per cent two year treasury notes, total cash subscriptions amounted to $1,395,825,300, while exchange subscriptions were $181,364,000. A total of $353,856,000 was allotted, of which $113,532,200 was on exchange subscriptions.

No indication was given as to what portion of the total went to the smaller subscribers.

U. S. STOPS SALE OF SPECULATIVE TRUST'S STOCK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—The federal trade commission today issued its first "stop order" against the sale of $250,000 of securities under the recently enacted securities act, when it forbade further sales by Speculative Investment Trust of Fort Worth, Tex., until the firm's registration statement is amended to comply with the law and the commission's regulations.

The registration statement was filed with the commission on July 25 and should have ordinarily become effective yesterday. In its registration statement the company said that it was organized to deal in speculative investments in ownership shares of national industries listed on the stock exchanges.

The commission today announced that the company had failed to comply with the requirements in not submitting, among other things, the proposed prospectus of its security issue as required by law, and had not furnished balance sheets and profit and loss statements certified, as required, by an independent accountant.

'Work,' Urges Soviet; 'Loaf,' U.S. Farm Plan

The soviet Russian government apparently does not agree with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in his idea that farmers need more rest and less work. The official soviet slogan, according to the bureau of agricultural economics of the department of agriculture, is: "He who works more and better receives more; he who does not work does not receive anything."

A solution of the problem as to what to do with land being withdrawn from cultivation as the result of the application of the processing tax on wheat and cotton is hinted by Secretary Wallace. The idea seems to be to make them into playgrounds for farmers.

"More money, less toil," says a subhead in an article signed by Secretary Wallace, prefacing a department of agriculture publication giving in detail the government's plan for curtailing the wheat acreage for the 1934 and 1935 crops. "We have worked too hard in this country," he says. "We have believed that leisure is wrong. The new social machinery which the farm acts set up offers us a chance to moderate our efforts and increase our gains. We shall learn as individuals to value and improve ourselves. We shall see that it pays to sow less, and take better care of it, and take better care of ourselves and our children."

Processing tax to be placed on hogs weighing over 250 pounds is officially announced as to go into effect around Oct. 1. Trade comment indicates this will result in regulating the size of the family pork chops, and charging plenty for the regulation.

Farm owners in some parts of the country are not at all pleased with this year's harvest. An Iowa man who owns a farm in Saskatchewan has been notified by his tenant that 135 acres of wheat yielded 74 bushels in all, of which 18 bushels will go to the owner. The latter has a tax bill of $192 on the farm.

* *

The condition of business in the cash grain section of the Board of Trade yesterday was shown by the increased interest taken in a game of checkers which attracted more attention than trading in the wheat pit.

WHOLESALE PRICES INCREASE 6% IN JULY; FIFTH MONTH OF RISE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Led by the farm, textile, and food products groups, the wholesale commodity price level was shown by the labor department today to have increased 6 per cent in July over June. This was the fifth consecutive month showing an increase.

The index for July, covering 784 commodities and using 1926 as the index base of 100, was 68.9 compared with 65 for the previous month. Increases occurred in 466 instances, decreases in 40, and no change in 278.

The July level was more than 6¾ per cent above that of a year ago and was the second consecutive month prices have shown an increase over the same month of the year before. July prices, however, were still 27½ per cent below the June, 1929, level, when the index was 95.2. The farm products group increased almost 13 per cent in price in July over June to lead the list; textiles rose 10½ per cent, and food products 7 per cent.

The hides and leather group increased 4¾ per cent; fuel and lighting materials, more than 6 per cent; metals and metal products, over 1½ per cent; building materials, over 6 per cent.

Chemicals and drugs declined approximately ¾ of 1 per cent, while housefurnishing goods increased 2 per cent, and miscellaneous commodities increased 5¼ per cent.

Texas Corporation Votes Usual Quarterly Dividend

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the capital stock of the Texas corporation was ordered by the board today, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 1.

Subsidy to Export Wheat, Wallace Plan

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—If necessary to protect wheat producers from price depressing surpluses, Secretary Wallace said today, the United States is ready to subsidize exports and to employ the "full powers" of the farm act.

In a formal statement he explained this course would be followed in the event of failure by the principal wheat producing nations to arrive at an international agreement to curb the output.

Wallace said orally at his press conference that his program could not properly be called "dumping." He said he understood the word to mean the sale abroad at sacrifice prices of quantities of a product in excess of normal exports. His intention, instead, he added, is to bring the exports of American wheat up to the normal movement of the past.

"I would call it subsidized exportation," he explained. In response to questions, however, he said his program likely would produce anti-dumping regulations from European countries.

May Sell to Orient.

The sale of surplus quantities of wheat to the orient is now chiefly under consideration, he continued, explaining that oriental countries do not have anti-dumping regulations.

The secretary issued his statement after receiving a report from Henry Morgenthau Sr., American delegate to the Geneva and London wheat conferences, which will be resumed on Aug. 21 in London.

He said Morgenthau told him that this country offered to make a substantial reduction in its wheat acreage for the next two years if the three other large exporting countries, Canada, Australia, and Argentina, also would reduce their production.

Morgenthau reported that other exporting countries insisted that before they would enter into a joint program with the United States, European importing nations must agree to reduce restrictions against wheat imports and to cease further efforts to expand wheat production.

"We will stand ready to participate in any reasonable plan which the other three great exporting countries will accept," Wallace said. "We shall wait until Aug. 24 to see if they can reach an agreement for definite action before we announce our wheat reduction for next year.

Will Protect Producers.

"If the other exporters will not cooperate, we fortunately do have the agricultural adjustment act and shall use its full powers to protect American wheat producers.

"In such a case we will make less reduction in acreage than if other countries were working with us; we will maintain our wheat producers' incomes through benefit payments, and we will move out of the country burdening surpluses of wheat, such as that now existing on the Pacific coast.

"We recognize that our European market for wheat has greatly diminished, but if no agrement is reached we will find a place for our wheat in oriental markets. In the past, those markets have been divided between American, Canadian, and Australian sources, with the distribution of the supply varying from year to year with crops and market conditions."

END GRAIN 'PEG' IN U. S.; CANADA FIXES PRICES

Cereals at Minimum; Margins Raised.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Fresh developments came thick and fast in the world's grain situation yesterday. American markets today will abandon the fixed minimum prices, which were placed in effect on July 31. Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade late yesterday decided not to rescind their earlier decision to abolish minimum prices.

The only regulations in effect today will be those which restrict fluctuations in wheat, rye, and barley to 5 cents a bushel either way from the close of the previous day, with a 4 cent limitation on corn and 3 cents on oats. The permissable range of prices on December wheat for today's market on the Chicago exchange will be between 90¾ cents and $1.00¾, while December corn can sell between 50⅜ to 58⅜ cents and December oats between 37⅛ and 43⅛ cents.

Winnipeg Fixes Prices.

On the other hand, Winnipeg, which has heretofore avoided fixed prices, placed a "peg" on the market which prevents any sales of grain below the closing level of Monday. Trading in indemnities in the Canadian market is also prohibited until further notice.

Members of the Canadian grain exchange fixed minimum prices at an emergency meeting because of "abnormal conditions surrounding other grain markets and the effects that conditions might have on this market to the detriment of the producer." It was said that since Friday the market had been burdened with offerings from Chicago traders with the result that wheat prices had declined 12 cents a bushel.

Removal of hedges against export sales of around 2,000,000 bushels Canadian wheat helped the Winnipeg market, and the latter closed 1⅝ to 1¾ cents higher, while oats were up ⅞ to 1¼ cents; rye, 1⅝ to 2 cents, and barley, ⅝ to ⅞ cent in Canadian funds.

Margins Are Increased.

Commencing today margin requirements by the Chicago Board of Trade Clearing corporation will be advanced 1 cent a bushel and until further notice the rate will be 5 cents a bushel on wheat, rye, and barley; 4 cents on corn, and 3 cents on oats.

These limits apply to lines of 6,000,000 bushels of wheat, corn, and oats, and 3,000,000 bushels of rye and barley, and the rate will advance 1½ cents for each 2,500,000 bushels additional.

Trading in grains yesterday on all leading American exchanges, with the exception of durum wheat at Duluth, was entirely at the "pegged" levels and prices at the last were at the minimum levels, the same as they have been for three consecutive days. September wheat was offered at 92⅛

WALLACE PLANS TO CUT COTTON CROP NEXT YEAR

Sees Carryover Too Large —Consumption Gains.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Believing that despite a reduction of 4,000,000 bales or more in this year's cotton crop there is still too much of the staple on hand, the farm adjustment administration probably will work out within a few weeks a new curtailment plan for next year.

Secretary Wallace said today that during his recent tour of the south he found growers anxious for such a campaign and added that he expected them to bring forward a plan soon. The secretary of agriculture indicated the farm administration is in a receptive mood for such a plan.

Theoretically, the farm administration awaits moves by the growers before deciding on any program affecting a farm commodity. Actually it does much advance planning and frequently has a good idea of what it intends to do before the farmers' plans arrive.

Cotton Carryover Declines.

The supply of cotton in the United States for the season 1932-'33 was reported today by the census bureau to have aggregated 22,612,660 bales, and the carryover July 31 was 8,170,133 bales, compared with a supply of 23,170,748 bales the previous season and a carryover of 9,682,316 bales.

The census bureau also reported that cotton mills continued high speed production during July, with consumption reported at 600,143 bales, compared with 278,568 for the corresponding month last year. During July 26,069,158 spindles were active in the nation's mills, against 19,758,252 in July last year. Of those active during July this year 17,687,412 were located in cotton growing states where during the same months in 1932 15,220,749 spindles were active.

More Cotton Consumed.

Consumption for the year ending July 31 was reported at 6,135,595 bales, compared with 4,866,016 bales for the same period last year. Consumption in this country was stepped up greatly starting in March, with mill activity reaching an all time high during June.

Exports for the year ending July 31 totaled 8,418,527 bales, compared with 8,706,858 bales last year. The exports have been increased rapidly in recent months and for July the bureau listed exports of 692,007 bales, compared with 449,476 bales in July, 1932. Imports for July totaled 11,941 bales, compared with 14,097 in June this year and 8,264 in July last year.

REPORT GERMANY MAY PAY 50% ON DOLLAR BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—Owners of overdue German dollar bond coupons will shortly be offered actual cash in dollars in the amount of 50 per cent of the face value of such coupons, if plans now reaching maturity are quickly approved by the sundry interests involved, as is now the hope of bankers here.

According to this plan, the holder of such coupons delivering them for collection would likewise receive back his coupon after it has been stamped the amount of one-half its face value and as payable in Berlin in conversion marks so far as the other half of its face value is concerned.

It is now hoped that the larger banks here can be induced to purchase these stamped coupons for dollars at a price corresponding to 50 per cent of the unpaid balance. If this arrangement is consummated the holder of these coupons will be able to obtain 75 per cent of their face value at once, but, of course, must surrender his claim for any future payment in respect thereof.

New York, Aug. 15.—The appointment of Ralph A. Kohn, treasurer of the Paramount Publix corporation, as vice president in charge of all Paramount theater operations was announced today by Adolph Zukor, president of the corporation. Walter B. Cokell, who has been with the company for more than twelve years and who is now assistant treasurer, will succeed Mr. Kohn as treasurer.

Britain's Foreign Trade Shows Improvement in July

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Signs of slight improvement in Britain's foreign trade are discernible in the board of trade returns for July, just published. Compared with July last year the month's imports show an increase of £1,793,962 to £55,706,227. Exports show a smaller increase of £553,653 to £2,984,341, while reëxports show a striking gain of 30 per cent to £4,323,719.

July Life Insurance Sales Only 3.7% Under Last Year

The spread between the volume of new life insurance written in July and the same month last year was only 3.7 per cent, the smallest decrease from last year reported this year, it is reported by the Association of Life Insurance presidents. The total production for the month was $666,095,000, against $691,364,000 in July 1932.

German Industry Urges Protest on U. S. Tariffs

BERLIN, Aug. 15. — The German industrial commercial chamber has asked the government to protest to the United States against what were termed excessive American tariffs, which the chamber claimed recently were ordered paid in gold. The group claimed that Germany was unable to pay its debts save through exports, which the tariffs handicapped.

Chicago Mercantile Mart Field Day Is Tomorrow

Trading in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange will close at 10:45 a. m., tomorrow to permit the butter and egg traders to hold their annual field day at the Westward Ho Country club.

CORD CREDITED WITH A COUP IN TAXICAB DEAL

Paid Less than Million for Checker Control.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The latest coup of Errett Lobban Cord, youthful Chicago capitalist, in winning control of the Checker Cab Manufacturing company and putting himself in the foremost position in the field of taxicab manufacturing and operation was the talk of the financial district yesterday.

Some observers were inclined to believe that Cord and his associate Lucius B. Manning had stolen a march on the Raskob-Du Pont group which held a large block of the company's stock.

It was revealed for the first time yesterday how Cord came into possession of the controlling interest. Morris Markin, former president of Checker, obtained an option to purchase 60 per cent of the capital stock of 108,362 shares about 3 months ago. The option was obtained from the estate of R. W. Ellis and the du Pont interests and gave Markin the privilege of buying the stock at a price considerably below the current market.

Buys Ousted Head's Option.

Markin was removed as president of the company two weeks ago and his option was about to expire. When he was ousted the management knew that he held the options, but did not believe that he could raise the money to exercise them. Markin sold the options to Cord, who exercised them just before the expiration date. Markin is now back in as president and the directors who ousted him are out of jobs. The board was reorganized and Cord men were put in.

Bankers scoffed at the idea that Cord had picked a fight with the potent Du Pont interests in executing his quick deal. It was pointed out that two Cord properties, Lycoming Motor and Columbia Axle, have been selling parts to Checker for a number of years and Cord's deal was a natural one designed to insure a market for his products.

Checker Stock Advances.

Checker stock advanced sharply on the New York exchange yesterday to nealy $20 as compared with a low of $7.50 earlier this year. It was learned definitely that the option price was less than the current market which would mean that Cord paid considerably less than $1,000,000 for control of the company.

Somewhat dazzled at the speed with which Cord executed his latest deal, La Salle street speculated yesterday over what the next move of the ambitious transportation capitalist would be. By a series of deals he has entrenched himself in the fields of airplane manufacture and operation, automobiles, shipbuilding, and taxicab manufacture and operation.

STEEL INDUSTRY HOLDS UP WELL, REVIEW REPORTS

Despite the uncertainty which has crept into the industrial and business situation lately, due to the slowness of the NRA program to get under way, says the Daily Metal Trade, business in the iron and steel industry is holding up remarkably well.

New buying is less in evidence but the letdown in this respect is considered partly a normal seasonal development, especially since so many consumers covered their requirements some time back. Steelmakers are confident that a resumption of buying will develop early next month.

Meantime, operations in the steel industry are holding around 55 per cent of capacity, and indications are order backlogs are sufficient to maintain their rate the balance of the month.

HOG AVERAGE UNDER $4 FIRST TIME SINCE MAY

Word of Processing Tax Has Little Effect.

Hogs on the Chicago market yesterday averaged $3.95, the first time the average has been below the $4.00 line since May 6. On May 18, after a two weeks' sensational advance, the price was $5.20, highest in 1933, top sales that day reaching $5.50 for small lots. Yesterday's peak was $4.65, with the range of prices the widest since early last fall.

No change was found in the general condition of the trade. Light and light butchers were comparatively scarce and in good demand at strong prices, in places selling as much as 5 to 10 cents above the average of the preceding session and fully steady with the high point of Monday, while weakness prevailed in all classes of heavy stock.

Tax Plan of Little Effect.

An announcement from Washington that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had stated that a processing tax may be levied on hogs on Oct. 1 had little influence on the trade, since both buyers and sellers had been anticipating such a tax, but had no definite word as to the date.

Prospects of the tax and the increasing tonnage of heavy product piling up in storage were the bearish factors in big type swine again. Losses of 5 to 15 cents were recorded in butchers and packing sows exceeding 275 pounds in weight. The movement was heavier at most markets, the total at the eleven leading centers for yesterday at 72,000, showing an increase of 19,000, compared with a week earlier.

Heavy Runt Shaves Cattle.

Cattle prices came under the pressure of some of the largest receipts in many months yesterday and went down mostly 15 to 25 cents, with the close the low point of the day. The seven leading markets handled a combined total of 108,000 head. This compared with 95,000 the previous Tuesday and with 90,000 a year ago. Simultaneously with the increased marketing there was a narrowing of demand.

As a big share of the receipts consisted of the light and medium weight steers of only fair finish, these kinds were subjected to the sharpest price cuts. Three carloads of yearlings averaging 996 to 1,098 pounds topped the market at $7.25, going to Swift for shipment east. Seven dollars was paid for 1,433 pound averages, while the bulk of the steer cron-cashed within a range of $5.65 to $6.85.

Lamb prices went down 25 cents more early yesterday, closing at the low point of the session when 15,000 were reported on the way for today's trade. Natives were sorted by packers at $7.50 to $8.00. Thirty-one carloads of western range lambs sold at $8.25 and under.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Raw sugar was firmer today, recovering about half of a 10 point decline registered late yesterday. The market closed at $3.45 for spot. Sales reported included 43,500 bags of Cuban late yesterday at $3.40@3.41, while today 12,000 bags of Puerto Rican and 14,000 bags of Cuban sold at $3.45 for September and October shipment. Except for a little irregularity at the outset sugar futures were firmer reflecting the better tone of the spot market, with final prices showing net advances of 5 to 6 points. Sales, 27,700 tons. Prices follow:

Yesterday's sharp reaction had evidently improved the technical position and as there was less pressure, prices responded to moderate covering and some buying by trade interests, against sales in the spot market. Prices follow:

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 15.—Though some sellers were receiving many inquiries, business in the Boston wool market was sporty today. Prices, however, continued very firm.

It was learned that particularly light shrinkage Ohio delaine wool had been sold at 33c a pound in the grease, though the price range for Ohio delaine and similar wools could be as high as 32c. Ohio half bloods were quoted at 32@33c, ¾ and ⅝ bloods at 35@36c. Territory fine combing wools sold at 78@80c a pound; clean basis, ½ bloods at 75@77c; ⅜ bloods, 70@73c, and ¼ bloods, 65@67c.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Cotton goods continued weak in the gray goods division today with inquiries for finished lines gaining slowly. Blankets have been advanced again. Rayon yarns are stated to be closely sold among some producers for October delivery. Silk goods are in a little better request for fall. More interest is developing in new wool goods prices with more doing in dress goods and some types of coatings. Threatened strikes are expected to delay deliveries. Burlaps showed little change.

WANTED—MALE HELP.

Are You Ready to Stage a Come-Back?

Do you still have genuine confidence in yourself? Given an opportunity that has proved itself depression-proof, could YOU stage an honest-to-goodness "come-back"? Thousands can't—but some can! Thousands have little faith in themselves, but others have sufficient faith to try again. Our business is made up of men with that kind of strength in their backbones. That is why they are making good—some very good—others who have recently started, moderately so. Here are three men who have been in this business all the way from three to twenty months. The youngest, who was accepted by us three months ago, is F. J. He came over here from England to sell goods for his father. His business went flat in 1931. He is consistently making around $65 a week. He will increase steadily well beyond this. The second, who has been with us several months, T. P., once had a fleet of automobiles on the Gold Coast. His business also fell off and he got into this wholly strange line. Last week he made $138, and he has had better weeks than that. C. G., once a salesman, made $95 last week, and during the 20 months he has been here, he has steadily improved. He does business with people whom you might classify as broke and without hope. He sees plenty of hope there and gets lots of money in his dealings.

Here are a few of many men who made from $20 to $44.50 Saturday: H. W., once a broker, who lost a fortune in the cotton crash years ago; H. A. W., a former salesman and past 60 years of age; S. T., a former retail clerk on State-st.; H. E. M., and F. S., men from the trades. T. L. made $96 last week and often makes well above that.

They probably didn't belong in this picture originally any more than you do. They had to come in and talk it over, the same as I am inviting you to do. This was as strange to them as it is to you right now, but they had this advantage over some men: they were not sure that they could succeed, but they were not even sure that they would not fail. They believed that if others could make money and steadily increase their incomes they should have the same possibility. They knew that they were in on the same basis, and that this business comes as close to being a square deal as anything ever put together. No man gets any edge on any other man—none invests money or buys anything here, or is put to any other outlay to get going.

This is because the man starts in with the right mental start, and because we help him. It is impossible for us to make a penny out of you unless you make yours here and a lot more than we make. In fact, we are mighty particular to select men who have the stuff in them to make good. We would much rather see you make $6,000 a year than $2,000. We will help you increase to the bigger figure and can put you in touch with men who do a lot better than that. One man made $40,000 in this business, but I am not saying that you can do that, and until you are trying I am not saying that you can't. When you belong to an organization that has grown like that in it you can't help being inspired to go out and try to do likewise. We don't want square pegs to fill round holes or misfits. It is not to our advantage to take on men who can't do the job. It is to our advantage to exhaust every means to make a success if he has the mettle in him to do it. But we have found that such men aspire to better their living conditions, do better by their families, and get up in the world. It takes an ambitious man rather than a highly educated man—and it makes no difference what he did before. You will meet them all here—mechanics, tradesmen, business and professional men, farmers and lecturers. They meet here on common ground and get along together and help one another make more money.

You can see that men who have a tired feeling can't get very far here. They must have snap and a desire to progress in their makeup. They must be willing to work a little harder than they did before if the reward is great enough. And they have to be well spoken of, too—must furnish a few good references.

The men we want and will work hard to develop are men who wish to own their own homes, and earn and drive good cars, and dress well and educate their children. We want ambitious men who have plans for a future. There's room here for men like that. We welcome them and train them and put real money back of their efforts. We have men in this office who have been with us three to seven years. This is a business that is attractive to men who like to make good.

Now, I have given you a fair idea of what this business means and the kind of men who succeed in it. I invite you to call for a personal interview on Wednesday, Aug. 16, at Room 215 at 1648 Wilson-av., just east of Broadway. I want you to come at TWO O'CLOCK in the afternoon—and no other time. I shall get into the office about ten or fifteen minutes before that time ready to interview you. Ask for John H. Wright.

Be a Leading Beautician

Marinello Beauticians have always shown the way. They have many imitators—but there is nothing that takes the place of a Marinello certificate. It unquestionably establishes its holder's leadership and authority.

Armed with a Marinello certificate, you can depend upon being placed in the best positions. It
